Religion would drive out all base person-alities from politics. You have a right to discuss men's politics and denounce their political sentiments, or receive them as you will; but you have no right to assail their private character, as is done every autumn. That is not carrying religion into politics. Now you can always tell without asking, in any contest, what candidate I will vote for. It is always for the man who is most bad-gered, and most abused, and most spit upon, and most howled at. You have a right to contest a man's political sentiments; you have no right, for base political purposes, to assail his private moral character. favor. That was a profitable investment you made. Mrs. Millais, wife of the famous English artist, is said to be the happiest woman in Europe, though it is hard to reconcile this statement with the fact that she keeps fifteen servauts.

A charming toilet recently worn at a fashionable garden fete was of white foulard, with a broad rose-pink stripe in it and a delicate and beautifully shaded flowering of pink roses between the stripes.

The reefer coats, warranted to resist the elements, are the rage just now. They are lined with brilliant silk, cut hip deep and double breasted, closed with eight brass buttons and finished with a step collar.

Brave Catherine Watson, of Glasgow, Scotland, a young art student, lost her life a year ago in saving a little boy from drowning. Her heroism has been com-memorated by a Celtic cross reared on a rock at North Berwick.

Sleeveless and zouave jackets are worn on some of the summer toilets. The maaterial used on cotton, muslin and gingham dresses is generally fine velvet, but against silk there is nothing prettier than embroidery or Irish lace.

Every window in Mrs. Geo. W. Child's Long Branch (N. J.) cottage is filled with a bright scarlet Lox thickly planted with palms, ferns, hanging vines and flowering plants. The contrast of the scarlet and green is most striking and very beautiful.

A novelty is the handkerchief dress, made of white cambric. The edges are hemstitched and ornamented with a border just like a handkerchief. The material has to be built on a silk foundation, as it hasn't substance enough to stand of itself.

A young woman has died in Sussex, England, from an excess of tennis. It seems she sought to make herself proficient for a tournament and played incessantly, often in the hot sun. Brain fever ensued, and in her last hours she raved about the game.

When Delmonico's Hotel, at the corner of Beaver and William streets, was built, in 1835, two handsome marble pillars, with their corresponding steps, were brought from Pompeii and erected at the entrance. They had previously been at the entrance of some old temple. When the hotel was demolished many persons expressed a regret that the pillars should be lost. They have been restored, however, to their old position at the entrance of the new office building

You need not go to Numidia to get among the lions. You all have had them after you --the lion of financial distrang the lion of sickness, the lion of persecution. You saw that lion of financial panic putting his mouth down to the earth, and he roared until all hearts. Your norse's hoofs went over their herves. Every item of your success has been to them an item of discomfiture and despair. Just as soon as in any respect you rise above your fellows, if you are more virtu-ous, if you are more wise, if you are more influential, you cast a shadow on the pros-pect of others. The road to honor and success is within reach of the enemy's guns. Jealousy says, "Stay down or I'll knock you down." "I do not like you," said the snowflake to the snowbird. "Why don't you like me?' said the snowbird. "On!" said the snowflake, "you are going up and I am coming down." Young mer-chants, young lawyers, young farmers, at certain times there were those to sym-pathize with you, but now that you are bethe banks and all the insurance companies quaked. With his nostril he scattered the ashes on the domestic hearth. You have had trial after trial, misfortune after mis-fortune, lion after lion; and yet they have never hurt you if you put your trust in God, and they never will hurt you. They did not hurt Daniel, and they cannot hurt you. The Persians used to think that spring rain falling into sea shells would turn into pearls; and I have to tell you that the tears of corand I have to tell you that the tears of sor-row turn into precious gems when they drop into God's bottle. You need be afraid of certain times there were those to sym-pathize with you, but now that you are be-coming master of your particular occupa-tion or profession, how is it now, young lawyers, young doctors, young artists, young farmers—how is it now? The greatest crime nothing putting your trust in God. Even death, that mouster lion whose den is the world's sepulchre, and who puts his paw down amid thousands of millions of the dead, that you can commit is the crime of success. Again, my subject impresses me with the value of decision of character in any depart-ment. Daniel knew that if he continued his adherence to the religion of the Lord he would be hurled to the lions, but having set his compass well be sailed right on.

down amid thousands of millions of the dead, cannot affright you. When in olden times a man was to get the honors of knighthood he was compelled to go fully armed the night before among the tombs of the dead, carrying a sort of spear, and then when the day broke he would come forth, and amid the sound of cornet and great parade he would get the honors of knighthood. And so it will be with the Christian in the night before heaven, as fully armed with spear and hel-met of salvation he will wait and watch through the darkness until the morning dawns, and then he will take the honors of heaven amid that great throng with snowy would be hurled to the lions, but having set his compass well he sailed right on. For the lack of that clement of decision of character so eminent in Daniel many men are ruined for this world, and ruined for the world to come. A great many at forty years of age are not settled in any respect, because they have not been able to make up their mind. Perhaps they will go West. Per-haps they will go East. Perhaps they will not. The words have a significant sound, and the curious ones will naturally ask a question or two. He will escertain the this anti-treating league is a society without any officers, by-laws, constitution or meeting place. He will also ascertain that the mometrs of the organization –if it can be dignified by the name, have no opportu-ities to confer with one another, unless it is when they meet upon at he street.
