THE UNION TIMES, UNION, S. C., MAY 3, 1901:

ETTA JANE ETCHINGS.

An Interesting Sermon by Rev. Sam T. Creech.

Mr. H. T. Scott, a former citizen of this community, who now lives near Cannon's camp ground in Spartanburg county, is visiting relatives and friends in this section. Mrs. Scott accompanied him. It has been twelve years since we met and he shows that time has dealt kindly with him. He is a noble christian hearted man with an unyieldchristian hearted man with an unyield-ing faith in God's promises. Mrs. Carrie Inman was called to the bedside of her mother, Mrs. Julia A. Kendrick, who has since died at her home in Gaffney City. Mrs. Kendrick has many warm friends in this com-munity who mourn her death. She was a woman of exemplary christian char-acter.

We had the pleasure Sunday of attending divine service at Mesopotamia church. Rev. S. T. Creech preached a church. Rev. S. T. Creech preached a plain, practical, common sense sermon (if such a term is a suitable description of it). The subj-ct was complaining and discontentment with the providence of God. His text, Acts 5:9. The speaker dealt with every phase of life and pro-fession among men where this weakness creeps out so manifestly. Not a single one of them escaped his attention, and to use a common expression "the handled one of them escaped his attention, and to use a common expression "he handled them with gloves off." Discontentment at God's providences is rebellion against His authority. He advised his hearers to watch the chronic fault finder for it is a sure sign of his own moral deprevity. The man who thinks everybody dishonest will best beer watching himself

The spirit of commercialism is doing a great injury to the cause of Christ. Officers and members of the church can't take time from their secular duties to attend upon the ordinances of the Lord's house, and the work of laying up treasures upon earth to satisfy the lusts of the flesh are attended to rather than that which pertains to our eternal than that which pertains to our eternal welfare. In a spirit of brotherly love with him it is we Methodists, we Baptists, we Presbyterians, we factory people, we country people, we town peo-ple, we merchants, we farmers, we doctors, we lawyers, we mechanics, etc., because he felt he was in a measure identified with them all. When he spoke of a man he meant a man, not a dudish unstart, but a man who was a man and upstart, but a man who was a man and stood upon his convictions of right and wrong. A religion that was not based on brotherly love was a miserable make shift. The man who apologetically says shit. The man who appropriate says If you are over in my neighborhood come over and see me, doesn't want you to come, and that is the best way he has to tell you so. If he had a son who didn't have sense enought to make a farmer he would put him to studying law or some other profession. A man law or some other profession. A man to be a successful farmer must be be a man of God, who can trust the storm and the sunshine, the rain and the drouth, the cold and the heat. All must be submitted to the sovereign will and pleasure of God the maker an I preserver of all things in order to obtain the best results. He didn't wish the farmers before him to think that he thought they were exceptions to the general rule or that they were successful in this respect for they were successful in this respect for they were not, they were among the most violent grumhlers on earth and couldn't agree among themselves or any thing to suit all of them. If he would go out there and call a meeting of the famers to find out what each one wanted he would find that A wanted rain on Monday, B on Tuesday, C on Wednesday, D on Thursday and so on, and had he the power to grant any of their wishes he must displease six of them to please one. This is the outgrowth of our not trusting God to manage his own affairs. The man who has no confidence in himself has a confidence in God

If we will only do our duty to our-selves and to our God He will bring order out of confusion and in the end county about one hundred years. The grains are extra long and well developed, all will be peace. Vox.

Last year, as I have mentioned in these letters a'ready, was a very prosperous year for the farmers in this section. year for the farmers in this section. This prosperity was brought about in a measure by a diversification of crops helped to a great extent by good prices prevailing. With t view to diversifica-tion again this year, last fall a great deal of wheat was planted, and in February the usual amount of land was sown in Everything seemed to be proving oats. Everything seemed to be moving along nicely until about three weeks ago green bugs made their appearance in central and north Texas which have ravaged the wheat crop to a great extent and the oat crop is just about destroyed, if I were to tell you the oat fields in this section looked as if a fire had burnt over them you could hardly realize such a them you could hardly realize such a thing, but such a scene is what they practically present to the view, caused by the green bugs eating and sucking the plants. The like of which has never been seen or heard of before. It is a great disaster indeed, almost 'a calamity to the section of the State visited by these little pests. Men usually write about everything

Men usually write about everything that happens, they have written and are still writing about the green bugs. What has been said so far has been mostly prosaic, yes, very prosaic, but one gen-tleman down at Denton the other day broke forth in a poetic strain, and I herewith reproduce his production.

"The green bugs get our wheat,

The June bugs get our honey, The red bugs get our tough old shins And the gold bugs get our money."

This may create a smile when you read it and doubtless you will catch the fun out of the last line, but sir, if you lived in Texas on the black waxy land you would laugh when you reached the third line in this poetical effusion. close this paragraph by saying the green bugs have done incalcuable damage to

to the cat crop. Col. A. H. Belo, one of the proprietors of the Galveston-Dallas News, died at Asheville, N. C, April 19th, He was one of the progressive men of this State. Il is death is a misfortune for Texas. The papers he controlled and founded The papers he contralled and founded were potent factors in the upbuilding of the State. It is said of him that his watchwords were "progress," "liber-ality," "independence," "fairdealing," all of which was demonstrated in the conduct of his newspapers, Col. Belo was a native of North Carolina. He was born, reared and educated in that was born, reared and educated in that State. His home was at Salem. He came to Texas some time in the 60's and soon thereafter engaged in the newspaper business. It is needless for me to tell you he succeeded in his chosen profession. Col. James Q. Chenoweth, of this city, who was first auditor of the treasury during the first Cleveland administraduring the first Cleveland administra-tion, and for a number of years county Judge of Fannin county has embarked in the newspaper business here in Bon-ham. Col. Chenoweth has associated himself with Mr. J. M. Terry, who was the editor and proprietor of the daily and weekly Fannin Favorite. Col. Cheno-weth is a fine lawyer and a fuent orator and I am happy to say I number him among my best friends, and I am glad he has decided to enter the journalistic has decided to enter the journalistic field where he can and will make the power of his facile pen felt.

Bonham will have another railroad son. The road will come from Denison into Bonham, a distance of twenty-eight miles, and is to be built with Bonham and Denison capital. This city, that is to say Bonham citizens, are to put into this enterprise $135,000 and Denison citizens are to put in $115,000, $250,000 iu all.

And Bonham's cotton mill will commence operation in a week or ten days hence. J. S. C.

> A shooting occurred over about Mon-arch Mills Sunday but no one was seriously hurt. Nim Ellis and Bill Feaster, two drunken and obstreperous negroes were cursing around the yard of a citizen. They were ordered away, and made some sassy rejoinder. They went off threatening to come back and do as they pleased. They returned and were greeted with a few loads of shot which they hurriedly carried away with them. The negroes have been arrested and lodged in jail. They will be tried at the next term of court. The disturbance was outside the corporate limits.

THE OIL FEVER IN TEXAS. A Very Interesting News Letter From the Far West by our Regular Correspondent.

EDITOR TIMES:-I know you have heard time and again of the oil fields at Beaumount, Texas. Oil was found there recently and I understand from people who have lately returned from there that there is lots of it. The oil craze has hit Texas and has hit it hard Everybody is talking oil. Company after company has been organiz-d for the purpose of developing the hither to undiscovered oil fields in the State. A strong idea of speculation is growing in the minds of the average Texan, and in that line the said Texan from Dan to Beersheba is hustling. He goes to Beaumount, he goes to Corsecana, he goes hither and be goes thither to find that Bonanza which he shall never see perhaps or realize in the oil business. I opine that many men right here in this sunny clime is as much excited and as wild as the stock jobber on Wall Street when he is playing a losing game with fickle fortune. No doubt there are others who are calmer and cooler who see in their mind's eye a veritable oil fountain in Texas which shall exc ed all others and that bye and bye a great company shall be organized to manipulate this fountain which shall force the Standard Oil Company to pale into insignificence. I fear such ideas will cause many a man to loose his hard earned cash in a vain attempt to make a fortune without an effort on his part. To give some idea of what the people are doing in this direction, I will tell you that as many as one hundred and thirty seven oil companies have applied to Secretary of State at Austin for charters to do business in Texas within 100 days with a capital of over forty-two million dollars. I copy herewith part of an ad-vertisement of one of the companies:

"The Merchant's Oil Company, Beaumount, Texas. Authorized capital $500-000, in one dollar non-assessable shares. Offers to investors $50,000 of their stock at the rate of 50 cents per share.' Then go on to show their holdings in real estate and a list of the stock holders who reside at Beaumont, Gaveston and Crawley, Texas.

McCrummen Brothers, of Paris, Texas, sold a few days ago part of 550 acres of latid near Beaumont for a round one hundred themand dollars ($100,000),

All doctors have tried to cure CATARRH by the use of powders, acids, caracteristic and drugs in paste form. Their powders dry up the mucuous membranes causing them to crack open and bleed.
