The squabble between McClure's Magazine and the Pall Mall Magazine over the serial rights of Robert Louis Stevenson's posthumous unfinished story, "St. Ives," calls attention to the fact that some of the English magazines are trying to get even with their American competitors, which have invaded the English field, by bidding for an American audience. The Pall Mall has quite a large circulation in this country. One little fact brought to light by the controversy is the relative prices of some of the work of popular writers. Mr. McClure says that he paid Kipling twice as much for the serial rights of "Captain Courageous" as "St. Ives" cost McClure's and the Pall Mall together.

THE EDGEFIELD TRAGEDY. Thurmond Tells Under Oath Why He Killed Harris.

There is no case that is attracting more attention just now than that of the killing of Mr. Will Harris by So-licitor Thurmond at Edgefield. Below s the full evidence as to the killing by Solicitor Thurmond:

Personally came before me, J. Wm. Thurmond, who, being first duly sworn, says that late in the afternoon of the 24th inst. he left his office for the purpose of going to the office of Mr. Padgett, with the view of spending the rest of the evening at target shooting, as he and Mr. Padgett had often done before.

That on the way to the office of Mr. Pagett he met Mr. Willis Harris, shook hands with him cordially, exchanged pleasant words with him and passed on his way, not having the faintest or most remote suspicion that any trouble would arise. Leaving Mr. Harris he went on to the office of Mr. Padgett; finding Mr. Padgett too much engaged to go out, deponent went to the postoffice to see if he had any mail. Thereupon deponent left the postoffice with the view of returning to his office.

In going back to his office he stopped at the store of Mr. Lynch and walked in, without knowing that Mr. Harris was in the store, if indeed he was in the store, for the deponent does not recall whether Mr. Harris was then in the store or came in afterwards, but if deponent hac known that Mr. Harris was then in the store he would not have hesitated to stop, for then or thereto-fore nothing had occurred to excite his apprehension that anything unpleasant

When Mr. Harris came into the store -if he was not then in the store-he addressed deponent and said, "You belong to the -- Tillmanite party Deponent cannot recall all that was said, but Mr. Harris said further, "You got on your belly and crawled like a — dog for office, and pledged your self to support Tillman and his party under all circumstances, and, — you, he will kick you out when you fail to do Deponent replied quietly, "That's Thereupon Mr. Harris quickly jerked out a large knife and opened it. Deponent stepped back. Mr. Harris walked to where another drummer sat and said, "I have a — good knife and a Colt's pistol in my pocket," and came back towards the front door and out on the pavement, where he had a short talk with another drummer. Mr. Harris came back into the store to a barrel, by, which deponent was standing, and flourished his knife in the face of deponent.

With the view of ending the talk, in order that no difficulty or unpleasantness might arise, deponent walked out of the store and went direct to his of-

In less than five minutes after deponent reached his office Mr. Harris and Capt. DuBose came down the sidewalk which passes deponent's door, and Harris said to the deponent: "You evaded the question up yonder." Deponent asked, "What question?" He answer-ed, "The question about the — Tilmanite party, and — you, you ran away from there, so that I did not tell you." Deponent said: "Will, what is the matter with you?" He said, "You - scoundrel and stinking acted the - dog to my father..'

Simultaneous with these words, with his knife in his hond, he sprang as if to rush into the door and assault deponent, and deponent knocked him backwards from the door. Immediately, and quick as thought, Mr. Harris threw his right hand under his coat and to his hip pocket, with the purpose, as deponent did not doubt, of drawing his pistol and instantly depo-nent fired. Mr. Harris threw his hand to his breast. There being no pistol in

Mr. Harris' movement of his right hand to his hip pocket was distinct and unmistakeable, and deponent did not doubt that he would draw and fire instantly, hence deponent fired as quickly as possible.

Deponent did not doubt that he was in imminent peril of his life and that the promptest action on his part was a necessity in order to save his own

Deponent solemnly assures the Court that he fired under unquestioning conviction that instant action was necessary for his protection. J. WM. THURMOND.

(signed) March 26, 1897.

The trial will not come off for some time, as there is no session of the Court in Edgefield at an early date.

Stephen Crane, in describing the wreck of the Commodore, says: "In the mournful twilight the lights of Jacksonville blinked dimly. We were all enveloped in a gentle satisfaction." How poetical! A more prosaic writer probably would have dismissed the subject with the simple statement: "We were about half shot."

A letter from Africa states that Merchand's exploring expedition in Africa burned many villages, killed a few hundred natives and took their live stock for food.

0000000000000000 Best. Rest. Test.

There are two kinds of sarsaparilla: The best-and the rest. The trouble is they look alike. And when the rest dress like the best who's to tell them apart? Well, "the tree is known by its fruit." That's an old test and a safe one. And the taller the tree the deeper the root. That's another test. What's the root, -the record of these sarsaparillas? The one with the deepest root is Ayer's. The one with the richest fruit; that, too, is Ayer's. Ayer's Sarsaparilla has a record of half a century of cures; a record of many medals and awardscolminating in the medal of the Chicago World's Fair, which, admitting Ayer's Sarsaparilla as the best—shut its doors against the rest. That was greater honor Vian the medal, to be the only Sarsaparilla admitted as an exhibit the World's Fair. If you want to get the best sarsaparilla on your druggist, here's an infallible rule: Ask for the best and you'll get Ayer's. Ask for Ayer's and you'll get the best.

BANK MURDER AT NOON.

Cashier J. A. Stickney, of Somersworth, N. H., Killed by a Robber.

THE CRIME CAREFULLY PLANNED.

The Victim Was Alone in the Great Falls National Bank at the Noon Hour-When Found He Was Dead, With His Throat Cut--He Had Been Beaten by His Assailant --- Robbers Secured $4500.

SOMERSWORTH, N. H. (Special) .-- While resisting the entry of two determined robbers, and during a heroic struggle to protect $150,000 in money and securities which were in the compartments of the open vault of the Great Falls National Bank, of Somersworth, Friday afternoon, Joseph A. Stickney, the cashier, was brutally murdered beside the desk which he had occupied for many years. After murdering Mr. Stickney the robbers ransacked the vault at will, no one being near, and fled with all the cash it contained, about $4500. The murderers carried off their booty in plain view of several well-known residents of the place. They left the bag containing the money, the greater part of which was in gold, in the orchard of Dr. John Hayes, covered with a coat. Several persons looked over the fence and saw the coat which had the wealth under it, but were afraid to touch it. They suspected robbery, but not mur-

The murderers returned to the orchard The murisers returned to the ordered fence one hour afterward with a team and took the money away unmolested. They carried it several hundred yards to the place where a horse was hitched in plain view of Arthur Stackpole, a teamster, who was stand-ing in his barn door only a few rods away.

It is generally believed here that whoever committed the murder knew the cashier, and that they killed him for fear of being identifind. Several persons who saw the men with the bag say they were strangers, and one of them looked like an Italian.

One of the most remarkable features of the robbery is the fact that $100,000 in United States bonds which were kept in one of the drawers of the big vault, and which the robbers evidently examined hastily, were not taken. Neither were any of the nego-tiable paper and securities of the bank. No ras aware of the crime until about 2 o'clock p. m., nearly an hour after the mur-derous work was done.

The bank was beseged by hundreds when the fact became generally known, and great numbers of persons came into the city from Berwick, Dover, Salmon Falls, Rollinsford,
Rochester and other towns in this section. For the first few hours indignation was intense, but public feeling has in a measure subsided. In addition to being cashir and director of the Great Falls Bank Mr. Sticknev was City Treasurer.

It has been the custom for Mr. Stickney and the bank clerk, Mrs. Parker Swazey, to close the bank at tweive o'clock every day and go to luncheon, re-opening again at two clock. On the day of the robbery Mrs. Swazey left her desk the cashier was looking over the bank's accounts. He usually remained in the bank until the clerk returned, but it is thought he was preparing to go out when the robbers entered. The bank is situated in the business portion of the ity, and dozens of persons pass at that time

The first suspicion that the bank had been robbed was aroused at two o'clock, when Frank P. Reed, a merchant, started into the bank and found that the thick plate glass in the front outside had been shattered. out waiting to investigate he notified City Marshal Eaton, and together they broke in the door. They found evidences of a desperate struggle. On the floor was the body of Stickney. His head had been nearly severed from his body and was marked with several deep gashes made with a blackjack, and the skull was fractured. The first clew that the police found was obtained from persons who saw the two men drive away with the stolen money, and from West Rochester a report comes that a dark sorrel horse, attached to a buggy, passed there, headed for Salmon Palis River, which forms the Maine State boundary. This outfit has mysteriously disappeared.

The distance from the chest to the backbone was but three inches. The shoulder blade bones were scarcely an inch asunder. His appetite was good. The pulsation of the heart was visible to the eye.

THE CURE OF DIABETES.

A Case Successfully Treated in Madison

County, N. Y. From the Press, Utica, N. Y.

On the recommendation of Mr. William Woodman, of South Hamilton, New York, that Mr. Amos Jaquays, a resident of Columous Centre, New York, be interviewed rearding his extraordinary recovery from adcanced kidney trouble, embracing diabetes n its worst form, Mr. Jaquays was visited and willingly made the accompanying state

"I am fifty years of age, and five years ago regan to suffer with pains in the back and weakness in the region of the kidneys, and I and a tremendous flow of urine. Strange to say, my appetite increased to an extraordin my food seemed to make me weaker and hinner, and I was terribly constipated. My nouth was pasty, I had continuous heart-ourn and pain across the lower part of my stomach and frequent vomiting. Indeed, tomach and frequent voluctions became impaired, my sight was dim, memory deterted me, and life became irksome. I consulted the best med cal talent in the county, and they all diagnosed my case as sugar diag petes in its most aggravated form, but gave me no relief whatever. At last I was in such desperate condition that a council of physicians was called, but their good offices did me no good, and I looked forward to death with satisfaction as the only relief I could

"My old friend, William Woodman, about this time came to visit me, and from him I first heard of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, which he declared had cured him of rheumatism ne believed they would do me good, as he had read of a case of diabetes being cured by their use. I believe it was next day after Mr. Woodman's visit that Mr. P. Hyde, of South Ham iton, New York, called on me, aved his life and ne advised me by all means to try them. "This settled the question, and I at one began a course of home treatment with Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. Within a week the melicine began to do its work, the consipation was relieved, my skin, which had been dry and hard, assumed its normal feel and appearance, I no longer had that insufferably bad taste in my mouth, and though still weak and almost helpless, the pain in ray back and kidneys began to abute and the flow of urine decreased. But I was far from flow of urine decreased. But I was far from health, and built very few hopes on permanent cure, though I continued to take the pills constantly for the next year and a half, growing slowly but surely during that time better and better. Tuen I becan to re-tree the daily dose, and kept mending until dix months ago, when I discontinued them, and I was entirely cured.

I was entirely cured.
"I am still subject to cold, which is apt to cettle in my kidseys, and always keep Pink Pills by me, as they bring me round very quickly. In all, I have, I believe, taken fifty boxes of Dr. Willams' Pink Pills, and shall never be without them as long as I have half a dollar. I have re-commended them to ney's body say that it is apparent the victim half a dollar. I have recommended them to was pounded to death. Another fact limy suffering friends, and they seem to be brought out, too, is that the weapon used to cut his throat was a medium-size knife, the have never failed to do their work in any blade of which was very dull and left a deep, case that I know of, and some were pretty
