

Immortality.
A solemn murmur of the soul
Tells of a world to be,
As travelers hear the billows roll
Before they reach the sea;
Tells that this anxious, yearning soul,
Heir of that world to be
Beyond the grave's dark, silent goal,
Shall live eternally;
Tells that, as after winter storms
Comp life and joy and bloom,
So life anew shall clothe these forms
That slumber in the tomb;
Tells of a dread, impending hour
Of solemn, final doom,
When at the call of sovereign power
All shall to judgment come;
Tells of a purer, better sphere,
A world, that, if above,
Where those who love and worship here
Shall, worship evermore,
Oh! solemn murmur of the soul!
Oh! solemn world to be!
To live while endless ages roll,
'Tis immortality.

Blaine's State.
Mr. Blaine's home, the city of Augusta, failed to choose a Mayor at the election on Monday, the Republican candidate got 730 votes, Citizens' nominee $19 and the Greenbacker 568. This speaks volumes for the popularity of Mr. Blaine where he is best known. At Biddeford the contest was very hot, and the largest vote ever brought out was cast—2,557—the result being that the Republican candidate for Mayor was beaten by the Democratic National nominee by seven votes, the coalitionists carrying five out of seven wards. At the Belfast election the hard money Democrats united with the Republicans and carried the city by 91, defeating the nominee of a soft money Democratic and National alliance. Bangor was regained by the Republicans, who polled a larger vote than they had cast for some years—1,410 to 1,264. While the general result indicates that there is a falling off of the National strength in Maine, as there has been everywhere else, quite enough of the Republican deserters of last year are still in arms against their old comrades to make the State election lively. We were probably right in our original impression that the strength of the Nationalists in Maine never meant infection in the greenback craze so much as dissatisfaction with the Republican administration and leadership.—New York World.

Grant.
"Grant," said J. B. McCullagh to me in St. Louis, is sure to be the Republican nominee."
"What do you understand to be the plan to bring about his nomination?" I asked.
"First," said Mr. McCullagh, "Mr. Grant is to be kept abroad till just the proper time. Splendid accounts are to be written about his reception in India, China and Japan. Then he is to have a magnificent reception in San Francisco, to be followed by ovations all along the Union Pacific, at Denver, Omaha, and Des Moines, and finally he will reach Chicago to open the meeting of the Army of Tennessee in November."
"What then?"
"Why, he will have just the right speech prepared, the whole country will be full of enthusiasm, and his name will be forced at the Presidential convention immediately follow ing."
"Who is the dark horse?"
"Oh, Washburne! His friends are goading him eye now. See how he keeps away in Mexico and makes no public utterances. In case Grant can't carry the convention, his friends will rally around Washburne, and if they can't nominate Grant, they'll nominate his best friend, Washburne, of course, would take care of Grant and his friends. Mark my word, it will be Grant, with Washburne as the last resort."—Eli Perkins.

A newspaper and a newspaper editor that people don't talk about and sometimes abuse are rather poor concerns. The men and business that an editor sometimes feels it a duty to defend, at a risk of making enemies of another class, are often the very first to show their ingratitude. The editor who expects to receive much charity or gratitude will soon find out his mistake; but he should go on and say and do what he conscientiously thinks right without regard to frowns and smiles.

"Are you engaged?" said a gentleman to a lady from Marysville, at a ball the other evening. "I was, but if that Pete Johnson thinks I'm going to sit here and see him squeeze that freckled-face Wilkins girl's hand all the evening, he'll be mistaken, solitaire or no solitaire!" The gentleman explained and went out to get air.

"Everybody," says an exchange, "likes radishes in Japan." It's a mistake. We don't, for one. We like ours here.
