POLICE AND NEGROES.
Desperate Fight in Which Negro Toughs and Officers Take Part.
A white child walking along the streets in Charleston was pushed into the gutter by a crowd of negro toughs. Half a dozen white men, most of whom were street car conductors off for dinner, ran up to take the boy's part, when they were attacked by the negroes. A terrific hand-to-hand fight followed, clubs, stones and iron rods being used as weapons. Conductor Myer was knocked senseless with an iron bar. The negroes were getting the best of the fight when the police came in sight and then they fled. Eight of the negroes took refuge in a shanty. A squad of policemen tried to make an entrance, but the negroes opened the windows and began shooting. The officers returned the fire, and for a few minutes a regular battle was in progress. Henry Perry, colored, was shot through the head and killed. Edward Washington, another negro, was seriously injured and is not expected to live. Policeman Burton, who led the attacking force, is dangerously wounded. Five colored rioters were arrested after being clubbed. The situation was alarming for a while, but the police have control and everything is quiet.

NEGROES EXCITED.
The negroes of the city are worked up to a pitch of great excitement by the killing of Henry Perry by Policeman Burton. A mass meeting was held in Minahw Rifle hall and speeches were made condemning the act of Policeman Burton, and it is said a boycott will be entered into against the street railway company. Resolutions were adopted asking the State government to take a hand in the matter and see that they are protected from policemen's bullets. Negro men went to the different lawyers in the city asking advice and begging them to take the case against Officer Burton. His wife, it is learned, will bring a civil action for damages against the officer.

SUMNER'S LICENSE TAX.
Passes Council After Hard Fight—A Test in Court.
A special to the State from Sumter says that after a long fight and a great deal of filibustering the city council of Sumter has passed a license ordinance and the same will go into effect on Oct. 1, and shortly thereafter the test of the law will be made in the courts by those who have joined forces to fight the ordinance. The firm of Haynsworth & Haynsworth have been retained by the anti-license people and will carry the case into court, while the city will be represented by City Attorney T. B. Fraser.
The anti-license people think they have a good case and are supported by a strong public opinion, it being the general belief that the income to be derived from the license tax is unnecessary and will beget extravagance in municipal expenditures.
Be the merits of the case what they may, the outlook for a very interesting legal fight is on and will be watched with great interest by everybody, whether directly involved or not.
