The arguments in the case instituted by Gen. Butler, to test the validity of our registration laws are all in. The case will be decided on its merits, as the court has already announced that the action was brought in the proper way. There is no telling when a decision will be aunounced. It may be quite a while.

Two important and highly interesting papers have been given to the public since our last issue-the message of President Cleveland and that of Governor Tillman. Covering as they do about fifteen closely printed columns each we cannot even give an outline of their contents. Suffice to say they are both strong instruments and well worthy of their authors.

THE most notable feature of the beginning of the present Legislature, was the filing of Dr. Pope's patition. The petition complains of the unfairness of the present election law, and urges that it is contrary to the constitution of the State, and also contrary to the constitution of the United States. More specifically it alleges that the last election was conducted fraudulently, in the largest turnip we have ever seen. It that the law was not complied with. Some heavy charges are made against the supervisors and managers of election at various precincts. The petition ends with a prayer that the General Assembly may by concurrent resolution, entertain the contest of the election of Governor, and determine the same in accordance with the constitution, and in such manner as has been or may be prescribed by law. And your petition stands ready to prove the matters and things aforesaid by complaint and credible Jist church here was laid last Thursday with | testimoty, and prays the powers of your honorable bodies that the same may be had." was on hand and made music almost con- The petition is rather lengthy, containing as it does, something over twelve hundred words. The petition was placed in the hands of a committee. Meantime the election returns have been tabulated, John Gary

Tun following is an extract from a letter written by Andrew Carnegie, the iron King, correcting a misquoted remark :

"What I have said about wealth may be found in my own writings and not in extracts from supposed speeches. I had no reference to men who died leaving compe-tences, for I believe such men are the salt of civilization, but to men leaving millions in securities which they could have used in their lifetime. I said I believed the day would come when rich men would die disgraced and the tribute of approval would be given to those upon whose tombstones could te truthfully written: 'He lived without ostentation, and he died poor,' as was said

This is a sentiment worthy of a friend to many bad things said about him by the politicians in their clamors for free trade, and their denunciation of protected money Kings, but if he feels the sentiment expressed in the above he is neither a bad polling place one person as watcher to repreman nor a small man and knows the proper use of money as well as how to make it.

Tue question of finance now agitating he minds of our people more perhaps than any other public question, is one of the most momentous that has ever presented itself to the American people for a colution.

There are several plans prominently before the people differing from one another markedly in some respects. In our next issue we will give the substance of one or more of these financial achemes and perhaps continue the subject in subsequent issues. We will be impartial in our statement of these plans and we believe that a careful study of them will be beneficial to all who are interested in a sound and clas-

R. B. Kota, claiming to be Governor de ure, of Alabama, has issued a message to the General Assembly, of that State, and to the people. The charges made in his denunciation published some time since are renewed, and he calls upon the Assembly to pass a law providing honest elections and an honest count. His adherents are urged to form societies in every county and have discussions and readings to keep up the fire of opposition until some law is passed providing honest elections. He says he will accomplish his end peaceable, if possible, but that he will carry the matter into court if necessary. The probability is, from the way he is conducting himself, that he will cause some trouble or land in jail, or both.

Any one who has children will rejoice with L. B. Mulford, of Plainfield, N. J. His little boy, five years of age, was sick with croup. For two days and nights he tried various remedies recommended by friends and neighbors. He says: 1 thought sure I would less him. I had seen Chamberlain's Cough Remedy advertised and thought I would try it as a lest hope and am happy to say that after two doses he slept until morning. I gave it to him next day and a cure was affected. I keep this remedy in the house now and as soon as any of my children show signs of croup I give it to them and that is the last of it. 25 and 50 cent bottles for sale by B. F. Posey, Druggist.
