ECONOMY IN GAS.

It is little short of marvellous how many women who pride themselves on their economy will waste dollars in one direction to save pennies in another. A good instance of this can be seen in the way so many go on using single saucepans on gas or gasoline-stoves, simply because they have them, never seeming to realize that they are wasting more every month in the additional fuel consumed by keeping a fire under each separate pan than the cost of the double or triple cooking utensils for use over a single burner.—Harper's

When removing the pie from the oven, unless you are positive that the undercrust is crisp, place on top of stove a few moments. Then set the pie to cool on the strainer from the potato ricer, or even on a teacup, or a colander turned bottom up. The idea is to have the air circulate underneath and so cave the steaming process which must result if the pie is placed upon

"How much money really has he?" a shelf. If a cake seems difficult to remove from the pan, set it for a minute upon a cloth wet in cold water. This causes a quick sterming and the cake loosens almost instantly. If, however, you want to leave the cake in the pan, place this on a cup as per

FOR THE LAUNDRY.

For laundering silk stockings, soak first in water in which a little borax has been dissolved-just enough to give the slightest "smooth" feeling to the water. Then make a suds of pure white soap, turn the stockings inside out, wash, ripse and hang to "No; but I saw several women with dry. For colored stockings, soak in celors from "running." Fine pieces of lace may be washed, stretched on some smooth surface until dry, then placed between the leaves of some large book, a weight put on at, and this will save ironing.

Clothes that have grown yellow with lying long, may be whitened by boiling them in water to which has been added a tablespoonful of the following emulsion to half a boiler of water: Paraffin, lime water and turpentine, mixed in equal parts, well shaken before using. Bottle the mixture for use.

Delicate colors, embroideries, etc should be washed in bran water, or thin starch, rinsed well, and let get dry: dampen, roll up and iron with a moderately hot iron. A very hot iron will injure colors. To wash ribbons great care must be exercised, as they seldom look as well after washing as before. If gasoline will not clean them, place the ribbon on a board and brush gently with a very soft brush dipped in mild soap suds. Rinse the ribbon in the same way, washing the soap out and iron without drying, just as they are taken from the last water.-The Commoner.

Cookies- Cream one cup of butter with two cups of sugar, add three eggs, beaten separately, a teaspoonful each of cloves and cinnamon and a teaspoonful of boiling water. Stir in a cup of raisins, chopped, and enough flour to make a dough that can be rolled out. Bake in a rather hot oven.

Tarts - Large pans are required for tarts proper, the size of small, shallow pie tins; then, after the paste is baked and cooled and filled with the jam or preserves, a few stars or leaves are placed on the top, or strips of paste, criss-crossed, on the top, all of which have been previously baked in a tin by themselves.

Rice Balls-To one pint of hot my reading a book that is less than a boiled rice add a large cupful of fineyear old. As soon as I buy one by mineral chicken, a well beaten ezz, somebody forcews it and keeps it."- | sait and popper to taste, and sufficient cream sauce to meisten it slightly. Mix tog ther and set aside until cold. Form into small balls, egg and bread-crumb them, and fry in deep fat. Drain on unglazed paper and serve at once.

Caranal Junket - Cook threefourths of a cupful of sugar to a caramel, add hot water and let cook until a thick syrup is formed, cool and turn into a quart of rich milk and one cupful of cream. Add one-fourth of a cupful of sugar and warm the milk to just blood heat, then stir in one junket tablet dissolved in a tablespoonful of water. Turn into sherbet glass and let stand in a warm place until the mixture jellies. Chill before serving. Decorate with whipled cream flavored with vanilla.
