It does not seem to meet with the favor its supporters expected. The bill granting divorces for adultery is in its passage with several warm supporters. We hope it will die before it reaches its third reading-we want no such law in this State. The bill to facilitate the completion of the old Blue Ridge Railroad is under discussion and we hope the Legislature will act cautiously in this matter. The road has already cost the State nearly four millions of dollars in money besides her endorsement for one and a half millions more. It is estimated that five millions will be needed yet to complete it. This is a huge undertaking for an impoverished people and we trust the members will consider it well before they act. A bill appropriating $20,009 for the purchase of artificial legs for Confederate soldiers was passed to its third reading.
