Farmers Soon Make Returns

Washington, Dec. 28.—Farmers have two important income-tax dates with the Federal Government next month. They are the familiar January 15 and a new one, January 31.

January 15 is the day for filing declarations of estimated tax and paying that tax on 1949 income. These estimates and payments may be made earlier if the taxpayer farmer desires, but January 15 is the final day.

However, if a farmer files his final return for 1949 and pays the tax in full for that year on or before January 31, he is not required to make out an estimated tax return. That is a new provision of the income tax law.

Previously farmers were required to make final returns by January 15 if they wished to avoid filing estimated tax returns.

Taxpayers other than farmers who are required to file estimates still must make a final return by January 15 if they want to avoid the work of making an estimate otherwise due on that date. The tax law defines a farmer as one who receives two thirds or more of his gross income from farming.

There are two possible advantages in filing a final, regular, return on or before the January dates. One is the saving of extra paper work and the other is that taxpayers who have refunds due them will get them sooner than if they wait until March 15.

If a farmer does not file a final return by January 31, he is required to make an estimated tax return by January 15 and a final return on or before March 15.

Holiday House Is Success

Prosperity's first "Holiday House" was a success. The spacious home of Dr. and Mrs. George W. Harmon was never more lovely than it was in its festive decorations when the hostess to the people of Prosperity and the surrounding communities at its "Holiday House" on Tuesday afternoon, December 20, from three to five o'clock.

On either side of the front door were two decorated cedar trees. On the door was a large red poster with the message, "Merry Christmas to All."

Receiving in the living room were Mrs. Harmon, Miss Ethel Counts, and Miss Effie Hawkins. The mantle scene was probably the first the guests viewed. The mantle was set with a miniature church choir composed of candle choir boys, a hand-carved pipe organ with graduate gilded pipes made from broom handles, and a hand painted stained glass window, all inclosed with a maroon velvet draped railing. The scene was created by Mrs. Harmon. Red gladioli in floor containers were placed on either side of the fireplace.

Three arrangements of camellias were used in this room. On the mirror top coffee table was a low container of Em-pucks on either side. Under a large round gilt framed mirror was a side table decoration of Debutante camellias wound around a large gilt candle, and three angel statues on graduated pedestals surrounded by angel's hair. On another table was an arrangement of Alba Plena camellias in pine needles and centered with a Madonna statuette. An unframed mirror reflected this scene.

The bannisters were decorated with cedar garlands caught up at intervals with wide red satin bows of ribbon. On the landing was a container with limbs of magnolia leaves each centered with cream-colored light bulbs to give the effect of magnolia buds. The long window seat was stacked with wrapped packages.

Mrs. G. Y. Hunter and Mrs. B. T. Young received in the children's room. Just inside the door, on top of the radio, the white cotton snow man with his red satin top hat and bonie seemed to be keeping watch over the room. Keeping him company was an apple Santa Claus. Balloons, stockings and berries holly were used in the room.

In one corner was a large cedar tree, decorated with pine, gold and red balls, bookcase china angels. The bookcase held red balls nestled in a ring of ivy leaves and pyracantha berries.

The doors from the sun parlor to the living room was also draped with cedar swags and red satin ribbon bows.

More Than a Day

The New Year, "reviving old desires," and something the poet never mentioned — old resolutions, is being trumpeted in.

It is accorded this fanfare because it is more than a day in "this petty pace" and continuity of life. It is a brief halt and a starting over. It is the abandonment of despair and the donning of hope.

It is a social time. We of this newspaper join all of you in the celebration. We want to attend the wake for 1949 and the birth of 1950 with all the blare of horns and laughter.

Also in your fellowship, we pray that the world may achieve its goal of peace in 1950 and that our community see fulfilled all its plans for betterment.

Strictly on our own, we wish for you a —
