RECEPTION TO A POPULAR BRIDE.

The culmination of a beautiful romance came when Miss Bertie E. Baylor, the youngest daughter of Dr. and Mrs. R. W.

Baylor, became at the home of her parents, April 25, 1925, the bride of Mr. Lucius W. Weathers, of Saratoga, N. Y.

Miss Baylor had been an instructor at Morris College, Sumter, S. C., where she resigned, several years ago, to accept a position in the Howard Graded School, Columbia, which position she gave up after her marriage. Mr. Weathers is a prominent hotel man, highly cultured and widely and favorably known in the sphere of his activities.

It was at the reception tendered her, June 11, at the home of her parents—708 Washington St.—that her popularity and the extent of her circle of friends were so unmistakably evidenced. There were present more than 300 guests, consisting of the elite among the younger set and representatives of all the professions and business activities extant among the race in the capital city. The high esteem in which she was and is held by these was fully attested by the great number of costly presents—both useful and ornamental—that she received on the occasion—there being as many such presents as there were guests.

Mrs. Weathers left Columbia on the 13th inst., and will hereafter be at home at 23 Cowan St., Saratoga, N. Y. She has carried with her the best wishes of Columbians in general and a host of friends in particular.

MR. I. S. LEEVY, LL. D.

By Rev. Richard Carroll.

Do you know him? He is one of the greatest men I have ever known, as a man he stands among the leaders of this country. It pays to talk with Mr. Leevy and get a vision of the future, he talks sense, everybody who talks with him gets a true revelation. He is a man that all citizens who know him should honor, he is obliging in every sense of the word and is a true man. As a merchant he is good, his efforts to keep above water have been great, he has kept from sinking. Men and women who talk of the race, here is an example. Isaac S. Leevy is my estimate of a great man that everybody should honor. I attended his father's funeral and he spoke of what his father had done to make him what he is; he is the second man I have heard speak at his parent's funeral, the first was Rev. James E. Kirkland, who spoke at his mother's.

Many preachers and laymen have called to see me recently, among them were: Dr. N. A. Jenkins, he is a busy man and is doing much good for humanity; Mrs. Syrene Thompson-Benjamin, formerly of Columbia, now of Philadelphia; Mrs. Alice Thompson Hickson, of Sumter; and Mrs. Nellie Cooke called today. Mr. T. C. Williams, Waycross, Georgia, spent a few days at my home while attending the Undertakers' Convention, he is business manager of a Casket factory.

Prof. Emson Bryan, principal of Keysville Institute, Keysville, Georgia, and his sister, Mrs. Ida Mitchell, of Sylvania, Georgia, were pleasant callers Sunday; they were on their way to Greensboro, N. C., to visit their sister, whose husband is a teacher in the college.

MR. TAYLOR RICE PASSES.

Mr. Taylor Rice, age 70, retired horseman of Walterboro, S. C., was buried last Monday from the M. E. church, in Live Oak cemetery. Mrs. A. S. Paul originally of Walterboro, but who has been for the past years a resident of this city was a sister of the deceased. Mr. Fabrel Paul, son of Mrs. Paul attended the funeral.

Mrs. Sarah Rice, a son Mr. James Rice, of Savannah, Ga., and Mrs. A. S. Paul, survive Mr. Rice.

IN MEMORY OF EMMA MCGRAW

In memory of our dear mother and wife (Emma McGraw) who departed this life June 12, 1925.

Dear mother our home is lonely,
While thou art sleeping peacefully,
No other can fill your place;
There will always remain a vacant place.
Though thou may sleep
your examples we'll keep;
Thy earthly labor was done faithfully
For thy hands worked willingly.
Sleep on and take your rest mother,
We loved thee as we loved no other,
But as the Lord giveth,

He also taketh.
Your smiles and kindly way,
Are pleasant to recall
You had kind words for everyone
And died beloved by all.
Thy labor below has been completed
We hope to meet thee when we have finished;
Though thou hast reached the golden shore
We will think of thee evermore.

FUNERAL OF MR. JOHNNIE RICHARDSON, JR.
