Work at Lockhart has been suspended since Xmas on account of the extremely bad weather, but as soon as the worst of winter is past, things there will go on with a rush. The building, which is about twice the size of the Union Mill, will soon be ready for the roof, which is to be of pitch and gravel, like most of the large roofs at the North. This mill which they expect to have running in time for this year's cotton crop will turn 25,000 spindles. The erectien of the big rock dam and excavating of the canal will begin in early Spring. We hope the Union Mill will soon see the way to double its capacity, which many of the mills around us are doing.

First Day's Registration. The books were opened last Menday for the registration of voters, for the election of Clerk and Treasurer of the town. There was some lively registration and when the time came to close the books, one hundred and forty-nine had registered. A good many were negroes, but there were not a few whites. The number registered was unusually large for the first day. The fact of it is that there is some active electioneering going on. The canidates are not making much fuss, but some of them are working, and working hard We are g'ad to see that the office is coveten. If there is anything disgusting in public affairs, it is for an office to go begging.

Str.kes are becoming more frequent and nors violent as the masses become more restless and the line between labor and capital becomes more distinct. The strike is a social distemper which the modern economist and statesman has to diagnose without the ail of books, the finger of history, or the lamp of experience. On the diagnosis and the remedy the life of our country depends. The disposition to go on a lawful strike results from a desire which is common to all of us al ke, namely to get the very most for our services. A strike is defined to be the organized act of the object of compelling their employers to concede certain demands made by themselves. Ouly in the last few years when labor has been throughly organized, and when the different orders number their members by the thousands, have the laborers been able to make any impression on capital by a strike. Our first great strike was the railroad strike ic 1874, when a good deal of damage was done to property in the city of Pittsburg and elsewhere. That strike was accompanied by a good deal of lawlessness. It was something new and untried and the laborers did not know how to control themselves. But it did one thing. It showed the power of organized | 000,000, to $700,000,000. laber. It showed that there might be such a thing as a lawful strike. Since that time strikes have been growing more and more frequent until now almost every week we hear of a strike somewhere. Yet while they are becoming more frequent and more violent, one thing is noticeable, they are conducted in a much more orderly manner than formerly. The strikers have their presidents or leaders, their committees, secretaries and etc: they cummit fewer breaches of the peace, and are getting so courageous that they are almost willing to come out boldly and make a fair fight of it. This has been done in several instances, but most of the great strikes are still accompanied by a good deal of lawlesness, although the leaders advise against it' The last, one of the most violent, and perhaps the most significant strike we have ever had is the one now in progress in the city of Brooklyn-the strike of the trolley laborers, motormen and conductors. The strike has been goin g on for two weeks, and no settlement is in sight yet. Travel on the trolley cars has been almost completely stopped for several days, and what cars were run, were run under the protection of special police. The malitia 7000 strong has been on duty for some time, a large force of extra police has been necessary, and mercantile business has been practically suspended, some large houses having actually discharged all clerks until the strike is settled; two men have been killed, and over a hundred wounded. The cost of the strike to the city of Brooklyn and its citizens will undoubtedly figure up in the millions. Even the items which may estimated with reasonable accuracy as summed up by The World, amount to nearly $600,000 This strike is more significant from the fact that it has occured in Brooklyn, one of our older and more conversative cities, in the very heart of the typical American civiliza-Poles and those fit only to heave coal or wield the hammer, but is a strike of the Letter plenty of this sand in our own streams. class of wage earners. Our situation is serious. This particular stike will undoubtedly be settled, but how about the next and the next as they grow more and more violent. It is a subject worthy of the most careful and painstaking study of our statesmen. "ARMOSIDE" CORSETS dont brenk It is a problem that cannot be brushed aside. We must solve it and settle it or we perish ----

> The postmaster here, Mr. R. W. Harris, bout eight o'cleck. It happened on this wise. About three weeks ago it was noticed one morning that Fant Bro's, box had been opened by some one besides the owners. Some of the letters had been broken open and replaced. About two weeks later the box was again found to have been opened. This time Mr. Nicholson's box was opened also, three of the letters were opened and the catch on the door of the box was broken. The postmaster not knowing what else to do, decided to lay a trap and wait for the fellow. Sunday night was set for the time. They tied strings to the two boxes that had been broken into and attached them to a bell in such a manner that when the doors of the boxes were opened the bell would ring. Then they were to take it by turns and watch through the night. At eight o'clock and before they had expected any thief, the beil gave the alarm. Mr. Faucett who was in advance ran out and opened the side door and came directly on the fellow. Before Faucett said anything at all the man said "Why I'm not doing anythe letters and papers lying all out on the floor. Faucett caught the fellow and with the assistance of Mr. Harris carried him back in the office. He was indentified as Jno. Dow colored. Commissioner Butler was sent for, a'so Messrs. Fant and Nicholson innamuch as their boxes had been the subject of the crime. After a short examination Mr. Butler turned the prisoner over to night watchman J. B. Porter, and he was lodged in jail where he still remains. Under a mail big close to the place where the prisoner sat after he was caught, was found next morning a small seven shooter revolver and one of Mr. Nicholson's papers. It is supposed that he had these in his pocket and put them under the bag in order to get rid of them. Jno. Dow is a yellow boy about 19 or 20 years old. He was raised here, and has had considerable educational advantages. He now awaits his articles. Therefore I will say for the infortrial for a crime as foolish as it was criminal.

Cedar Trees. We understand that there are many cellar rees in Union County, and some very large ones. The Telephone Co., which will seen begin work, will want 150 to 200 large cedar poles 25 to 30 feet long, on which to put they will be presecuted to the full extent of their wires. This is a good opportunity for the law. Any person desiring to deal in some farmer who has the trees to make some pistols, carrilges, etc., can do so with immoney before beginning his crep. Anyone who has the poles to sell should see Mr. W. D. Arthur, as he is managing the new enter-

President's Message

PRESIDENT C eveland, in view of the finan cial straight under which we labor at present as a nation, has sent a special message to Congress recommending legislation which, in his opinion, will bring relief. The l'resident's plan, in brief, is as follows Issue 3 per cent. fifty-year bonds of $20 and $50, and their mattip es, principal and interest payable in gold; revire legal-tender and treasury notes; permit banks to issue notes of not less than $10. to the face value of bonds deposited, except 2 yer cents; re place silver certificates of $10 and over by silver certificates of less denominations make import duties payable in gold only. workman when they leave their work with | The President renews his resolve to main tain the public credit in any event.

We do not see how this measure would remedy the evil. It would un loubtedly give temporary relief, as did the two former bond issues, and has this further good feature, it provides against the reissue of redeemed notes; but we fear it will be to us only like cold water to one with fever-delightful at first, but followed by tad effects. We do not see what would hinder the gold men from buying the bonds, and then immediate ly withdrawing the gold and compelling bond issues continually until the government is saddled with a debt of from $500,

A bill has been introduced embodying the President's ideas. But with the opposition that it will meet from the silver men it will undoubtedly stick in the Senate it not in both houses.

RAFFLING is the craze now, and it is done on a new plan. Pieces of paper are numbered from one up, so as to make the sum of all the numbers equal to the value in cents of the article to be raffled for. The pieces of paper are placed in envelopes. sealed up, and then mixed. Any person, desiring a chance draws an envelope. The number on the slip of paper in the envelope determines how many cents he is to pay for his draw. For instance, if his envelope contains slip No. 1. he pays 1 cent, No. 13 pays 13 cents, and so on. When all the numbers are taken, then all hands throw dice for the prize, or have some one to throw for all. Of course one can draw as many times as is desired, and every chance will be entitled to a throw.

In this way a good bicycle was rattled off his week by Mr. J. R. Mathis. In this contest Dr. M. T. Smith was the lucky man, though at sent, his proxy baving thrown 41 for No. 59.

The bicycle was immediately put up and old to the highest bidder. It brought $29 Mr. V. L. Crumpton raffled off his bay mare, also, in the same way. He sold nearly all his chauces and bought in the balance, with the privilege of throwing. In the contest Mr. W. E. Ray and Mr. Crumpton tied, each having thrown forty-
