A bale of cotton caught fire at the depot last Monday. It was on the truck and just ready to be turned on the scales when the fire was discovered. In an instant the weigher had it wheeled back and thrown from the platform and away from the other cotton. The flames flashed over it aimos, like kerosene but it was where it could nodo much damage. About twenty pounds o' the cotton was burned or damaged before the fire could be put out. It is not known how it caught. It was a lucky thing that t was on the truck. We congratulate the Arthur, President and Treasurer. weigher on his presence of mind in having it thrown from the platform.

TIMES: What's muddle we are in! The politicians with their sharp argument and shar er words have arrayed friend against friend, brother against brother,

Those who ought to be working toge her and feeling together are pulling in divers directions. With rings in our noses, as it were, we have allowed ourselves to be led into a strife that is as useless as it is destructive to every in'erest that is near and dear to us. And all for what? Let every man answer imself. Has politics ever added a sing e cent to your income? Do you not have to work just the same, whoever holds the office? Do you not find more real satisfac ion in the respect and good will of your neighbors than you do in the success of any party, or man or set of men?

For four years the strife has continued until all good men are tired of it. They have grown tired of promises that have failed to materialize. The want the major.ty to rule, but they want them to rule quietly. Everything is ripe for a reconciliation. The best pe ple, those who make their living by their own labor, the muscle and bone of our Goverment, are anxious to stop the political turmoil and make friends. The leaders of the Reform Faction advise peace. Tillman advises peace, the "Forty" have issued their address and the Conservative Conciliators have met them quite half way.

It does look like we ought to get together. In the face of all this Senator Irby, who ought to wish the people well considering the fact that he has been favore! far more highly than he himself had ever hoped, so he says, has come out in a letter which can have but one object, that of stirring up old feuds. Well the meat and bread of some is the sorrow of others. Talk is cheap, so is printers ink. For four years you have sacrificed your own interest to that of politicians. Don't you think it is time for you to be looking out for yourself?

Ford is a "sure cure for the blues."

Several years ago Macauly writing about labor said that in America instead of a large family being a burden on a man it was really an advantage, that a man with a large family could by working his children, start with nothing and make an independent fortune on a farm. That was undoubtedly true at the time it was written, but certainly could not be remarked of the present, except a few farmers who have unusual advantages or some who plant unusual crops.

America, however, is still the paradise of the laborer. While Macauly's remark no onger applies to the farm, yet it might be applied to the operative. A man with a family might attain to a competance by the labor of himself and children in the factory. The reason why so few operatives attain to wealth is that a great many of the younger ones are foolishly extravagant. Again many of the more frugal when they have gained a start place their all in some hazardous business, and being unskilled they lose it. There is no more certain living for the masses than the wages paid by the factories, out of which a fair amount can be laid aside every week.

"DIXIE BOY" Turning Plows. Improved. $1.50 each. "THE OLD RELIABLE."

THERE's no use kicking, for we wen't be felt, because we of the South are just simply "not in it." But that last bond issue was either the biggest farce or the biggest fraud yet.

How have the mighty fallen. Last year the word of Cleveland might have stood against the world in matters of finance, now sits he there and none so poor to de sire his opinion, no not even on a horse trade. His friends blush for him, while his enemies almost hesitate to kick the man who is down.

There was something wrong somewhere about that last bond deal. It past consummated either in ignorance or care assness or fraud. It we lean to the side of charity, we would have to put it down to ignorance; but that is hardly to be believed of a President of the United States, besides it is hard to see how any person over twenty years of age could have been led unwittingly into such a contract as that made by the Administration with Morgan & Co.

Our plows are of the BEST steel shapes, and do not weigh heavy. A. H. Foster & Co. Before our next issue B. R. Tillmau will have taken his place in the National Council. He is not naknown there. He is not unknown anywhere in the United States to those who read, for during the last four years his name has been constantly defore the publie, kept there alike by friends and enemies. One thing we may expect from Tillman and that is candor. We may also look for him to do something. It certainly is refresh ing to think that there will be one man in the Senate who will do something, for any activity would be better than stagnation.

Whatever may be said of our junior Senator, one thing is well nu lerstood and that is, that he is his own man and does not belong to anybody. He will hoe his own row and not ask another to do it for him. And whatever may be said of his mistakes he is

Have you read the particulars of that last bond issue? Briefly the executive of the U. S. entered into a secret contract with certain brokers to sell bonds to the amount of $62,000,000 at 1.01 when the bonds are worth much more than that on the market.

The brokers are selving them now at 1.18 to those who desire them as investment and for deposit on which to base circulation.

What the people want to know is way the bonds were not offered directly to the publie, instead of being sent through the nands of brokers at a loss of about $8,000,000 to the tax payers. The friends of the President are chagrined and his enemies are tricked

Does Your Boy Need Britannica?

Youth

Is the Formative Period. It is then that the mind is freest from one, the imagination unhampered, the memory most retentive, the eye brightest, and the nature most susceptible. What a boy reads in this period becomes so indecibly impressed upon his nature that it becomes a part of his very

This is a time when a parent's responsibility Is greatest. It is not enough to tell the boy what he ought to become. Most boys are not overly susce; ille to didactic teaching. You can usually lead him a mile easier than you can drive him a rod. See that he has the proper surroundings, and a little encouragement, and it is surprising how readily he develops a taste for the best In literature. Let that taste be developed, and there is little danger as to his future.
