IN MEMORIAM OF WALTER HARRIS

Who departed this life Nov. 25, 1923. He has left to mourn a mother two brothers and three sisters. Sleep on thou good and faithful son, The battle is fought, the victory's won You have finished your career on this land, And now before thy Judge thou doth stand,

Two years ago, you passed from life's dark shore, Never to dwell in pains and sorrow any more, Our hearts tremble when we think of you, One who was faithful and ever true, May the Angels serve you with sweet dreams, While you sleep beyond cold Jordan's stream; Friend, was it not sad when he was taken away, Sleep on Walter until that Great Day

Then God will call us to meet in the sky, We will then bid the old world good-bye: Yea, and dwell in God's Kingdom on high, Oh! What a happy home beyond the sky.

Mrs. Rosa (Harris) Saxby, mother Eddie and Richard Harris, brothers Mrs. Daisy (Harris) Foggy, Irene (Harris) Johnson, and Lottie (Harris) Ferguson, Sisters.

SOUTH CAROLINA STATE WINS FROM MORRIS COLLEGE

Orangeburg, Nov., 20—In a hard fought battle here today State College gridders completely surprised the Morris College aggregation of Sumter, S. C. by winning the contest 6 to 0.

In the first quarter Morris College, by line plunges and end runs, was able to carry the ball to State's 20 yard line. Here the defense tightened and after an attempted field goal, State got possession of the ball and kicked out of danger.

State College in the beginning of the second quarter worked the ball for gain by an aerial attack to Morris College's fifteen yard line. A penalty for State on the fourth down caused her to resort to a long forward pass, which was successfully completed for a touchdown after the ball had been touched by a Morris man. The first half ended with Morris, after a long successful pass, within ten yards of the goal line.

In the second half neither team was able to do much ground gaining and a defensive game was played. State College receiving several penalties for holding and offside, had to resort to kicking to keep the ball from her territory. The game ended with the ball in Morris possession.
