

Reverie.
BY FATHER RYAN.

Only a few more years,
Weary years;
Only a few more tears,
Bitter tears;
And then—and then, like other men,
I cease to wander—cease to weep;
Dim shadows o'er my way shall creep,
And out of the Day and into the Night,
I go—and death shall veil my face,
And the feet of years shall fast efface
My very name, and every trace
I leave on earth, for them stern years
I read,
And then—and then like other men,
I close my eyes and go to sleep!
Ah! me, the grave is dark and deep.

Alas! alas!
How soon we pass!
And, oh! we go
So far away!

When do we meet,
From the light of life and the heat of strife,
To the peace of Earth, and the cold still
dust,
We go, and may not stay,
We travel far the long, dark, dreary
way.

Out of Day and into Night,
Into the Darkness, out of the Bright,
And then—and then, like other men,
We close our eyes and go to sleep,
Ah! me, the grave is lone and deep!

I saw a flower at morn so fair;
I passed at eve—it was not there;
I saw a sunbeam, golden bright,
I saw a cloud that sunbeam shrouded,
And I saw Night
Digging the grave of Day.
And sadly, slowly, laid it down;
And Day at morn the shroud fair broke,
And Twilight bent her brow and died,
And so, alas! like Day, we pass—
At morn we laugh,
At eve we weep;
At morn we awake,
At night we sleep;
We close our eyes and go to sleep!
Ah! me, the grave is lone and deep.

A Deserted Town.

The only ruined town in the United States, as far as we know, and certainly the one which possesses the most singular history is found on the New Jersey coast, hidden among the low wooded hills, which stretch back from the beach.

Stopping at a little station on the Central New Jersey Rail Road, the traveler finds the usual two or three new yellow wooden buildings; but half a mile beyond, in the midst of thick woods, he comes upon a deserted, empty town. There are rows of solidly-built blocks of brick dwellings; there are great founderies, and mills, and churches.

The grass grows knee-deep in the streets. Some of the buildings have crumbled into ruin and are bedded in moss, but the walls of most of them are standing. In the vacant rooms of the unroofed houses, trees have grown, and rank weeds flaunt gayly, while the American ivy climbs up to the top of the gigantic chimneys, which used to belch forth volumes of fire and smoke and waves its crimson banner in triumph.

Half a dozen laborers' families have found shelter in the best of the old buildings, but their presence only seems to make the solitude more apparent. The town is enclosed in a fence, and a rusty gate creaks on its hinges to admit the curious visitor.

The story told by the superstitious neighbors, to account for iron works in a lonely district where there was neither ore, fuel, or market, or means of transportation, is that the works were a mere shield for the operations of the noted pirate, Gibbs, and his gang, who used them as a place of deposit, coming and going in the boats which brought the ore up the inlet to the town. They allege that on the very day, forty years ago, when Gibbs was hung, the works closed, and the buildings have stood unused ever since.

Unfortunately for the truth of the romantic story, the town belongs to a very respectable family, whose estate has been in litigation for many years, a sufficient clue, probably, to all mysteries.

Suicide.

On Wednesday last John Allison, living near Dunbar's Rock in Transylvania county, N. C., committed suicide, by hanging himself. It is said that domestic troubles was the cause, and becoming weary of this life, he secured a pair of leather reins, proceeded to the woods near by, and put an end to his life in the following manner: He climbed a tree with the leather reins in his hand, scarcely fastened one end to a limb some distance from the body of the tree, formed a noose at the other end which he placed around his neck, and jumped off his feet reaching to within six inches of the ground. He was found hanging in this position by his friends, from his appearance when found he appeared awful strangulation. The rope death came to his relief, as his neck was not broken. John Allison was well known to many of our merchants having been a wagoner hauling produce to Greenville market for many years. — Greenville News.

Reduction.

Owing to the general decline in the price of cotton and other produce, we have concluded to put the price of our paper down to ONE DOLLAR AND FIFTY CENTS per annum, thus placing it within the reach of all. Send in your names at once.

THE COLUMBIA REGISTER
DAILY, TRI-WEEKLY & WEEKLY.

Best Newspaper ever published at the Capital of South Carolina.

Circulation Large and Constantly Increasing.

WE RESPECTFULLY INVITE THE attention of the reading community to the excellent newspapers we are now publishing in Columbia. THE REGISTER is the only paper ever published at the capital of South Carolina which is conducted as are the leading dailies of the principal cities of the country. We have an able and distinguished corps of editors—gentlemen well known all over the State for their learning, ability and sound Democratic principles—men who have served the State and the South on every occasion when their duties required their service, and who may safely be depended upon as reliable leaders of the Democracy in the line of journalism.

THE DAILY REGISTER is a twenty-eight column paper, 24 by 36 inches, printed on good paper and with large, clear cut type, containing the Latest Telegraphic News, Full Market Reports, editorial matter on the leading occurrences of the times, and replete with interesting miscellaneous reading. The Local News is full and interesting, one of our departments. Our correspondence from Washington and other places of note gives an entertaining resume of all the important events of the day.

THE TRI-WEEKLY REGISTER, with some minor changes, comprises the contents of the Daily at $2.50 less per annum.

THE WEEKLY REGISTER is a large, handsomely gotten up eight-page paper, 20 by 42 inches, containing forty-eight columns, of reading matter, embracing all the news of the week and the most editorial and local news.

HARD TIMES.

THIS is heard all over the land. Every paper published is heralding the coming of an awful season. Wise indeed be that man who profits by the ominous and portentous signs that loom up in the unknown future. Who heeds the distant rumbling of the far away, but rapidly approaching storm that will yet, like the relentless hurricane, sweep over the land. But wiser far is he who has learned wisdom and experience from the bitter lessons of the long past - by paying more for the necessities of life than they are worth simply because they have been granted a little time. The lesson taught has been a hard one, but still there is time to halt, and retrace your steps. Buy where you get the most goods for the least cash money, buy where you can get thirty-six inches to the yard and sixteen ounces to the pound. Yes, Go beyond this Golden Rule, and given you. Man, woman, child, whatever is wanted in your separate apartments call on us and we will furnish it far below a FULL LINE OF GROCERIES, NOTIONS, TINWARE, CROCKERY, &c., on hand, wholesale and retail. Auction Sales—Saturdays and First Mondays at the Rooms at 11 o'clock. Will also attend to sales in any place where services of an Experienced Auctioneer are required. NEW GOODS AND SPECIAL BARGAINS opening every day. Call and be convinced. Yours Respectfully,

RUSSELL STREET, ORANGEBURG, S. C., Jan. 24, 1879. C. D. KORTJOHN, Prop. Original Auction House.
