Bureau of Agriculture.

In the report from this Department the Commissioner recommends that power be granted by the Legislature to employ an immigration agent; that improved varieties of seeds be pur chased for distribution among the far " mers of the State ; that an experimen-1al farm be established under the direction of the Bureau; that an assessor be appointed in each township of the State to receive returns for the "Department; and that a special appropriation be made to meet the exr penses of these recommendations.

· The affairs of this department are · evidently controlled by an energetic ' and competent officer and, if properly supported by the Legislature and people, may do much for the advance-" ment of the Agricultural interest of the State.
