Over in South San Francisco, beyond the smelly Butcher town, is a little wild west show in session nearly every afternoon in the year.

RESCUING A COMRADE.

the not over luxurious cattle cars provided by the railroads. California soil has become too valuable to grow beef on of late years, and Arizona, Texas and the few remaining Territories now furnish its standard meat.

The boys who control the transportation are nearly all Americans, says a writer in the San Francisco Examiner, and their pride in their horsemanship prompts many an antic and daring feat to delight the audience that daily assembles to witness the boy's funeral march to the shambles.

Without money and without pride the on-lookers witness feats of riding that would make splendid extras on Buffalo Bill's programme. Some of their day-dream gallops over the broken hills in chase of a stray bullock are exciting in the extreme.

Recovering a dropped hat. But fancy kept on in a straight line, and in an instant Basser was alongside. He had to make a wide reach this time and there was a foot of daylight between his horse and the hat.

The modern cowboy has adopted the dupe silk and, in his blazer, shirt and four-in-hand looks too sweet for anything.

Now the stronger girl has adopted the dupe silk and, in his blazer, shirt and four-in-hand looks too sweet for anything.

The Empress of Germany dresses so simply and so inconspicuously that she might easily be mistaken for some young country matron on a first visit to the city rather than the wife of the Emperor.

Women have recently been admitted to Greenwich (England) Observatory, and four have joined the staff of the Astronomer Royal. Their duties will require attendance at all hours of the night.

The delicate, soft shade of brown called blonde with ivory white is one of the newest and prettiest combinations for girls and millinery. The color pink is also combined with the popular pumpkin yellow.

Measures are on foot to open female medical colleges next fall in St. Petersburg and Moscow, and a plan of establishing commercial colleges for women in various large cities of the empire is in preparation.

Oxford College, England, has thrown open its medical examinations to women. This, to be sure, does not give to women the certified right to practice under English law, but it is one more step toward opening educational advantages to women.

The old magnets red of twenty-five years ago is making its appearance in many different shades and seems likely to become a popular color, although it has by no means replaced the assertive scarlet and the rich, warm crimson, which so far hold their own against all comers.

White embroidery is used on silk dresses of all colors, pattern and designs. Sometimes the arrangement is in the form of braid, often it takes the shape of a square jacket, and more frequently the open worked muslin is encircled about the arm and puffed into a sleeve head.

Trains Blocked by Caterpillars. A plague of caterpillars similar to that which afflicted Northern Maine some years ago, has been added to the other drawbacks of a remarkable season down East. On the New Brunswick Railway the pests have congregated in such great numbers upon the rails that trains have been blocked for hours, and on the Bangor and Piscataquis it has been found necessary to sweep and sand the tracks before trains could proceed.

NEWS AND NOTES FOR WOMEN.

The English delight in feathers.

Long plumes are more frequently seen than flowers.

An attempt is being made to introduce perfume flowers.
