AN INDIAN BOOTBLACK.

Sitting Bull's eldest son is a bootblack. His name is Montezuma, and he is a graduate of the Carlisle Indian school.

After his schooling he went to Philadelphia full of ambition and musing over the profession he would adopt. At first it seemed to him that he might be a banker and then, when no one seemed inclined to help him along that path, a master merchant. But he was beginning to learn that there is no royal road to riches, and he thereupon decided that he would black shoes.

For a few cents he bought the regulation kit, and it was not long before he could send for Winenah, from the Rosebud agency, the girl who had promised to marry him. Instead of the soapbox which Montezuma once carried for an outfit, he now has a handsome stand, and this descendant of a line of chiefs is building up a more flourishing business every day. Best of all, he lays his success to Carlisle, for, as he says, he learned there how to de things well, the small as well as the great .- Youth's Companion.

A Chinese Sawmill.

It is a strange sight to see a Chinese sawmill and the peculiar manner in which the work is accomplished. It consists of a log that has been hewn square and placed upon supports, on which a single Chinaman nearly naked stands and manipulates a large saw, which comprises the motive power and the requisite machinery, and by a very slow process the lumber is cut in thickness to meet the demands of trade. It is said there are no other kinds of sawmills in all that country. And to think that such a state of affairs exists in an empire over a thousand years old and among a people in some respects so profi-cient! The reason for this no doubt is the immense population that struggles for existence. Very sheap labor is the result, the average wages being from 10 to 20 cents a day.

An Odd Classification.

A custom house decision on fleas has been rendered in Switzerland. A package many trained Fleas" reached G find was that ogy the colle of June bugs, which had been ruled as "edibles." The case went from one official to another till it reached headquarters at Berne, whence after much investigation and deliberation the conclusion was reached that the fleas came under the head of "wild animals in a menagerie.
