On Friday morning, just as na pardies ture began to wake from its night ly sleep and put on brighter hues, there passed from out amongst us brighter world beyond, the spirit sketch: of our well beloved and honored citizen, Jno. Woods. With our citizens is left the memory of his work and zeal for the benefit of the town, his good example set by close and steady application to the work before him, his correct bearing as a man and his just and honorable dealing in mercantile life. To our town he will be a sad loss as a citizen, to the county. Democracy as a member of the local "committee of Ten" in the Darlington club, to his church as an earnest worker and liberal contributor, to the mercantile interests as an honorable competitor, and to the state as a good citizen. In his tamily circle as son, brother, husband and father, the loss is truly sad, but their sorrow is their own. Let us not intrude into this sacred circle, except to extend our deepest sympathies, and by such means as we poor mortals can, lighten their sorrows.
