

Will you wet down your roughage and save several dollars on every ton?

SOME farmers are still paying top prices for old style cottonseed hulls because they prefer a bulky filler. Others are paying much less for and are making them as bulky as old style hulls by wetting them down a half hour or so before using.

BUCKEYE HULLS
COTTONSEED

By adding an equal part of water to Buckeye Hulls and stirring thoroughly they will swell and give you as bulky a roughage as you want. Most important, the bulkiness will be due to water which is of value to your cattle—not to lint which has no food value whatever.

Other Advantages

Buckeye Hulls go farther. They allow better assimilation of other food. No trash or dust.

Sacked—easy to handle. They mix well with other forage. Take half as much space in the barn.

Mr. Benjamin Thompson, Bald Knob, Ark.,

is feeding Buckeye Hulls to stock cattle. He says that he gets more food value per ton with less waste. He has bought five tons and has them stored in barn. He says that they occupy less space than old style hulls.

To secure the best results and to develop the ensilage odor, wet the hulls thoroughly twelve hours before feeding. It is easy to do this by wetting them down night and morning for the next feeding. If at any time this cannot be done, wet down at least thirty minutes. If you prefer to feed the hulls dry, use only half as much by bulk as of old style hulls.

Book of Mixed Feeds Free

Gives the right formula for every combination of feeds used in the South. Tells how much to feed for maintenance, for milk, for fattening, for work. Describes Buckeye Hulls and gives directions for using them properly. Send for your copy to the nearest mill.

USED STRING TO STIR ANGER

Twine Swung in Air, London Busman Explained Indicated Other Cabby's Brother Was Hanged.

The conversation turned on the wonderful pungency and power of inventive of the old-time London cabby as narrated by Charles Dickens in "Pickwick Papers" and by other authors of that and a subsequent time.

"A few years ago," said Dr. John H. Oliver, in the Indianapolis News, "I paid my second visit to London. The cabby and his horse had passed away. The horse-drawn omnibus was no more, the petrol-driven bus having taken its place. I told a Briton whom I met over there that I liked to sit on the outside next the driver, that I found him a most interesting character."

"So do I," said my British acquaintance, "but he is not at all as interesting as his predecessor of the old fashion. I was seated beside one of these old-time drivers going through a street crowded with vehicles when a bus coming from the opposite direction was in collision with our bus. The wheels of the two locked and then the highly ornate inventive between the two drivers began. It was the perfect flower, yes, the full fruitage I thought of profanity and abuse."

"But I was mistaken. There was more and worse to come. When the wheels had become unlocked and we were slowly moving away, my friend, the driver, drew from his pocket a bit of string and holding it above his head swung it slowly to and fro."

"The other driver at once jumped down from his bus and, whip in hand, struck at the string-shaker. The wealth of epithet he then used showed that all that had preceded it was as mild and kindly as the softest baby chatter. Our driver answered not a word, but as he drove slowly on continued the string shaking."

"I wondered what there could be in this simple bit of dumb-show to make the other busman so frantically angry. Then my driver gave the explanation: 'E didn't like it, did he? It was only a bit of joke, don't you see. 'Is brother was hanged last Friday.'"

Church Gives Every Man.

There is a little French church in the heart of Philadelphia which has given and given to the great world strife, ever since the war began, life blood and widows' mites, and in the face of poverty is still giving, giving, according to a Philadelphia correspondent.

Not one man between seventeen and fifty years old remains in the membership of the little church of St. Sauveur. All are at the front, some are with the French army, some are with the United States forces, but all have gone. All are fighting for the same great world ideal.

They have left mothers, wives, and little ones who do not complain, but give to the last penny, not only for those they love, but for the relief of all suffering.

Nearly all of them are working people, but, in addition to the struggle for bread and butter, they have found the way to adopt and support four orphans in France. In addition to the incessant knitting and sewing for the little war orphans here these brave women have also found time to make and send countless woolen comforts and relief supplies to the war victims in France and Belgium, the orphans and the wounded. They also subscribed to the starving Armenians.

War Curbs Suicide.

Sir Bernard Mullet, registrar general of the British empire, announced recently that suicide had fallen off strikingly in England since the beginning of the war. The explanation is that the national unity of feeling, the subordination of self and the sharing of sympathy on all sides makes the individual's personal injuries less important and induces him to forget his own desperation. Personal indulgences and excesses of immorality, causes of insanity and melancholia, are curbed and minimized naturally by the economies enforced upon the populace. Discipline in eating, dressing, working has also a beneficial effect in keeping the mind sane and free from morbid broodings.

Would Take Glass Eye Back.

Paul Gary of Anderson, Ind., is all American, with the exception of a glass eye. The substitute optic is alien.

Gary tried to enlist in the United States marine corps at their recruiting station in Louisville, Ky., but was rejected when his infirmity was discovered by Sergt. G. C. Wright.

"Didn't you know that the loss of an eye would prevent your enlisting?" asked the sergeant.

"I thought it might," explained Gary, "but this glass blinker is the only part of me that was made in Germany, and I want to take it back."

He was advised to mail it.

Crop and Drug Plants.

One of the projects outlined by the committee on botany of the national research council is the search for wild plants which may be used as wartime substitutes for the more costly crop plants. During the Civil War Dr. John Porcher, a Southerner, published a book giving a list of plants of the South which could be substituted for much-needed food and drug plants. It is suggested that information might be obtained from hunters, trappers, woodsmen, farmers, Indians and the foreagers, who pick up considerable food from the countryside. Similar information is desired concerning plants that can be used in medicine.

CONVINCED OF TANLAC BY AID GIVEN WIFE

Husband Says She Added Fifteen Pounds on Four Bottles

DOUBLE ENDORSEMENT

Knew Tanlac Would Help Him Greatly When He Began It, And He Tells Details

Cases in which two or more people in the same family have been so greatly benefited by Tanlac that they have offered a double endorsement of this famous Master Medicine are common. When you see a person relieved of suffering and made strong again, it is the most natural thing in the world for you to want the same benefits. This is how Charles E. Whitmire, of 103 Bradford St., Albany, N. Y., happened to take Tanlac.

"My wife, who had been all run down and nervous and getting weaker right along began to take Tanlac," Mr. Whitmire explained. "Well, of course, I watched the results, and it was wonderful to see the way it built her up. On four bottles she gained fifteen pounds. I had been doubtful about Tanlac, but that settled me. When I started Tanlac I could hardly eat one good meal in a whole week. From suffering with a bad stomach I had become to nervous and sour and ferment and form gas. Because I had sour stomach—acid stomach—so long, my mouth had gotten sore. I could not sleep restfully, but would wake up every hour or two and would roll and toss. I was tired in the morning, and by mid-afternoon I was so tired out it seemed I couldn't get through the day. I had lost all ambition, and I did not care. Seeing what Tanlac had done for my wife encouraged me to take it, and I was not surprised when it began to brace me up right away. It did as much for me as it did for her. I slept right through the night, woke up rested, with a good appetite, and was able to enjoy my meals. By food digested, and the gas, bloating and sour stomach disappeared. I felt like a new man, and the old tired, worn-out feeling went with the rest of my troubles."

When Mr. Whitmire's stomach became weak, his system probably began to clog with waste matter. What he needed was a good system purifier, stomach tonic and reconstructive, and Tanlac did the work for him and he saw it do for his wife, and as it has done for countless thousands. His Best Wishes.

Billy, after hearing the relatives and friends offer their congratulations, stood admiringly before the bride and bridegroom as if about to say something. The bride (his sister) smiled sweetly at Billy, who braced up and said: "You look nice, sis, and I hope you'll stay married."

A Statesman's Funeral.

When the famous Li Hung Chang was buried all his umbrellas, vestments, scarves of titles, etc., accompanied him to the grave, and prominent among these was a white cock in a cage, which was to lead the departed statesman's spirit to the heavenly destination. London Times says.

MAKES DISCOVERY DIGGING DITCH

Owner of Land Made Rich; Man Digging Ditch Cured of Tenacious Disease.

STORY A ROMANCE

People With Stomach, Kidney, Blood, Rheumatism or Skin Affections Relieved.

Acid Iron Mineral (non-alcoholic, natural iron) is taken from a great deposit found upon a poor farmer's place near Hickory, Mississippi and the story of this great gift of nature's, which made the farmer rich and the medical world richer, and makes it possible for people to quickly treat stomach, digestion, kidney, blood and rheumatic complaints at home, makes interesting reading.

An old man while digging a mill race on the Horn Farm, ran across it. He was afflicted with an old fever sore and blood troubles which were considered incurable. During the several weeks digging his feet and legs were wet each day as water gathered and he noticed that this water turned a reddish color caused by mixing of water with the vein of peculiar looking mineral, almost like powder, which had apparently laid for centuries encased in a marble-like casing of rock and clay.

The sore on his leg began to heal and by the time his work was completed his leg was sound and well. This was considered so very remarkable by the people of that section that an investigation was made and it was found to be like radium, gold, platinum and other wondrous secrets of nature—a natural compound containing inimitable properties in proportions no chemist has attempted to duplicate though a large sum was offered he who could accomplish this.

Today, like radium, which is used in curing cancers, x-ray work, and illuminating watch dials, so Acid Iron Mineral has its many uses being a remarkable remedy used externally or internally and anyone troubled with blood diseases, eruptions, rheumatism, kidney, bladder or stomach disorders of any sort may wisely visit the nearest store and procure a bottle. A twelve ounce bottle sent prepaid on receipt of $1 by the Ferrandine Chemical Corp., Roanoke, Va., or send stamped envelope with letter telling what your trouble is for folder telling more about this great iron preparation, Acid Iron Mineral.
