The Tide Was Turned When Committee man Welsh, Announced That He Would Not Go Behind The Returns.

LEXINGTON, Ky., September 18 .-Everything was quiet last night, the nomination of Owens being conceded. It was, however, a more exciting day than any of the preceding week. When the Owens men claimed the nomination by a decisive majority Saturday night, the Breckinridge men stood pat. Sunday they worked harder than ever. Yesterday it became known that their representatives had been dispatched into the different parts of the district to get all evidence with a view of contesting the nomination before the democratic congressional district commit ee, which meets at Frankfort next Saturday, and which is the returning board that makes the official count and declaration as to who is the nominee. As this committee has done everything in its power for Breckinridge, in fixing late date for the primaries, adopting the challenge rule, and everything else ne wanted, the Owens men were some what alarmed yesterday on finding out that Breckinbridge's agents were at work with a view to presenting evidence for a contest before this commit-The Tide Turned.

It was announced that four members of the district committee would make minority report Saturday and appeal to the democrats. This meant that Owens and Breckinridge would both be candidates and fight to a finish in November. Meantime the republicans who hold their convention here September 26th, began to regard their unnamed nomince as the favorite and there was much excitement. The tide was turned in the afternoon when B. J. Welsh, the committee-man from Breckinridge's home and one of his strongest supporters announced that he would never vote to go behind the returns when the committee met at Frankfort. As this would leave the committee a tie, or five to five in any event, and as other Breckinridge mer on the district committee who had stood by him to the last, were not disposed to go behind the returns, the old guard of the silver-tongued orator gave up the struggle. They will not, however, concede the plurality of 526, which the Owens men claim tonight, from com-

Some way he was indicted by friends of the lynchers in order to break the force of the anti-lynching crowd. Governor-elect Clarke, of Arkansas, was in Memphis yesterday and he denounced the lynching and expressed the opinion that the lynchers for the good name of the south, must be brought to punishment. Breckinridge men in some instances still hold out that their man was a winner and the official count will in their opinion so declare. Noel Gaines, a prominent Breckinridge lieutenant was asked last night regarding the threats of contest. and said :

"What is the use of a contest when we have the race won? I honestly believe Breekinridge has secured the nomnation by a safe, but small majority." An Owens man said last night that he thought such talk was a "bluff" and showed clearly that Breckinridge was "But," he added, "if they lying hard. attempt to defraud our man out of the result there will be blood spilled. The election was too hard fought and won to be stolen. The first sign of chicanery means blood.

"We have held our peace for thirty ears, while the northern people have represented us as an ignorant horde of rebels and traitors, battling only to hold human beings in the onds of slavery: If it is true that the confederates were traitors and fought only for slavery, the best thing we can do is not to build monuments, but to tear those down that now stand. neglect the graves of the southern dead, until the beating rain smoothes the little mounds to the level of the plain, and nature covers the place with its broad mantle of green and with it the shame of the southland. AUGUSTA, Ga., September 15.—Speak Charles F. Crisp, of the house of repesentatives, addressed one of the largest gatherings last night that has ever listened to a speaker in this county. Mr. Crisp arrived in the morning and was the guest of ex-Congressman George T. Barnes. Senator Patrick Walsh presided at the meeting and the speaker was introduced by Congressnan James C. C. Black.

Speaker Crisp said he did nbt have any set speech but he wanted to have a lit tle talk with his hearers about the democratic party, the party's interests, what it had done and what it hoped to do. He referred to the existing conditions when the democratic party went into power. He reviewed the financial egislation of congress, the votes on the silver question, which personally were a disappointment to him as he always believed in the free and unlimited coinage of both metals.

On the tariff question he spoke at ome length. He explained the burdens of the McKinley law and the benfits of the senate bill, explaining its reductions on the necessaries of life and giving object lessons with samples of woolen cloth.

In conclusion Mr. Crisp said: "My friends, one word in conclusion. I have told you what the democratic party has done. I have shown you that we have made a long stride in the direction of tariff reform, I have shown you that we have made taxable all the money of the people. I have shown you that we have manifested an undying enmity to all trusts opposed to the people. Upon this evidence we build our house, and upon it we go to the people. For them we have fought the good fight, to them have no fear. Throughout his speech there was the osest attention and frequent hearty applause interrupted his remarks. Senator Walsh and Congressman Black were then given enthusiastic ovations that were notably prolonged.

Mr. Spier's report states that the Hardwicks. who held a controlling interest in the bank never paid in their subscription. They put in promisory notes for a part of their subscription to the capital stock. For making alterations in these promisory notes the eashier, Hardwick, is now under indictment Overdrafts exceeding three times the maximum countenanced by law, were made but not properly entered. Stock that was transferred in August, 1893, was entered as having been trans ferred four months earlier. "I was born and brought up in slav times, have lived in the south since'tl. war, mixing largely among my ow. people, and am therefore in a position to emphatically deny the reports which have been circulated abroad that the south is a bad place for the negro t live, or that he is denied his civil right in this country.

"As for the white people of the south there are no more liberal and kind hearted anywhere. Exceptions can be found, of course, in all communities but the leading white people of the south want everybody to do right. whether he is white or black, and when they see a man trying to do right they 🗻 are ever ready to help him. When, on the other hand, they know any one to run with willing feet after evil, they discountenance him, of course. The south is my home and I do not want to see her misrepresented.

"The question has been asked, 'Why are negroes lynched in the south since the war?' I reply that nearly every ease of such lynching was for brutal outrage on the wives and daughters of white people. The scoundrel who commits such crimes deserves to die. I am opposed to lynch law not that I think it cruel for such guilty villians, but because it is opposed to civilization and good government. Miss Ida Wells ought to make these things known in England, and tell why the lynching is lone in the south. Let her make known the devlish cause.

"England knows little about the southern negro, and probably cares less. Not one word spoken there or in any other foreign country will, help the cause of the negro here; but if we go to work, teach our people and pray to God to make them what they ought to be, He will bless such labor, He will answer such prayer, and the lynching of negroes in the south will be no
