

The Watchman and Southerner.
TUESDAY, NOVEMBER 1.

The net loss of property destroyed in the late fire in Michigan is now estimated at a little more than $1,700,000.

Capt. Bogardus, the well-known "shootist," will be at the State Fair, and will give an exhibition of his wonderful skill with the shotgun.

Gov. Hamilton's daughter, whose elopement with Mr. Stanhope caused a social flutter in Maryland, has returned to her father's house. The bridegroom has also gone back under his parental wing.

Abel Gibson, aged 13, and Geo. Patton, aged ten, both colored, quarrelled near Bradley's Mills, Abbeville, on Tuesday over a game of marbles. Abel obtained a pistol and shot George to death.

There is another development in the Cramer mystery. Blanche Douglas is charged with the murder of the unfortunate Jennie. New evidence is said to have been unearthed.

A number of Georgia Republicans have requested President Arthur to appoint General Longstreet to a position in his cabinet. A committee has been appointed to present their request.

The President on the 27th made the following nominations, which were confirmed by the Senate in Executive Session: Chas. J. Folger, of New York, Secretary of the Treasury; Thomas L. James, of New York, Postmaster General; Frank Hutton, of Iowa, First Assistant Postmaster General.

The Aiken Journal and Review notices the fact that Mr. James S. Moore and Miss Salina Woodworth, two paupers in the county poor-house, were married last week, the groom being 70 years old and the bride 33 years old. The papers of Aiken county must either be prospering or there is something about getting married not properly understood by newspaper men.

The English life of President Garfield, "From Log Cabin to the White House," has reached a third edition, which includes a chapter on his tragic death. An edition of this work in Dutch will appear shortly in Amsterdam.

The jury in the famous Jeff David case of Abbeville, the hearing of which began on last Thursday morning, retired at 1 o'clock Saturday morning and in half an hour returned with a verdict of not guilty. The old man was completely overcome with joy.

Preston Goforth, Jr., and a colored man by the name of Wilson were riding along the road, and were running or galloping their horses, not far from Grassy Pond, in Spartanburg county, on Saturday night, when Goforth pulled out a pistol to fire for amusement. By accident a ball entered Wilson's body not far from the heart, and the doctor says there is no hope for his life. It was purely accidental.

When in 1861, Governor Morgan appointed young Arthur engineer on his staff," says the Buffalo Express, "about the last thing he could have dreamed of was that young Arthur would, as President, return the compliment by appointing the Governor Secretary of the Treasury in 1881."

THE POLL TAX.—Judge Pressley decided that no one could be imprisoned for failing to pay a poll tax. Judge Hudson decided exactly to the contrary, that the delinquent could be imprisoned. The case has gone before the Supreme Court and the decision rendered sustaining Judge Hudson's view. This decision is a very important one, as there are many who dodge the taxes, and as the poll tax goes to school purposes it is to the interest of the people that as much as possible be collected.

The Darlington Southerner says that "a stranger, traveling with his wife in a covered wagon, came into town on Wednesday morning last, about daylight, and when just in front of the Presbyterian church, on Pearl street, the cries of the unfortunate and helpless woman were heard which disclosed the fact that an addition to the family had suddenly and unexpectedly appeared. Through the active efforts of the father, the services of Dr. Wilcox were immediately secured, and the mother and child soon recovered that attention which they required, and were and are now properly cared for. The man is traveling with a galvanic battery with which he shocks the afflicted. He seems to be doing business on an independent scale as he refused assistance tendered him, in the way of money and clothes."

President Arthur's Promises to the Woman's National Christian Temperance Union called on the President to-day. Miss Willard, President of the Union made a few remarks and introduced Mrs. Chapin, of South Carolina, who said the ladies there could not bring him their support. In behalf of the stricken South, she prayed that her section of the country would find a friend in the President. President Arthur said he was in entire sympathy with the South in her regeneration, and was determined that no section of the country, should, during his administration, be favored, as far as it was in his power to prevent, over another. Mrs. Chapin thanked him, and said that she would carry his words back with her to tell the people at home. The President then thanked them for their kind words and sympathy, and the ladies, after shaking hands with the President withdrew.

Guiteau's Trial Postponed.
WASHINGTON, Oct. 26.—In the criminal Court this morning Messrs. Scoville and Robinson, counsel for Guiteau, made an application for the postponement of the trial of their client, and after hearing argument pro and con the Court stated that under all the circumstances in the case he would postpone the trial from Nov. 7 to Nov. 14.

The U. S. Senate Adjourned.
The Senate adjourned sine die at half-past 4 o'clock on the 29th.

On the last day of the session Senator Hill, of Georgia, offered the following resolution, and asked for its immediate consideration which being objected to by McMillan, was laid over until the 10th.

Resolved, That the appointments to offices under the Federal Government ought not to be made to control or influence elections in the several States, and appointments made with such intent are unwarranted, and contrary to the spirit of our political institutions, and if continued without rebuke by the people will become dangerous to the perpetuity of our institutions.

Resolved, That the thanks of the Senate are hereby tendered to the Hon. David Davis for the courtesy, impartiality and ability with which he has performed his duties as President pro tem.

Agreed to unanimously, and Mr. Davis, having resumed the chair, which for the moment he had vacated, said:

"Senators—I am touched by the generous expressions in the resolution which it has pleased the Senate to pass in my honor, and I am grateful for the courteous co-operation which has been extended to me from all sides in administering the duties of the presiding officer of this high and enlightened body. Hoping that every member of the Senate will return happily and safely to his home and be permitted to resume his duties with the pleasure of meeting his constituents, I adjourn without day."

Some bullish holders of Confederate bonds were making yesterday of getting $25 and $30 a thousand for their precious rubbish; but telegrams from New York received in the afternoon reported a break in the market, the bonds being freely offered there at $7.50. Whether the boom has fallen out of the boom or not, it is certainly not a godsend to the people of the South, and the surplus cash of the knowing Amsterdam investors will circulate in Davis's $4 a thousand lot, in case the lucky recipient never expected a cent from such a source.—Sunday News.

IRISH TROUBLES.

One of the most annoying problems of English politics for the last three quarters of a century, is the attitude of Ireland to that country. Although Englishmen pride themselves upon their skill as administrators, and claim to be ready to do justice to those who are dependent upon them for obtaining the recognition of their rights, they have been unable to satisfy or even tranquilize for a time, a people who have furnished many of the best soldiers in their armies, and some of the most brilliant orators and ablest writers to their literature.

Books, articles and pamphlets without number have been devoted to the elucidation of the subject, policy after policy has been tried yet there is as little genuine contentment with English rule as there was 1800. The old race-hatred which has done so much mischief in the past is again being kindled by Parnell and his followers.

Although much adverse criticism has been made upon the course of Irish leaders, and the doings of hot-headed agitators severely condemned, there are a great many real disabilities to which they are subject, and for which much allowance is to be made.

In a country where coercion acts are common; where volunteer enrollment not permitted; where the possession of arms forbidden; where, besides the permanent garrison of forty thousand men, a constabulary force of twelve thousand more is kept, to prevent uprising and enforce the laws; where land-laws enable the owner to convert his vast estates into forests or hunting-grounds, thereby legally destroying his fellow-citizens; where heavy taxes and high rents make industry unprofitable; in such a country we can scarcely wonder that the people do not heartily enter into the spirit of free institutions.

Such has been the case with Ireland for many years and we cannot be surprised, to find dissatisfaction and sedition. It is not strange that dreams of independence, however vague, are dear, and movements however impolitic, which look toward the weakening of British rule, should be eagerly welcomed by the masses.

The drought and floods of the past two years which have brought hardship and pressure to England means starvation in Ireland. The population already decimated by famine, disease and emigration, have demanded a radical change in the land-laws, which have been granted. Mistaking the conciliation of England for strength on their part, the Land leaguers have made still greater demands which England will not grant, and Mr. Parnell and many of his adherents have been thrown in prison, while the meetings of land-leaguers have been tabooed. This will probably end the present trouble for a time, but it is doomed to recur. The English have always based their policy upon force, rather than upon measures which look towards the development of loyalty and good-will among the Irish. Until Ireland is governed more in accordance with the views of the majority of her population, and less on the lines of any preconceived policy, however sound, she will continue to be a source of weakness and annoyance rather than strength.

As appears from the official announcement of Premiums awarded, the "Peeries" Engine, made by the Geier Manufacturing Company, and represented in this State by Messrs. Scriven & Bridges, of Columbia, S. C., has taken the premium at the Sumter County Fair. The test was mechanical construction—the "Peeries" being generally pronounced faultless.

This decision is the echo of that reached in Cincinnati at the Exposition which ended on the 8th of October. The Cincinnati Gazette, of October 12th, announces that after a long and severe test, the $500 Gold Premium, and the Gold and Silver Medals were awarded the "Peeries" for general superiority over all competitors. Prof. Hoadley one of the most eminent engineers of the United States was at the head of the Committee making the award, and we can but entertain the highest regard for the decision of such a competent judge.

The premium is awarded also to the vertical mill exhibited by Scriven & Bridges, and made by the Richmond City Mill Works of which they are sole agents.

The Coming State Fair.
The State Fair, in Columbia, will open this year on the 8th of Nov., and close on the 11th and every effort is being made to render it a success. The Register says that the people of Columbia will give all who go a cordial welcome, and that preparation is making for pageants, "travelling in grandeur the Mardi Gras, of New Orleans; the Oracles, of Baltimore, and the Veiled Prophets, of St. Louis. At night there will be illuminations and the most magnificent and costly fire-works ever seen in Columbia. No trouble nor expense will be spared to make the display unprecedented in magnificence."

Cabinet Appointments.

On Monday last President Arthur sent in the nomination of ex-Governor E. D. Morgan of New York, as Secretary of the Treasury. The Senate immediately confirmed the same; but Gov. Morgan declined the position, and on Thursday the President nominated Judge Charles J. Folger of New York, for Secretary of the Treasury and Thos. L. James, of New York, for Postmaster-General.

The time consumed in negotiating with Mr. Morgan has annoyed many waiting Senators and they are disposed to criticize the President for not ascertaining whether or not his nominee would accept before sending his name to the Senate. The President is in no wise to blame for the delay. It requires no considerable stretch of the imagination to fancy that Governor Morgan's name never would have been sent to the Senate unless the President's assurances that he would accept had been satisfactory. The truth is that Governor Morgan really desired to take the place. His physicians and his wife opposed his inclinations and he deferred to their judgment. If it appears as though the Governor dallied with the President's invitation and had some difficulty in deciding the question, it must be attributed to a struggle between personal wishes and physical weakness. In refusing the Governor bid farewell to political ambition. While the President is disappointed, he appreciates Governor Morgan's position and has no feeling on the subject save that of the most cordial good-will.
