VOL. XIL NO 1.

DARLINGTON, S. C., THURSDAY, JANUARY 7, 1886.

WHOLE NO 574.

elected Poetry

Morriage Stilces and Oblivaries, not

Ring, Bells, Ring! did the angels sing : ing, bells—ring! birthday of Ear th's King, bells—rine! Manght of wealth and naught of power Showed Meelf in that still hour; But our Lord himself was born But our Lord himself was born In a manger, Christmas morn.
Beffly slopt the Holy Child, Watched by Mary, mother mild;
Wise men, guided by a star.
Came from different countries far f
Shepherds, by their flocks at night
Hastened then away, to see If in the manger Christ could be. it was, the calm, sweet morn, Jesus, Prince of Peace was bern the birthday of Earth's King g. bells-ring! peace the day doth bring.

ets, in which the summer own with som estion that puzzles you, Could't try doctor. Ob, dear me!" .Why don't you mary, said the loctor. "They need so much months or so, at least, dangling at least different what can be want?"

a woman's apron strings. You she is gay, and to church if she is pious. At fifty a man likes his alippers and dressing gown and chair of an evening. If it was just song to ask which may require stepping over to the clergyman's and getting married, putting a ring on her inger and saying or nodding yes two or three times, why I wouldn't mind it, you of ideals means, ma'am,"

"Ah, well, courting is the fun of it all, in my opinion," said the old in its dably?"

doctor, "but every one to his taste."
"" understo And my advice to you is to get out into the country."

"To another hotel and more mercenary waiters !" said Mr. Patter-

"No," said the doctor; "go to a nice, private home. I know one—a motherly widow ledy, who cooks a dinner fit for a king. River before the house, woeds behind it, orchard to the left, kitchen garden to the right; no fever and ague; no mosquitoes. Hesvenly! I am going up there to morrow, and I'll see if ahe'll take yes."

"Yery well," said Mr. Patterson; "I thick I will try it."

"And you must drink planty of

"And you must drink plenty of milk and eat plenty of nice home-made bread."

"Yes, I will," said Patterson overjoyed at least at hearing some-thing that sounded like a prescrip-

And you would addi "Quart of it every day. "I'll take a net of it."

son, "and if I should she'll sures ma." "Splendidly," said Mr. Patterson theu day, and when the lit ming him that the wie willing to "take him him" reached him, he and portmentent aire and was ready to start noon. As for the wide money; thinks him but he hates the ides of will you have mer in elergyman, but then lors are peculiar generally.

The widow was a smar She had married at nover failed to have her over when other people we ing out theirs. Her bress rose, her cake was always her butter always sweet. It's she had married off daughters, was well-to do with her, and she added to her plentiful savings by taking a summ

"Fifty and a bachelor," said Mrs. Muntle, looking in the glass. "Well, it access a pity; but when elderly gentleman marry it is to some hity-tity girl that leads them a terrible life, and likely it's for the best."

Then she looked in the glass again; for the widow was but a

Mr. Patterson came to the wid-ow's and obeyed the doctor's pre-scription carefully. He ate bread and milk, robbed the orchard like a bout a fortuight's time, to tell him strawberry short-cake after a fach-ion that would have made his rep-utation at the bar. Then too Mrs. Muntle did not smile at his aches and pains and ineist that he must be perpetually well because he had a fresh complexion and dimples on on his cheeks. She had savery herb teas and potions which she produced when he complained of

For two months and more, Mr. tle, and happier months he never lived through. Then he went back to the city for a few weeks, returnache and he hated the ing in argent need of more pellets from the medicine chest, and staying until the last pink chrysantheore the green baves had mum was blooming on its withered branches, and proved geranich had come to be so popular in law York, summer fresh ses.

Ing until the last pink chrysanthemum was blooming on its withered branches. He had grown so fond of his little room, with its white curtains and fresh grass-bleached linen, of the country good things linen, of the country good things and of the buxom Mrs. Muntle, sils me, that he could not bear the thought elings are of parting with them altogether. to dine with him, and be as happy to dine with him, and be as happy as tore down as possible. If only he could approach his hostess, showing her as he did so that he considered her west Point are very numerous. ever. No doubt I have caught she certainly was; a cle gyman's the day for him to get a bad mark ases, and it's the compli- daughter and the widow of a coun. for being late. At the inspection relish my coffee this morning; left my milk toast untonched. Hateful ally mustered courage for the effort, life, that of a bachelor at a hotel. and walked into the front parlor hangs on the second nail in the allowed the second nail in the second nail in the second nail in the allowed the second nail in the and sent the servant to ask Mrs. cove, or if the shell jacket has chanthen? Muntle to please step there for a ged places with the night shirt. The moment.

You spend a rious!" though Mrs. Muntle and towels immaculate. gled into the barracks a basket of fruit which a friend had sent to us. We placed the basket upon a board wedged far up the chimney, where it was to remain until we had a the Academy of Music. chance to invite a few friends to the feast. My chum was at the section room and I working at my mathematics, when a little flaxen haired ope you know I'm a man ideable means, ma'am," stood at attention during his inspection. He found nothing out of bachelor, "able to t uy a nicerefurnish it well and live and said : understood, Mr Patter-"There is fruit in this room, is there not?" pourse it is pleasanter ray than at a hotel," lge it might be," cautiously. said Mr. Patnow a bachelor is of servants if A gentleman refinement the last of the fruit disappear> s, and mer-poor depend-Mrs. Mun-Said Captain George W. Stone > > alone

Letor koev him. He's go ie widow.

otable degree disposition, and I understand your ways and tustes."

Mr. Paterson listened. He saw boarder or two, if they happened to offer.

"Fifty and a bachelor," said Mrs.
Muntle, looking in the glass. "Well, looked at Mrs. Muntle. She and very nice and comely and ten years his junior, at least, if she was forty. He could not have done a better thing, and would be married with-out any troublesome courting. So he at once put his arm around Mrs. Muntle's waist and said:

school-boy, and reclined over the that he had taken both his prescrip-

"It is impossible to judge of a person's military ability by his standing at West Point," said an old cadet recently. "If a young fellow is a trifle careless and forgets to invert his washbowl a few dozen times a year, and goes to parade with a spot on his trousers, or with his boots unblacked, he may pile up demerits that will give him a poor place in his class, though he may have a good standing in his studies. The boys who avoid any kind of fun that might lead to black marks. are far from favorites at West Point.

"One cadet, who spent the last two months of his cadet life in light prison, was found at graduation to have more than one hundred demerits for the .preceding six months. He passed his examining in studies, After all, why could he not buy a house and get Mrs. Muntle to half-dozen by to the haven't a she could have plenty of servants.

Then, indeed, he might have friends to discharge, and she could have stood second in a class of sixty. He managed to get an appointment in the army from civil life, and is now a lightenant of infantry. but his deficiencies in discipline lientenant of infantry.

ported for breaches of discipline at up with it. of quarters the cadet gets demerits if he is found in his room coatless, wash bow _____bottom up, the | _____ ruish clean, the water an full, Go to

"My room mate and I once smugieutenant of cavalry came in and I the way and started to leave, when suddenly he stopped, sniffed a little to exercise, made him angry. He people don't jug down the throat of the officer in charge."-N. Y. Sun.

"I decline to answer, sir,' said I.

> yesterday; "I don't believe any man ever went into a battle without feeling frightened. I know I never did. I'll tell you when a man forming his men into line for a big | ear:

Colpg Into Battle.

bettle while a little skirmishing fire battle while a little skirmishing fire is kept up all the time. Every minute or so some one, may be your best friend, standing right next to you ute or so some one, maybe your best friend, standing right next to you will shrick out "Oh, my God!" and fall back dead, yet you cannot let to u. said Mr. Patterson. your men fire, for the army must be drawn up first. There is plenty of time to think. You don't dare to retaliate in any way. The next benuiful house, and you have complete control of hing; only to make my strawquietly and take it all. But when the order comes to fight and the exto de. You have a duty to perform at any cost. Bullets drive into the ground at your feet, sending up the little clouds of dust; they whistle pact your cers, and maybe out the administration of narcotics to in your clothing. Shells and achraping and soon there comes a feeling that some good fortune prefecting that some good fortune prefect as feeling that some good fortune prefect as

How to Catch Cold.

Sit in a street car next to an open window. Leave off your heavy underclothng on a mild day.

Take a hot drink before going out into the cold or damp air. Let the boys comp at school dur-ing recess time without their bats. Sit in the passage or near an en-try after dancing for half an hour, Sit in a barber shop in your shirt sleeves while waiting to be shaved. Wear your light weight summer hosiery through November. Put on a pair of thin shoes in the evening when you call ou your girl. Fail to change your shoes and stockings after coming in on a very rainy day. Have your bair out and shampoo ed just as a change takes place in the weather.

Wear one of the new ladies' cutaway coats without a chamois of flannel vest underneath. Throw your overcoat open on a blustering winter day to show off your nice new necktie. Send the children out in antumn for exercise in short, thin stockings and skimpy skirts. Leave off your rough overcoat when you go driving, and wear your nice thin one to look like a swell. Go to the front door in a cobweb dress, and linger, bidding good night to your favorite young man. Take a hot bath in the evening and sit up in your room to finish the last pages of an exciting novel, Throw off your heavy coat when you reach the office in a hurry and Go down to breakfast without a wrap on a chilly morning before the fires have got fully started. Put the window of your sleepingroom up before you go to bed, es-put on your thin knock-about.

pecially if the window is near the Run a square to cat ha street car and take off your hat for a few moments to cool off when you catch

Go out into the lobby during a theatrical performance and promenade around without your over-Do your back hair up high when you have been accustomed to wear it low and go out on a windy day. horseback and stand saled and open air to a frient

Go to an evening party in a dress suit without putting our heavy underwear to compenate for the lightness of the cloth.

If you are bald-headed or have a susceptible back, sit during grand opera near one of the side doors in

Wear a thin vest of faucy pattern that protrudes a little below the coat and allow a part of the body that should always be warm get chilled .- Philadelphia Times.

A man who bad rested in the county hospital for two years made vant's room, while his friend went his appearance on the streets one day this week. The town was strange to him and he to the town. My refusal to criminate myself, a Old friends gazed at his bearded, resolved to take part in his initiaright that I was at perfect liberty cadaverious face, but, they knew tion, and procuring a gridiron, plato exercise, made him angry. He him not. He looked the old familiced it over the fire. It was not long turned everything in the room up-side down, until his attention was barman silently mixed his drink tively through the door, saw the directed to the chimney where the and gave no sign of recognition. utensil reddening in the heat. The fruit was found. He ordered it The waiter at the resturant where recollection flashed through his turned into the guardhouse, and the he had dined for years set a plate mind of masonic candidates, and next day, being called to the com-mandant's office on business, I saw the last of the fruit disappear-meal, lit his cigar and wandered "What is that, Bridget?" he eaamong the faces that were familiar gerly inquired. to him, but which had no smile of welcome for the man rescued, as it nian virgin, "it's only the gridirou were, from the grave.
"Alas," said he, "is there no one in all this great city that knows

Just then be felt a tap on the shoulder, and a deep, and not unfeels real badly. It's when he is friendly voice whispered in his

"Don't you tink it wash time dot leetle bill vas settled!"

It was his tailor, who first saw light under the shadow of Mount Olivet. The lost one grasped him by the hand and led him to the may in a few years torget thee, but himself and the lodge. thy creditors, never. Oh, man, if ions of your kind, if you would build for yourself a monument in the human heart, buy something, buy everything, and—have it put

A man was lately tried in En won't," the enemy alone fills your srind. sician testified that most is my own That weemy experience in the army aprape were composed of my, and I doe't believe that the and fatal results often a man lived who did not feel at the their use. He thought the making commencement of a fight that he musafe at any age under or Condensed Wisdom in A.

A good maxim is never out of A bitter jest is the poison of friendship. A truly great man borrows lustre from splendid ancestry. Among the base, merits begets envy; among the noble emulation. Affected simplicity is reflued imposture. A desire for admiration is the offspring of vanity. A few books well chosen are more use than a great library. A knowledge of our duties is the most useful part of philosophy. A chaste eye exiles licentious looks.

A careless watch invites a vigi lant foe Abundance is a trouble but competency brings delight.

Averice generally miscalculates, and as generally deceives. A wounded reputation 's seldom cured.

A knave discovered is the greatest fool. A man had better be noisoned in his blood than in his principles.

A virtuous man in a fair body, is like a fine picture in a good light. Affliction is the wholesome soil of virtue. Anger and haste hinder good counsel. Acquire honesty; seek humility; practice economy; love fidelity.

A faithful friend is a strong de-A flatterer is a most dangerous enemy. A man who breaks his word bids others to be false to him.

A good cause makes a stout heart and a strong arm Abundance like want, wins many A contented mind is a continual Adversity willingly un lergone is the greatest virtue. Adversity successfully overcome is the highest glory. Affected superiority makes good fellowship.

A wager is a fool's argument. Affectation in dress implies a flaw in understanding, Affectation in wisdom often prevents our becoming wise. A bad workman quarrels with hie tools,

A go ling stone gathers no moss died. It must be remembered that od paymaster is lord of an. Dickens himself made every shifling

A false hope is but dreaming while you're awake.

A penny saved is twice earned. At a great bargain, pause awhile. —Sigismund in Catholic Home.

He Did Not Wait.

A wor by sea-captuin entertained a fancy to become a Freemason. and was accordingly proposed and elected. A friend accompanied bim to the place of meeting, which was in a building, the lower part of which was used as a place of entertainment. The neophyte was left in an apartment next to the serapstairs to assist in the opening ceremonies. A Celtic maiden, who caught a glimpse of the stranger, ced it over the fire. It was not long

"And sure," replied the Hiberthat I was tould to place over the coals." "Who told you!" asked the eager captain. "Ard wasn't it the gentleman who came with you?" "What could be want with it?" demanded the captain. "And sure I can't tell," replied

Bridget. "They are often using it -it belings to the people up stairs. I always heat it when they want to make a Mason," This was too much for the excibrethren. The friend of thy bosom he soon put a safe distance between

A Great Discovery, Mr. Wm. Thomas, of Newton, Ia.,

says; "My wife has been seriously affected with a cough for twenty-five years, and this spring more severely than ever before. She had used many remedies without relief, and being urged to try Dr. King's New Discovery, did so, with most gratitying results. The first bottle relieved her very much, and the se-gond bottle has absolutely cured her. She has not had so good health for thirty years." Trial Bot-tles Free at Willox & Co'e drug atruggling along, trying to build up a town and rear a large family on $400 a year, discovers that a ba-e-ball sitcher haula $4,000 for a response play it makes him at

Crooked Answers.

School children often become posessed of many singular and amusing ideas. Here are some in the form of answers to questions asked by their teachers.

"Describe the heart." "It is a comical-shaped bag." "What is a volcano?"

"A volcano is a large mountain with a hole at the top and a fireplace at the bottom, and sometimes the fire comes out at the top and destroys the cities at the bottom, if there are any." "Mention any occupation considered injurious to health."

"Occupations which are consid ered injurious to health are carbolic acid gas, which is impure blood." "Is a bootmaker's trade considered injurious to health?"

"Yes, very injurious; because the bootmakers press the boots against the thorax, and therefore it presses the thorax, in, and it touches the heart, and if they do not die they are cripples for life." "What is the feminine of goose?"

"Ganderess." " an you tell where Bishop Lati ner was burned to death?" "In the fire." Another pupil writes:

"When food is swallowed it passes through the windpipe, and the chyle passes up through the back bone, and reaches the heart, where it meets the oxygen and is purified.."

Dickens' Earnings.

In an article on the gains of au thors, which has recently been reprinted in a number of newspapers, surprise is expressed that Dickens should not have left a larger fortune than £80,000. I bave an impression that Dickens' total property amounted to nearly £100, 000, but of that a considerable proportion must have come from the profits of his reading. There is no doubt that Dickens made some very during a period of five years he man said to the old negro: ought to have been receiving £10, "Isom, ain't you afraid of 000 a year for his works: but one ghosts?" cannot form any estimate of his total "gains" from literature by the

Which he ever possessed, and hered has not only lived in a very liberal "Case, san, w ... chan a nusson style for thirty years, keeping up a dey goes to heaben or purgatory, considerable establishment, and of one" ten traveling without much regard to cost, but he also brought up a large and expensive family, -Lun- dev can't get er way; an' if dey goes don Trnth.

Luck and Labor, If the boy who exclaims "just my nck!" was truthful, he would say "just my laziness!" or "just my inattention." Mr. Cobden wrote pro verbs about Luck and Labor. It would be well for boys to memorize them:

Luck is waiting for something to turn up.

Labor, with keen eyes and trong will, will turn up something. Luck lies in bed and wishes the the news of a legacy.

Labor turns out at six o'clock. and with busy pen or ringing hain mer lays the foundation for competence.

Luck whines. Labor whistles. Luck relies on chances. Labor on character. Luck slips down to indigence. Labor strides up to independence.

trotters, and even of yearlings, has attracted wide attention lately. after she had matured, and, after opponent retired at twenty with table, and it came her wind as sound as a fox bound's, her limbs as cle in as a gazelie's, and her body without spot or bleinish. It was when she was nineteen is that an owner of property despears old that she downed Smag gler, who beat her two heats, tied her one, and then had to yield to locomotive may recover its full valoutstripped him in the fourth, fith withstanding the fact ti at the proand sixth heats successively-the perty was fully insured and the in-

Bucklen's Arnies Salve.

The dest Salve in the world for Outs, Bruises, Ulcers, Salt Rheum, Fever Sores, Tetter, Chapped Hands, Chilblains, Corne, aid all Skin Eruptions, and positive in Solid cash.

St. Mary's Oity, where the first ourse Piles, or no pay required. It is guaranteed to give perfect satis faction, or money refunded. Price 25 cents per box. For sale by Willcox & Co's. Drug Store.

Cash on Delivery.

Ourjob department issupplied with every facility necessary to enable us to compete both as toprice and quality of work. with e .. n

those of the cities, and we guarantee saties faction in every particular or charge nothing for our work. We are always prepared to fill orders at short notice for Blanks, l'ill

Heads, Letter Heads, Cards, hand bills

Posters, Circulars, Pamphlets, &c. All job work must be paid for Bits and Tidbits. An exchange asks why so many editors are bow-legged. It's the weight of their brains .- Burlington Free Press.

Sam Jones' three Gs "grace, grit and greenbacks"—will run a country bewspaper as well as a camp meeting .- Thomson (Ga.) Jour:

Beecher says there are times when a man must either swear or burst, There has never been a well authenticated case of an editor bursting .-Philadelphia Call.

An editor whose three mouths? imprisonment for libel will expire in two days, peers through the bars of his cell and writes of "The Hopeful Iron Qutlook,"-Norristoun Her: ald.

Tigers will lie for hours in a sinle spot without attracting attennon. And so will a large percen: tage of the reportorial staff of the average Chicago newspaper. - Chicago Telegram.

If poets were as solid with the editors as advertisers are, the muse would be roosting in the sanctum with her feet on the etagere and her pockets loaded with fifteen cent cigars - Merchant Traveler.

The skeleton of a man nine feet oue irch in height has been found in a cave in Missouri, An exchange thinks it is the remains of an editor, but editors in that State are generally a "little short."-Norristown Herald.

We don't mind taking country produce occasionally in payment tor subscription, but we do object to having our subscribers send in eight or ten-year old roosters with a note attached to credit them with a pair of chickens. - Kinston (N. C.) Memizen.

Uncle som and the Chost.

Uncle Isom was whitewashing an bad bargains with publishers in his old, dilapidated house on Whitehall early days, and I know that his street yesterday. The interior had friend Talfourd once calculated that a ghostly appearance, and a gentle-

> "No, sah; dat I ain't, young mars; ter," was the reply. as the old man's face loomed up with a smile.

died. It must be remembered that "You are not?" "Dar are no ghosts" "How do you know?"

"An' et dey goes ter purgatory to heaben dey don't wanter get er way an' cum back 'er scollopin' 'roun dis wurl. I'se too ole fer to let dat kind er mesmerisin' bizness boddep

If you are suffering with low and depressed spirits, loss of appetite, general debility, disordered blood, weak constitution, headache, or any disease of a bilious nature, by all means procure a bo tle of Electric Bitters. You will be surprised to see the rapid improvement that will postman would come and bring him follow; you will be inspired with new life, strength and activity will return; pain and misery will cease. and henceforth you will rejoice in the praise of Electric Bitters. Sold at fifty cents a bottle by Willcox &

A German who has studiously watched every movement of the boney bee, asserts that they are excellent storm warners. He says that on the approach of thunder storms bees, otherwise gentle and The phenomenal performance of storms bees, otherwise gentle and two-year old harm'ess, become irritable, and will at ouce attack any one, even their usual attendant, approaching their But it may be doubted whether hives. A succession of instances these precious youngsters will ever are given in which the barometer be able to show such a record as and bydrometer foretell a storm, Goldsmith Maid, who began to train the bees remaining quiet, and no storm occurred; or the instruments twelve years of strugge for the gave no intimation of a storm, but lead, and having vanquished every the bees for hours before were irri-

A singular decision is credited to the supreme court of Indiana, It the stamina of the Jersey mare, who ue from the railway company, notvery last of which was won in surance company has paid the loss, 2,19.

Avour Branch Store, on the Square, we are offering to the public finest assortment of General Groseries, Canned Goods, Delicacies, Wines faction, against at prices that dely competition are both 25 cents per box.

A. HAUSMANN. Manager.