The Chinese.

On last Sunday night the Rev. J. B. Hartwell, who served the Baptist Foreign Missionary Board for upwards of twenty years as a teacher and preacher in China, delivered at the Baptist church a lecture on the Chinese—their peculiar moral, social and intellectual characteristics—and the duty and importance of bringing these people to the cross of Christ.

His subject was one which the recent failure of the anti-Chinese emigration bill to pass over President Hayes' veto, and the adoption of an anti-Chinese constitution in California, only a few weeks ago, together with the prominence certain political agitators purpose giving the question in the next Presidential campaign, conspired to invest with much interest.

The history of this singular people shows that the rules of life and consequent moulding of character, which is to be derived from a high system of moral instruction, do not avail in checking those more sensual passions which morally destroy and socially degrade the human race.

Their ideas of government are monarchial—they know nothing of the ballot—and it is believed by those who know their character best, that they would, were they entrusted with it, here more tools in the hands of politicians, to a far greater extent than the negro has been.

From this summary of the destructive features of his race, it will be readily seen that the Chinaman, as he is, is not so constituted as to be capable of assimilation by our civilization as expressed in church and state. The best policy, it would seem to us then in the management of these new comers, would be for the Government to send into California and other points, where they might be, men acquainted with their character and capable of teaching them in all the learning, human and divine, which is necessary to fit them for the proper discharge of their duties as citizens.

will be presented for discussion, such as, "The best method of building up schools," "The education of the masses," and "Will School Conventions pay." Other matters, if deemed proper, may be brought forward, and indeed anything that concerns the teacher, the pupil and the patron may be a legitimate subject for debate at this Convention.

Middle St. Matthews' Items.

I do not propose in this communication a reply in full to "J. C. H." on the cotton question, but will defer until we hear from him on Phosphate of Lime and Potash, as a plant food. On the subject of rust in cotton, it will be necessary to discuss fully the different manures, when I will give them and "J. C. H.'s" views of them the attention they demand.

It may be as well to state here that "J. C. H." in his growth of weed, makes no allowance for difference in soils, seasons, &c., when he must admit that these have more to do with the size of the cotton plant than the different manures applied.

In 1874 we had a very wet July giving us a large stalk as well as a good yield, it doesn't necessarily follow that we have a weed every year. In '77, our weed did not average two feet. The yield was very nearly as good as in '74.

We heard of several within riding distance, and were present at one by special invitation, where we expected to see you, as it was in your old neighborhood, among your friends and kinsfolk. Have you ever been at one of these gatherings at Ulmer's Spring on Four-holes?

From this summary of the destructive features of his race, it will be readily seen that the Chinaman, as he is, is not so constituted as to be capable of assimilation by our civilization as expressed in church and state. The best policy, it would seem to us then in the management of these new comers, would be for the Government to send into California and other points, where they might be, men acquainted with their character and capable of teaching them in all the learning, human and divine, which is necessary to fit them for the proper discharge of their duties as citizens.

A word or two about the crops over here as this letter is confined to no particular subject. Corn is backward, but clean and growing. The stand of cotton is bad in places, and the crop of grass is pretty general, and the stand will be worse by the time it is cleaned; that, out the grass, looks healthy. The oat crop is now being gathered and is the best and largest raised here since the war.

Dottings by the Way.

Allow me a small space in your columns to note some thoughts which may not be uninteresting to some of the many readers of your valuable paper. In these days when there seems to be such a tendency to take gloomy views of the future, many, whose opinions are the result of the condition of their lives, which you know in this latitude is predisposed to torpidity, than to facts which would warrant them, are predicting darker days and harder times yet to be experienced by our people.

The table was loaded down with the nice things prepared by the farmers' wives, and in abundance. You know, Mr. Editor, what can be done in this direction when they have a mind. There was a plenty and to spare even after the large crowd had done full justice to themselves and the dinner. The fragments remaining may not have been measured and equalled twelve bushels, yet there were pans, buckets, &c., without number.

Several musical instruments were on the ground to increase the joys of this festive occasion, and when we left the scene the words "bow to your partners," "promenade all," &c., were heard—the lads and lasses had already begun to beguile the hours away with flying feet. When we said "good-bye" to kindred and friends we could not help believing that every one had spent a most delightful day, nor was there a single regret that we had spent this holiday at Cooling Spring.

By and with the advice of the County Executive Committee a County Convention of the Democratic Party of Orangeburg County, is hereby called to meet at Orangeburg Court House on Saturday, the 21st day of June, A. D., 1879, at eleven o'clock A. M., for the purpose of nominating a suitable person to be suggested to the Governor of the State for appointment to fill the office of Probate Judge of Orangeburg County, from and after the expiration of the term of office of Charles B. Glover, Esq., until the next general election as is provided by law; and also for the further purpose of nominating a suitable person to be in like manner suggested for appointment as aforesaid to fill the office of County Commissioner of said county from and after the expiration of the term of office of Norton N. Pic-nic at Cooling Springs.

I hope every one knew the 22nd inst. was Ascension day. Pic-nics and fish fries were common and the order of the day with the good people of the country. Farmers delight to attend such places and discuss the crops and grass; the ladies, their gardens and poultry; and the children, to romp and play and thus to enjoy themselves generally.

pic-nic ground, which we reached in due time and found many neighbors and friends already assembled. Some of the gentlemen, passionately fond of fishing, were at the lake at early dawn, and very soon after arriving we saw the fruits of their early toil. A lot of fine fish were soon brought out and made ready for the pan.

The Cooling Spring, which reminds one of a similar spring near Cokesbury, S. C., and of another in Anderson County, is, what its name denotes, cool and refreshing, and gushes forth from a beautiful hill-side near the Four-holes' swamp, and lies back of and near Mr. Daniel Ulmer. Though this delightful place has been visited by many and the beautifully shaded hill a pic-nic ground for many years, yet it was never baptized until this occasion.

The table was loaded down with the nice things prepared by the farmers' wives, and in abundance. You know, Mr. Editor, what can be done in this direction when they have a mind. There was a plenty and to spare even after the large crowd had done full justice to themselves and the dinner.
