

How to be Graceful.
The Young Woman's Journal says a refined, graceful manner can be acquired by any woman; "The best grace is perfect naturalness. Still, you must study yourself, and form your manners by the rule of that art which is but carrying out the law of nature. But if it is your nature to be forever assuming some unpicturesque, ungraceful attitude, pray help nature with a little art. If you are stout avoid the smallest chair in the room, and be sure you sit on it, not to lean back in it with your hands folded in front of you just below the waist, especially while the present fashion lasts. If you are thin, do not carry yourself with your chin protruding and your spinal column curving like the bowl of a spoon. Do not wear flimsy materials made up without a ruffle, or puff, or flounce, to fill up the hard outlines of your bad figure, so cruelly defined by the tightly pulled-back draperies. Study the art of dress. We once knew a very plain woman who dressed so tastefully that it was an absolute pleasure to look at her. If you have been unwell until you are sick with the thought of your own hopeless ugliness, be up and doing. Forget your disappointment, forget the past and the sneers of your own family over the mistakes that you have made."

A Sweet Temper.
No trait of character is more valuable in a woman than the possession of a sweet temper. It is like the flowers that spring up in our pathway, reviving and cheering us. Home can never be made happy without it. Let a man go home at night, wearied and worn out by the toils of the day, and how soothing is a word dictated by a good disposition. It is sunshine falling upon the heart. He is happy and the cares of life are forgotten. A sweet temper has a soothing influence over the minds of the whole family. Where it is found in the wife and mother, you observe kindness and love predominating over the natural feelings of a bad heart. Smiles, kind words, and looks characterize the children, and peace and love have their dwelling place there. Study them, to acquire and retain a sweet temper. It is more valuable than gold, and captivates more than beauty, and to the close of life retains all its powers.

A Word to Boys.
Boys! what are you going to live for? For riches, or honor, or pleasure? Or have you thought nothing of the matter? Happy all day long, you have dreamed of nothing more. But the time will come when, if God spares you, you will be called upon to take a place in this busy world; and it is well that you should fix early how you intend to shape your course. It is not enough to be industrious, and honest, and honorable. Both our life and our living is of God, and he demands of all his children a dutiful regard to his wishes; and these he has given in his word. Having a desire to do his will you cannot fail to secure his blessing; and he will incline your heart unto wisdom, for "the steps of a good man are ordered of the Lord." In God's glory is the best prosperity, because for this end were you created; and he intends that herein you should find your highest enjoyment.

Senator Randolph, speaking of Grant's insulting reply in an interview he had with him in regard to troops in South Carolina, exclaimed "upon what meat hath this our Caesar fed, that he hath grown so great?" Caesar was at least a gentleman. It has been quite common to call this man a Caesar; but he rather resembles those lead stool growths of the camps of Roman history when the imperial place fell to the man whose iron jaw marked him the possessor of brute force, resolute will, the fit instrument of the army and all the worst elements of the empire.

"I would like to see a man live up to his profession." One of the best of "likes" certainly. But wouldn't it be a good plan to try it yourself? You profess great regard for consistency. Suppose you try it. Perhaps you will then be more charitable.

Very few people seem to know the power of a thoroughly social, genial, hospitable, friendly, consistent, christian home. It is one of the "latent forces" in the church, yet to be developed on a grand scale for the conversion of the world.

If you think no one cares for you in this cold world, just tell your neighbors that you propose to keep them. You will be surprised to see what an immediate interest they will manifest in you.
