LOCKHART JUNCTION.

Lockhart Junction, Feb. 18.—Well, the weather has been real fine for a week or more but it is a little cool this morning. Yesterday was a very pretty time for church going and there was a good crowd out at New Hope to hear our preacher in charge, Rev. Blackmon as there were many who had not heard him on account of the bad weather. He preached a fine sermon.

I met Mr. Jennings Otts at Union last week; he is representing a large publishing house and is traveling through this part of the country. He is interesting agents in selling books for the house which he serves, he has several kinds, also has Bibles. Mr. Otts is a fine young man reared at Kelton in Pinckney township. I am in hopes he will be successful in getting agents.

While traveling last week I stopped at Mr. Clough Farrar's home in Pinckney township near the old ferry on Broad river. Mr. Arthur Fowler and family live there now, he is superintendent of that farm; this farm is now owned by Miss Mary Emma Foster of Union. I was invited to dinner and was served handsomely and I sure did enjoy it as I had driven 11 miles and had eaten an early breakfast and sure did justice to the good things set before me, Mr. Fowler showed me some fine pigs of the Red Duroc kind, full breed and he had five that looked like a picture. Then he showed me a couple of fine milk cows that he had been offered one hundred dollars for one that morning and he refused to take it as he wanted one hundred and twenty-five for her. I have been to a great many places but here is where I saw the most corn in one place. I think from the size of the crib it has been measured accordingly to the size of the crib. I suppose there was something like 3000 bushels of corn. Mr. Fowler says he had many acres that made 60 bushels to the acre. I sure enjoy myself with Mr. and Mrs. Fowler and their kind hospitality was much appreciated by your scribe. Yes I am going there again.

Now as I go on I found the road gave out like I found once before in my travels, I came to the end of the road and I found some parties boring a well and there was a log house standing close by—that was all I saw and I asked them where the road was that it had given out. One man replied to me "this is the end of the road and there is nothing ahead of you but a grave yard." That kind of made me feel a little strange. I told him I wasn't hunting a grave yard right now and you can just imagine how I felt and the sun was just about down and thinking about where I would stay all night, but I soon got straightened out into a better road and went on my way rejoicing. I will tell you sometime where this road was.

The end of the road I came back to at Mr. Fowler's was not as bad as this. It was the place where Union county's first court house was built many years ago. I had no one to give me any information only an old negro woman living there. I asked her if there was a grave yard near this place and she pointed out one near by and I went and found marble box tombs with name, dates and epitaphs engraved thereon. The name of one was to memory of Thomas C. Taylor, who was born in Ireland, the 25th of March 1776 and died at Pinckneyville, S. C., 19th of June 1832 in the 57th year of his life and here is his epitaph:

"Silent grave to thee I trust, This sacred and worthy dust. Keep it safe, O Sacred Tomb, Until a wife shall ask for room."

There are two brick buildings standing there also in memory of the old place. One building was the store house and the other one was the jail so the old negro told me. There is another old land mark left at this place and it is an old oak tree—part of it standing and is alive, and it seems it was a very large tree at one time, not part of the tree has rotted off and leaves a hollow stump near the bottom which makes a place for depositing the old ploughs and other junk around. There was several pounds of iron around here at the foot of the tree.

The farm lands at this place are fertile and the property is mostly owned by Mr. Ben Foster. The old road that once led down to the ferry is just a path now. As I passed along and looked at the old landmarks, I thought of those good people that had passed and gone. How would they feel if they could come back to that place now? They would not know where they were, so you see things change with the years. Well, I see a good deal and learn a little as time goes on.

I have been designated the food administrator for my part of the county. Let us all observe the meatless, wheatless days and all the otherless days.

Monday wheatless, Tuesday meatless, Wednesday wheatless, Saturday porkless; one meatless meal every day; one meatless meal every day, save sugar every day, save fats every day.

How? Come to our store which is being run as far as we know how strictly in accordance with the rules and regulations of the United States Food Administration, as promulgated by Herbert Hoover, William Elliott and Lowndes Browning. Secure you a supply from our large variety and wide selection of all small garden seed, seed Irish potatoes, onion sets, and as often as sun, rain and season will permit, put them in the ground, nurse and tend them carefully, raise food, then more food and then still more food, in fact, keep on raising food at home, on the farm, in the garden, in the front yard and back yard and fence corner, you not only strike the blow that will count most to meet and overcome the Huns, but you will possibly save yourself and maybe a neighbor or so from going hungry later, for we have already been warned by the Government that unless we raise something to eat at home we will have to go without later. As all the railroad facilities will be required to move soldiers, munitions and supplies for the soldiers and allies and maybe just at the time that we need something to eat most. We have the seed, we want to serve you and our country. If it can be had we will have it for you.

TRY IT! SUBSTITUTE FOR NASTY CALOMEL

Starts Your Liver Without Making You Sick and Can Not Salivate.

Every druggist in town—your druggist and everybody's druggist has noticed a great falling-off in the sale of calomel. They all give the same reason. Dodson's Liver Tone is taking its place.

"Calomel is dangerous and people know it, while Dodson's Liver Tone is perfectly safe and gives better results," said a prominent local druggist. Dodson's Liver Tone is personally guaranteed by every druggist who sells it. A large bottle costs 50 cents, and if fails to give easy relief in every case of liver sluggishness and constipation, you have only to ask for your money back.

Dodson's Liver Tone is a pleasant tasting, purely vegetable remedy, harmless to both children and adults. Take a spoonful at night and wake up feeling fine; no biliousness, sick headache, acid stomach or constipated bowels. It doesn't gripe or cause inconvenience all the next day like violent calomel. Take a dose of calomel today and tomorrow you will feel weak, sick and nauseated. Don't lose a day's work! Take Dodson's Liver Tone instead and feel fine, full of vigor and ambition.

Simplest of Cements.

Condensed milk applied to the edges of pieces of broken china will keep the article as intact as the majority of cements on the market today, says the discoverer. He adds that he has mended saucers that have withstood washings in hot water, and has mended a telescope lens of fairly large size with this unique cement.
