

ment. There who assert that of Mary Musgrove. They honestly mistaken, but they family records to prove their claims. The early writers were careful to collect facts in regard to prominent persons who took active parts on either side in the Revolution of 1776. When Dr. Lyman C. Draper was in this country, about twenty years ago, he talked with several persons who were well informed about the traditions relating to the war. He examined all the histories relating to this up-country, and what he asserted in his book may be relied on. The following is from his "King's Mountain and Its Heroes:"

Edward Musgrove, whose name has been perpetuated by the battle fought near his home, was a native of England and bred to the law and well educated. He was a very prominent man amongst the early settlers. When the war began he was living with his third wife and too old to take any part in the bloody strife. He died in 1792, aged 76, and was buried near his home. By his first wife he had a son by the name of Beaks, who joined the Loyalists, or Tories, as they were called. Paddy Carr, one of Colonel Clarke's daring soldiers, captured Beaks in his father's house. When he had his sword ready to kill Beaks, Mary Musgrove threw herself between them and saved her brother's life. Either through fear, or prompted by some other motive, he never united with the Tories again. About the close of the war he left the country and never returned. He had a son who became a very eccentric Baptist preacher.

"By his second wife, who was a Miss Fancher, Edward Musgrove had two daughters, Mary and Susan, who were 20 to 25 years old and unmarried. They were said to be remarkably attractive in body and mind, and often ministered to the wounded and suffering during the war. Those sisters died soon after the war with consumption, Mary passing away about a year before her sister. They were buried by the side of their parents. When Mary was about passing away, she requested that her sister and three other young ladies should act as pall bearers. Her body was so light that they bore it to its final resting place on silk handkerchiefs. When they were lowering the body into the grave the wife of a noted Tory offered some assistance, when a member of the family, out of respect for Mary's Whig principles, interred and prevented it.

"By his third wife Edward Musgrove had a daughter, Margaret, who married Landon Waters. She was 12 years old at the time of the battle. She died about 1824, and it is to her that we are indebted for the statements about the family. Capt. Philemon M. Waters was a son of Margaret Musgrove. "Col. H. D. Floyd says when he was a boy his father owned a negro named Nias, who was bought from the Musgrove family. Nias was several years old when the battle was fought, and when he was old he talked much about the battle and the Musgroves, and told of the death of the two girls."

IN MEMORY
Of J. Belton Pool, who was born Dec. 4th 1815, and died April 1st 1897. Age 81 years, 3 months and 28 days. Bro. Pool was twice married, first to Miss Caroline Holcomb, of which union, there was one son born who lived to yield up his life upon the battle field of Virginia, in his "country's cause." Soon after the birth of this child his wife died, and in Nov. 1844 he married Miss H. Amanda Casey, of which union one son was born, who went West in 1866, and has not been heard from since. Hence, Bro. Pool and his companion of more than 50 years have lived their lives in loneliness, with none to cheer them in their declining days save the comforts which came to them in believing in and appropriating the "Precious promises of a Risen Saviour," in whom they believed, and put their trust. Bro. Pool was almost an invalid for years, and when in doors his Bible was his constant companion. While feeble in health, he had a good business brain that brought to him a good living, and he leaves a competency for his beloved companion, whom he leaves behind, and who mourns and feels his loss deeply. He never was demonstrative over any one or any undertaking, but no genuine appeals for help, or charity went away empty. His motto was "not to let the left hand know what the right hand did" He was a member of the Baptist Church for more than 60 years and dur-

Harris Lithia Water

SPECIAL

Why Buy a water whose analysis shows that it is worthless after being shipped? There are a great many waters of this kind on the market. Harris Lithia Water analysis shows that it retains its virtues after being shipped. Does the analysis of the water you are drinking prove the same? If the Harris Lithia Water is not superior to any other water on the market, do you think such eminent physicians as Dr. A. N. Talley, Dr. S. M. Davega, Dr. Howe, Dr. O. B. Mayer, Dr. Thomas McLevy and hundreds of other noted physicians in South Carolina besides such physicians as Dr. Thos. H. Powell, president of Southern Medical College, of Atlanta, Ga.; Prof. Joseph Jones, of Tulane Medical College, of New Orleans; Prof. Theo. Lam, of Augusta, Ga., and many other just as noted would certify to it if it was not so? They have no interest in the Harris Lithia Water. It seems that with the analysis and these testimonials you ought to be convinced of its superiority.

Testimony of Dr. A. N. Talley, Columbia, S. C.

After a long and varied experience in the use of Mineral Waters from many sources, both foreign and domestic, I am fully persuaded that the Harris Lithia Water possesses efficacy in the treatment of affections of the kidney and the bladder unequalled by any other water of which I have made trial. This opinion is based upon observation of its effect upon my patients for the past three years, during which time I have prescribed it freely and almost uniformly with benefit in the medical maladies above mentioned. A. N. Talley, M. D., Columbia, S. C., October 8, 1892.

Testimonial of Dr. S. M. Davega, Chester, S. C.

Dear Sir: For the past eight months I have been using Harris Lithia Water with the most excellent results where I have been able to get my patients to drink a sufficient quantity daily. The carbonated has no equal in gastric disturbances. It is a pleasant laxative, and is a sure cure for Flatulent Dyspepsia. S. M. DAVEGA, M. D., Chester, S. C.

meet... is no more farewells nor partings. While we cannot bring him back to you we can offer you all the help and care that in our power lies to make you comfortable and cheerful, so long as life lasts.

Rev. L. C. Ezell preached his funeral on the 4th of July, at New Hope church where he was a member, and where he was buried. There was a large congregation of sympathizing neighbors and friends who showed by their presence the respect and esteem they had for him, and their sympathy for the dear good wife he had left behind.
