Funeral Sunday For Lt. Browning

The remains of the late Second Lieutenant George Blalock Browning, 22, will arrive in Newberry Saturday night and be carried to the McSwain Funeral Home, where it will remain until the hour of the services.

Lt. Browning was born in Goldville (now Joanna), and was the son of Mrs. Nell Adams Browning and the late James L. Browning. He was a graduate of Clinton High School and was a student at the Citadel at the time he entered service and would have graduated from there in the class of 1944.

After entering service, Lt. Browning was sent overseas and served with Company M, 335th Infantry, 84th Division, Railspitters, and was engaged in combat through France, Holland and Belgium. He was killed in action in Belgium, January 4, 1945 in the battle of the Bulge. His body was buried in a United States Military Cemetery at Neuville-en-Condroz, Belgium.

Lt. Browning's Silver Star citation reads: "For gallantry in action against the enemy in 4 January 1945, when a platoon leader was wounded during the withdrawal of his company under intense artillery and mortar fire, Lt. Browning assumed command and after reorganizing the unit, led the platoon in a valiant effort to regain the lost position. In the performance of this courageous act, he lost his life. The tenacious, determined spirit, unswerving devotion to duty and commendable conduct displayed by Lt. Browning reflect the highest credit upon himself and in accordance with the finest traditions of the military service. Lt. Browning was killed while leading a rifle platoon in a company for which he was mortally wounded, after all the regular officers of the company had been killed or wounded. This was the third occasion that he had assumed command of one company or another, when all the officers were gone."

A young man in the same division wrote to his mother that Lt. Browning was turned in for promotion by the regimental commander himself, a rare occurrence and that his death was mourned throughout the entire regiment. He also stated that their company had built a new athletic field and dedicated it to Lt. Browning and another officer also killed in Belgium. The field was called Browning-Sanders Field.

Funeral services will be held Sunday afternoon at 4 o'clock from the family vault in Joann with Rev. H. F. Bouknight, Rev. H. C. Ritter and Rev. G. H. Hodge conducting the service.

He is survived by his mother, Mrs. Nell Adams Browning and one sister, Miss Violet Browning, both of Newberry, and his grandmother, Mrs. M. E. Browning of Clinton. A number of aunts, uncles and other relatives survive.

Honorary pallbearers will be: Wilbur Yates, Keitt Purcell, Herbert Griffin, Powell Way, Jr., Bobby Duncan, Eugene Pinsky, Charles Yarborough, Workman, Jr., Kelly Waites, James Simpson, Harry Baldwin, Rufus Saddle, Billy Nabors, William Dobbins, Lewis Pitts, J. C. Lambert, Hugh E. Brock, Alec Crawford, Otho Johnson, Mac Hipp. Flower attendants will be: Mary Nancy Robertson, Betty Baker, Josephine Copeland, Mrs. Forrest Adair, Mrs. James Simpson, Mrs. Barbara Counts, Doris Baldwin, and Mrs. Annette Henderson.

Free Quail Are Now Available

Persons wishing to raise quail may get the one-day old chicks free from Herman Wise, game warden of the county. Mr. Wise now has 50 pairs of birds to supply those wishing chicks. There are, however, a couple of conditions which must be met. Those taking the day-old chicks must have a thermostatically controlled brooder and agree to return half of what he raises to Mr. Wise. He also agrees not to sell the other (his half) outside the county. The birds returned to Mr. Wise will presumably be loosed on public property.

This work is being carried on under the direction of the Newberry County Wild Life Conservation Committee of which "Dad" Amis is president. Cost of the work is being borne by the State game department.

The objective of the work is, of course, to increase the quail population of the county. If you want some of the birds, see Mr. Wise. The order is first come, first served.

The main address was by Dean H. G. Prince of Presbyterian College, who delighted the crowd with humorous stories, reminiscent of the childhood of all church people.
