

Another Barrier Broken.
Vienna University has accepted the inevitable and granted the degree of Doctor of Medicine for the first time to a woman, the Baroness Possaur von Ehbenthal, who recently was admitted to practice in Austria after passing the requisite state examination. She had received the degree from Zurich many years before.

The various countries of the world now use 13,400 different kinds of postage stamps.

Leaving Italy.
Italy broke its record of emigration in 1896, the number of persons leaving the country being 306,093, three-fifths of the number intending to stay away permanently. Sixty-eight thousand persons came to the United States, 75,024 went to Argentina; the others went chiefly to Uruguay and Brazil. For the first time the number of Italian emigrants exceeds that sent out by any other European country during the year.

Fall of a Church.
St. Pierre Livron, a picturesque church and village on a cliff overhanging the Riven Bonette, not far from Canors, and a favorite subject for painters, has been swept away by a landslide, a pond formed by the river having worn its way through the cliff.

Argentina Growing.
Argentina's population, according to the census recently taken, is 4,000,000, nearly double its population in 1889, the date of the first census. The city of Buenos Ayres has 663,850 inhabitants.

If It Only Helped a Little
It would be worth 50 cents. One hour's freedom from the terrible irritating itch of tetter is worth more than a whole box of Tetterine costs. It will cure—sure, and it's the only thing that will cure, 50 cents at drug stores, or by mail from J. T. Shapline, Savannah, Ga.

The rapid strides toward metropolitan journalism being made by the Nashville American have created the feature of the year in Southern newspaper circles. The American was established sixty years ago, and on account of its influence politically, and its advertising and reading patronage, it has always been a more or less successful property. But at present it is exhibiting a spirit of enterprise and thoroughness that places it far ahead of all other papers in its section. Its management is composed of young men of splendid experience in their several capacities who by their energy and tact are making the American famous as a great newspaper.

METROPOLIS IN SUMMER.

NEW YORK SOCIETY AT THE MUSIC HALLS AND ROOF GARDENS.

Fashionable Warm Weather Gowns—Styles Seen at the Bicycle Parade—Pretty Girls in Summer Frocks—Bracelets Once More the Rage—Hints for Dressy Women.

[Special New York Fashion Letter.]

No more aptly is the expression "the pace that kills" verified than in the Metropolis during the summer months.

Everybody that is anybody may, apparently, be out of town, but if one but peeps in at the music halls, roof gardens, etc., they will find society evidence—singly and in groups.

The opening night of the "Pops" (popular concerts) at Madison Square Garden brought forth no end of folks whose houses look deserted, but who are only remaining behind the shutters of aristocratic "good form."

Among those noted in the audience were Mr. and Mrs. John Drexel, the Pierce Crosbys, "Bud" Appleton, T. Oakley Rhinelander and Mrs. Rhinelander, Dick Pendleton and a score of others. Mrs. Rhinelander and Mrs. Drexel were both en rigueur. Mrs. Drexel had on a robe of cafe-au-lait melonette. The double-breasted box coat had a novel over collar buttoned on to the lapels in front, and she wore an extremely high linen collar with a white cravat. Her fashionable toque was trimmed with a large cluster bow and stiff black quills.

Mrs. Rhinelander, who is sylph-like in appearance, was talking with her usual vivacity to an elderly man who composed one of the party at table. Her chic gown was in a mixture of brown and white hair line cheviot serge. The smart jacket was double-breasted at the bust, fastening at the waist line with a single button. A chemisette and a rich crimson stock made an effective finish.

Bracelets are once more all the rage.

light material. One demure young woman was fetching in gowned in a deep red open canvas weave cloth of some description over black taffeta;

the open blazer displayed a black foulard silk waist. She wore a big black hat ornamented with black wings and red roses.

Another young girl with hair worn

The heavier the band the more stylish. Women who are anxious to attract attention and be absolutely English, are generally attached to a slender chain in gold or silver. The more expensive chains are jeweled, but the elegant woman of today still clings to the lorgette.

The vanguard of summer visitors from everywhere was particularly noticeable at the cycle parade. Masses of people lined the boulevard and cheered as the pageant passed. Such pretty girls, too, in summer frocks of pompador, stood in a prominent club window along the route. Expectancy was in every line of her figure, and I doubt if she realized the pretty picture she made. Her frock was of navy blue and white China silk. The bodice was tight fitting with a bolero jacket edged with an Oriental passementerie in dull blue and cerise shades. The front was of cerise India silk giving a blouse effect, and the de Medicis collar was lined with silk in the cerise shade.

The newest collars are made with tabs, broad points and rolling effects.

Visiting cards are smaller and even thinner than before, and the newest cases are in tortoise shell, silver, mother of pearl and gold.

The costumes illustrated herewith were designed by The National Cloak Co., of New York.

A Strange Tree.

There is a phenomenon near the northeast corner of the White House, which has attracted the attention of several people, notably the policemen who do duty on the grounds. It is a black elm tree, and stands on the side of the asphalted sidewalk which leads from the northeast gate to the White House. During the warm, clear days of the past few weeks it was noticed that the pavement under the tree was wet, as if it had been sprinkled. Investigation revealed that the water or whatever kind of fluid it is comes from the tree. It always falls in the driest of weather, and keeps the pavement well sprinkled.

Various reasons have been given for the phenomenon, but so far none of a scientific nature. The humorists say that the tree is weeping in sympathy with the disappointed office seekers who stand under its sheltering boughs and look back at a wreck of ambitious hopes and blighted prospects.—Washington Star.

The Massachusetts legislature has appropriated $800,000 for the building of new roads in the various parts of the state.

KILLED IN A SHAM BATTLE.

George N. Banks, of the Governor's Guards, Shot at Raleigh. A Raleigh, N. C., special to the Charlotte Observer, says: At a sham battle of the Governor's Guards at Pullien Park, George N. Banks, a member of the Guards, who was taking part in the battle, was shot and almost instantly killed. It cannot be ascertained who is responsible for the loaded cartridge. It seems that the cartridges were examined very closely before being given out by the captain and first and second lieutenants, and owing to the difference in weight between a loaded and a blank cartridge, it is hard to account for the accident. To lend additional mystery to the story, it is said that no loaded cartridges have been given out to the company for over two years.

SENATOR HARRIS' FUNERAL.

The Body Interred in Elmwood Cemetery at Memphis, Tenn. At Memphis, Tenn., on the 13th the remains of Senator Harris arrived and lay in state in the First Methodist church, and late in the afternoon were interred in Elmwood cemetery with imposing ceremonies, according to the full and elaborate programme laid out in advance. The remains, and the accompanying party from Washington and Nashville was met at the depot at 7:30 o'clock in the morning, and escorted to the church by the Confederate veterans in full uniform. The procession was watched by great throngs that gathered on the streets even at this early hour. Thousands of friends and citizens viewed the remains during the morning and early afternoon.

AN AWFUL DEATH.

Sentenced to be Eaten by Alligators and the Sentence Executed. An Indian named Tiger Cat eloped with a chief's wife here the other day, the entire tribe pursued him and captured the couple. They were tried by council and sentenced to be eaten by alligators. The two were bound to stakes near the water's edge. A dog was tied between them to attract the attention of the alligators. For an entire day they were exposed to the sun. In the evening a number of saurians emerged from the water and devoured the dog. They then literally pulled the man and woman to pieces. Their shrieks of agony were frightful.—Fort Lauderdale (Fla.) Dispatch.

START THE GIRL RIGHT.
When the girl comes to be a woman—look out. If she starts out in vigorous, womanly health then it is pretty safe to say she will be a healthy, attractive, beautiful woman.
The beginning of womanhood is the real crisis in a woman's life. Nearly always something is wrong then in the distinctly feminine organs. Maybe it isn't very serious—no matter—the time to stop disease is when it starts.
McELREE'S WINE OF CARDUI will bring girls safely through the crisis. Taken at the first indication of weakness, it never fails. It regulates the monthly periods with perfect precision. Its action is direct upon the feminine organs that above all others, ought to be strong and well.
Start the girl right. Don't expose her to the dangers and tortures of dragging weakness, bearing down pains, nervous prostration and the debilitating drains so common to women.
McElree's Wine of Cardui, is a home treatment. It does away entirely with abortive "local examinations."
Sold at $1.00 a Bottle by Dealers in Medicine.
