Congressman Dargan on the Silver Question.

Daring the debate on the Bland silver bill in the House of Ropresentatives on Saturday, Mr. Dargan, declared that the so-called friends of silver held the light of experience in contempt, and held that those who differed with their views were enemies not only of this country, There are fourteen Ex-Union offi-2.9785 build altars and monuments just like that one at Babel, but we shall not fall down and bow before them.

We know that Garrison only started the abolition theory to make of our started the abolition theory to make secretary of the treasury, but all they had done h d been to send forth an empty blast of words. They had been fierce in tongue but gentle in action. It was now proposed to permit the free coinage of silver, while the undeviable fact was that, having been fully and fairly tried in this country and Europe, free coinage and bi metallism had always been and would always be a complete failure. Mr. Dargan made a strong plea for the estalishment of a single gold standard and advecated the suspension of coinage under the Bland Act. declaring that the socalled debt paying dollar was in reality a debt scaling dol'ar-nothing but eighty cents worth of bul lion with a falsehood stamped upon it.
