

EDUCATIONAL COLUMN.

All communications intended for this column should be addressed to J. B. O'N. Holloway, Esq., who has kindly consented to edit it.

Grow in Knowledge.

How many of our scholars in schools and colleges think that with their exit from the walls of their school closes all efforts at improvement. They do not know that it is not in the school room alone we get our education. Suppose the great Kepler had considered his education finished when he had acquired all his great instructor in astronomy, Tycho Brahe, was able to impart to him. Would he ever have been able to announce to the world, even in the face of the wise old heads of his time, who taught differently, that the orbits of the planets were not circular, but elliptical? Many boys have better opportunities than Newton had. Franklin toyed with the winged lightnings, and Morse might have spent his life in doing the same thing—only he didn't. He just seized them and set them to work. Improve every opportunity. "Prove all things," as St. Paul once wrote. Cull one new thought every day, then at life's end you will be a wise man.

Mysteries of our Language.

Just do listen to a few of the mysteries of our wonderful language. Can any one parse every word in the extract? It amuses us to read it: "A fast man on a fast day took his fast horse and went to the end of the fast land, and there tied him fast, and as fast as he could he broke his fast. Then he rose and took of his horse and went with his heels along the rows, but the rose on the end of his horse—which, as every one knows, is a nest, though I hear some fools—and, like a fisherman, rows for the shad with rcs, or a lunter goes for the forest rcs. So his horse waters every row in all the rows. Now tell me who knows how a foreign wight (I do not mean white) could learn very fast the meaning of horse and rows or nose and rear, or to perform any rite right or even to write wright right, if his living depended on getting some right which involved the right writing of wright, right, write or ite.

Awake, Thou Sleeper.

"I had one or two questions to ask the teachers through your column, but—" So said a modest friend of ours. "But," what, thought we. Haven't we asked often enough for help? We have told the teachers that this column is open to all, that we were anxious to hear from them, that we were not disposed to conduct the same by ourselves, and, to make the thing short, that we would hang up our fiddle and bow, drop our "gray goose quill," write "I habod" at the head of the column and quit, unless help arrived. We mean it too! How refreshing to think that of the one hundred and thirty teachers in Orangeburg County only two or three have done anything for our column. You may wish us well, brethren, but you have a poor way of showing it.

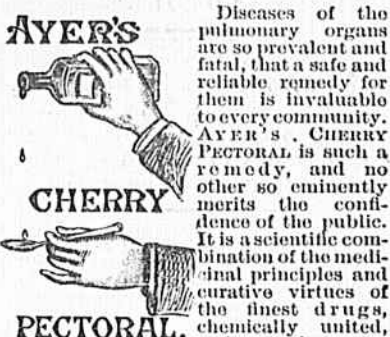

We are gratified at the accounts received of the openings of the various colleges and high schools throughout the State. Wolford, Adger, Newberry, Furman, Duw West Sale and Female, Columbia, Williamston, and others report fine openings with bright prospects. This should be a source of pleasure to the friends of education everywhere, as it shows a tendency toward that fact now beginning to be realized by our people, that in the education of our children lies the redemption of this country. Educated Christian voters will secure an honest government. No government is safe in the hands of an ignorant, Godless ruler, raised to power by an ignorant rabble; and particularly is this true of Republics.

We were pleased recently to meet our co-laborer, Mr. L. B. Haynes, editor of the Southern Educational Monthly published by Walker, Evans & Cogswell, and glad to learn from him that he is receiving encouragement in his enterprise. Mr. Haynes is a cultivated gentleman, a graduate of Wolford College, and conducts a live and quite readable journal. We commend the Monthly to our teachers and we feel that it will only be necessary to draw their attention to this matter to secure their subscriptions. Bring your 50 cents with you and let us encourage Southern enterprise and talent.

"Do tell me how to teach!" impatiently exclaimed a discouraged teacher. No one can tell another exactly what to do in the school room, but we would reply that original gumption founded upon good common sense, is the best guide in any dilemma. Start on the right track and stick to it.

"A little learning is a dangerous thing," says Pope. The poet was wrong, if that little learning were formed on a moral basis.

THE BEST REMEDY FOR Diseases of the Throat and Lungs.

Diseases of the pulmonary organs are so prevalent and fatal, that a safe and reliable remedy for them is invaluable to every community. AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL is such a remedy, and no other so eminently merits the confidence of the public. It is a scientific combination of the medicinal principles and curative virtues of the finest drugs, chemically united, to insure the greatest possible efficiency and uniformity of results, which enables physicians as well as invalids to use it with confidence. It is the most reliable remedy for diseases of the throat and lungs that science has produced. It strikes at the foundation of all pulmonary diseases, affording prompt and certain relief, and is adapted to patients of any age or either sex. Being very palatable, the youngest children take it without difficulty. In the treatment of ordinary Coughs, Croup, Sore Throat, Bronchitis, Influenza, Croup, and Catarrh, the effects of AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL are speedy, and its virtues are annually preserved from serious illness by its timely and faithful use. It should be kept at hand in every household, for the protection of infants in sudden attacks. In Whooping-cough and Consumption there is no other remedy so efficacious, soothing, and helpful.

The marvellous cures which AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL has effected all over the world are a sufficient guaranty that it will continue to produce the best results. An impartial trial will convince the most sceptical of its wonderful curative powers, as well as of its superiority over all other preparations for pulmonary complaints. Eminent physicians in all parts of the country, knowing its composition, recommend AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL to invalids, and prescribe it in their practice. The test of half a century has proved its absolute certainty to cure all pulmonary complaints not already beyond the reach of human aid.
