"Le Ball Masque."

"Le Ball Masque," given by "Le Cercle Entre-nous" Dec. 31, 1924, was one of the greatest events of the Yuletide. The spacious second floor of the Odd Fellows' building was beautifully decorated in evergreen twigs and paper that carried out the color scheme of the season. Everyone arranged their costume so artistically and was so well disguised that it was a task to determine one from the other. At 12 bells the guests unmasked and there was a scene of beauty to behold when the lovely faces discarded their masks. Everyone was then able to speak with their friends as silence previously prevailed. A delicious course of punch, chicken salad, ham and pimento sandwiches were served. A five piece orchestra rendered very enchanting music. The members of "Le Cercle Entre-nous" feel very grateful to the guests who complied with their wishes by way of masking. The invitation list consisted of members of "Le Cercle Entre-nous" and their guests; visiting friends and a few social associates.

The Regal Drug Store and Walton's Pharmacy have consolidated into De-Pinna Drug Co., greet them at the old Regal.

Mr. Adam B. Lindsay, who has been living in Philadelphia, Pa., for quite awhile is back in the city. He is a printer of the "Old School."

Inorganic Salt as Cure for Tuberculosis Unqualifiedly Endorsed by Chicago Surgeon.

Chicago, Jan. 4.—Sanocrysine, an inorganic salt of gold which has been developed by Prof. Holger Moellgaard, Danish scientist, as a cure for tuberculosis, received an unqualified endorsement from Dr. Peter C. Clemensen, Chicago surgeon, in his first report to the Chicago health department.

Dr. Clemensen was sent to Copenhagen to examine into the possibilities of the new specific after announcement of its discovery was made at health officers convention in Columbus, Ohio, last October.

"My impressions so far, are that the thing is all that is claimed for it and then some," Dr. Clemensen wrote. "You need have no fear about it being genuine. It is bona fide, scientific and good."

"It cannot be used on advanced tuberculosis where the lungs are almost gone and the patient is weak. It will not reproduce tissue. But it absolutely cures the beginning tuberculosis where there is no nephritis or syphilis as complications."

IN DRY AMERICA.

America is great, and one of the outstanding reasons why it is great is because it has prohibition. At least, prohibition has not retarded its progress. Take a glance at the following facts as given by Walter W. Head, of New York, president of the American Bankers' Association, and then remember he is talking about dry America:

110,000,000 persons, occupying 3,700,000 square miles of territory and possessing wealth estimated at $300,000,000,000.

Bank deposits aggregating approximately $40,000,000,000.

Outstanding life insurance of more than $70,000,000,000.

5,000,000,000 acres of improved farm lands valued at $77,000,000,000.

24,000,000 milk cows, 40,000,000 head of other cattle, 40,000,000 sheep and 60,000,000 swine.

More than 3,000,000,000 bushels of corn and 1,000,000,000 bushels of wheat produced in a year.

More than $60,000,000,000 worth of manufactured products turned out in a year.

More than 23,000,000,000 gallons of crude oil produced in a year.

More than 250,000 miles of railroad.

More than 250,000 miles of commercial telegraph lines.

800,000 miles of telephone lines.

HUNDRED KILLED ON STATE ROADS

Many Persons Meet Death During Period.

FIRST ANNUAL REPORT.

Automobile Exactng Heavy Toll Many Accidents on State's Highways.

One hundred persons were killed in 900 accidents on state highways of South Carolina during the 12 month period ending December 1, according to the first yearly report on accidents given out yesterday by C. H. Moorefield, state highway engineer.

During the same period of time almost 200 persons were seriously injured, and 572 received minor injuries. Almost 1,000 motor vehicles were damaged, in addition to 43 horse drawn vehicles; and 18 horses or mules were killed.

Overturning and colliding cars were the principal sources of death, 31 fatalities being due to automobiles that overturned and 21 to colliding cars. Sixteen were killed in accidents at Railway crossings and 18 pedestrians were numbered among the hundred. Careless driving, driving while under the influence of liquor, and speeding were the principal causes of accidents. Fifty times as many accidents were caused by careless driving as were caused by skidding, according to the report.

The highway department inaugurated in November, 1923, the system of collecting statistics regarding accidents for the purpose of securing "reliable information as to prolific causes of accidents and what can be done to provide against them."

Not Every Road.

While the toll has, in some respects showed an increase—month in and month out—and despite the heavy loss in life and property, by no means all the accidents on South Carolina roads are recorded in the report, for the figures are for state highways alone, and do not include accidents on county roads and many city streets. The fatalities may have exceeded on state highways alone the hundred given for as Robert Thomas, engineer in charge of records, points out: "The fatalities include only those occurring at the times of the accidents or shortly after, some of those persons reported as seriously injured may have died later from their injuries."

The report follows in full: "According to reports received by the highway department, there were 900 accidents occurring on state highways in the 12 months, December 1, 1923, to December 1, 1924. One hundred persons were killed, 189 were seriously injured and 572 received minor injuries.

"There were 310 collisions between motor cars, 12 of them being parked, 71 with other vehicles and 54 with other objects.

"Two hundred and eighty-seven cars were overturned; 110 were driven off the road; 654 were seriously damaged and 307 were slightly damaged. Forty three horse drawn vehicles were damaged; 18 horses or mules were killed and eight were injured.

At Grade Crossings.

"There were 25 accidents at railway grade crossings, 54 at public road crossings and 34 on or at bridges.

"Four hundred and seventy-three of the accidents occurred in the day time and 427 after dark. Six hundred and twenty-two were on straight roads, 189 on curves, 138 on paved roads and 664 on unpaved roads.

"Three hundred and fifty-six of the accidents were reported as caused by careless driving, 188 by speeding, 153 by recklessness due to liquor, 59 by dazzling headlights, 46 by no lights or poor lights, 61 by defects of the car, nine by defects of road and seven by skidding.

"Of the 100 persons killed, 16 were killed in eight of the accidents at railway crossings, 21 were killed when automobiles collided, one by collision with trailer, 34 when cars were overturned, three while on or near car at rest, two when on bicycles, struck by automobiles, two when thrown from cars, three when car fell from overhead bridge and 18 were pedestrians. The fatalities include only those occurring at the times of the accidents or shortly after, some of those persons reported as seriously injured may have died later from their injuries."—The State.

Inter-racial Commission

Tells of Better Conditions in Printed Pamphlet.

Atlanta, Ga.,—A comprehensive survey of what inter-racial committees throughout the South are doing to promote better relations between the races is embodied in the annual report just issued for distribution by the Commission on inter-racial Co-operation, with headquarters in this city. Entitled "Progress in Race Relations," the report is a 20-page pamphlet packed with stories of concrete achievements in better educational facilities, health campaigns, anti-lynching crusade, legal aid, adjustment of differences, provision of public utilities, the study of race relations in church and college groups, the work of women's organizations in this field and the cooperation of the the press. All the Southern states except Arkansas and Florida are covered by the survey, and results are cited reaching down into a great number of local communities.

According to the report, the provision of better schools has been a major objective everywhere, followed closely by efforts for better sanitation, hospital accommodations, street improvement, library and playground facilities, justice in the courts, agricultural training, the care of delinquents, improved conditions of travel and other advantages essential to the development of any race in character and efficiency.

The report points with special gratification to the reduction of 75 per cent in lynchings in the last two years; from 58 in 1922 to 28 in 1923 to 14 in the current year. No small measure of credit for this result, says the report, is due the newspapers for the "great volume of editorial comment that has helped to make sentiment against this crime." The general attitude of the papers, continues the report, has been sympathetic and helpful.

Most encouraging, says the report, is the great change in public sentiment relative to this whole question that has come about in recent years, resulting in better conditions along all lines. As a notable illustration the fact is cited that in all the Southern states the per capita expenditures for education are now two, three and in one case five times as much as 10 years ago.

The Commission on Inter-racial Co-operation was organized by a group of Southern leaders shortly after the world war in the effort to stem the tide of race conflict which threatened the country at that time. The crisis having been met, it turned its attention to the permanent improvement of conditions and attitudes. Its membership now numbers 75 representative men and women. Dr. M. Ashby Jones of Atlanta is chairman of the commission and Dr. W. W. Alexander has general charge of the work. A director of the commission and of the executive staff is embodied in the report, copies of which are available to all persons interested.

DECREASE IN LYNCHINGS.

It is gratifying that the record of lynchings in this country for 1924 shows another marked decrease in that manifestation of uncivilized mob spirit which is against the peace and an insult to the dignity of the state.

The sixteen lynchings reported are said to be fewer in number than in any year since the record of lynchings has been kept; probably fewer than in any year in the last half century. They were less than half the number in 1923.

That there was one lynching recorded against South Carolina is deeply regretted by the advocates of law observance, who see in such mob action not merely the manifestation of unchecked passions but a contempt for the laws and sovereign powers of the commonwealth.

There is not and never since the white people of the South began making and administering their own laws, has there been the slightest excuse for white men to attempt, by mob action, to punish for crime. When they do so they grossly insult society; they insult the white lawmakers, the white juries, the white judges.

That nine of the sixteen victims of mobs were taken from officers of the law—six from jails and three from officers outside of jails—is a particularly discreditable showing, when we recall no instance of officers being killed in performance of their duty, which is the defense of the law. For protecting a prisoner is not defending that individual; it is defending the majesty and dignity of the state; defending the law; defending society and directly defending the official honor of the officer having the prisoner in charge. It goes without saying that the man who does not prize his official honor enough to risk something in its defense should not be a police officer of the state. He is as responsible to the state as is a soldier to army authority; and when has a corporal merited the brand of coward survey by surrendering pusillanimously throughout the South are doing to promote better relations between the races is embodied in the annual report just issued for distribution by
