HON. J. D. CARR, EDITOR OF NOTED LECTURER SPEAKS ASHEVILLE SIGNALLY ON THE MEASURE OF MAN HONORED BY A. & T. COLLEGE

Invited by College Head A. S. Special Guest During Teachers Association

Honorable J. D. Carr, Editor of one of the leading weekly publications of the Race, enjoyed the high distinction and honor of being extended an invitation to be a special guest of A. & T. College, during the week of the North Carolina State Teachers' Association. The many friends of Editor Carr express no surprise at the signal distinction, for his ability and efficiency commend him to the action taken by President Bluford. Editor Carr is a former student of A. & T. College being a member of the class of 1908. He has always shown himself as being very generous in the support of any worthy movement and has, there by, demonstrated the fact that he can be depended upon for his loyalty to A. & T. College. Editor Carr is a personal friend of President Bluford and is willing to do anything to support the administration of the president of his old college, which he loves so dearly. While in the city, the Editor was the guest at many social activities, accounts of which will be seen in other columns of the paper.

On Sunday morning in the company of Prof. S. B. Simmons Director Staley, W. B. Harrison, Mr. Charles S. Morris, The Editor, visited Bennett College. Editor Carr and his party were shown unusual hospitality.

Editor Carr, Director Staley and Charles S. Morris popular orator and scholar visited the Palmer Memorial Institute, Sealedia, N. C. The student body

Deputy Grand Master 2nd Dist.

Charles Satchell Morris, Jr. Addresses a great crowd in High Point, N. C.

High Point, N. C. Nov. 29—A vast audience assembled in the beautiful and commodious auditorium of the First Baptist Church here last Friday evening to hear Charles Satchell Morris, Jr., of Norfolk, Va., celebrated of the institution was highly pleased with the brief addresses delivered by these gentlemen. After the addresses, Mrs. Charlotte Hawkins Brown, escorted the visitors to the dining room and there gave them a delightful luncheon. The students sent greetings to Dr. Bluford, President of A. & T. College.

orator, on his first appearance in two years, and to greet his guests, Professor F. M. Staley, Director of Agriculture at the A. & T. College, and Hon. J. D. Carr, Editor of the Asheville Enterprise. The occasion was an enthusiastic one, being the annual celebration of the combined auxiliaries of the church.

A superb male quartette under the leadership of Mr. Simmons rendered entrancing music for the event. No city in the state may boast of a finer group of singers than these. They delighted the multitude with their harmony and melody.

Charles Satchell Morris, Jr., of Norfolk, Va., nationally famous colored spokesman was the outstanding feature of the evening, being introduced by the Rev. Dr. S. L. Parham, pastor of the church as one of America's most brilliant orators. From the moment he arose until he took his seat an hour and a half later, Morris wove the spell of the silver tongue upon the crowd and held them spellbound. He delivered his fine address on 'The measure of man' He was frequently and vociferously applauded as he drove home point after point. At the conclusion of his speech he was accorded an ovation.

In the public offering which followed, Dr. Parham requested Rev. Dr. C. W. Caxver, the able pastor of the A. M. E. Zion Church to take charge which he did. The citizens of this progressive community gave a splendid response to his appeals for funds. Nothing better attests the hearty co-operation existing between the people of this community than the fact that not only was the Methodist minister present with a large crowd of his members, but in addition, he lifted the money. After this feature, the Hon. J. D. Carr, Editor of the Asheville Enterprise, personal friend of Charles Satchell Morris, Jr., who with Prof. Staley, had driven over from Greensboro, where he had been attending the sessions of the North Carolina Negro Teachers' Association, was presented to the assembly for a brief talk. Although the editor did not speak more than five or six minutes, he made a profound impression upon the people. He told of the great strides of the Enterprise during recent months of its splendid development and its tremendous possibilities.

Dr. Parham next introduced Prof. F. M. Staley to the crowd. Prof. Staley, who is Director of Agriculture at the A. & T. College, made likewise a very brief but effective talk. He stated that all of the qualities outlined by the speaker of the evening must be possessed by the competent and qualified teacher. He closed by reciting Foss' beautiful little poem: "Let me live in a house by the side of the road and be a friend to man." He was warmly greeted by his auditors.

The quartette rendered another choice selection, after which the benediction was pronounced. The orator and his guests held open house for the scores of persons who desired to shake their hands and give them a typical High Point reception. They left immediately after for the return trip to Greensboro where friends were waiting to entertain them.

hours after his fatal fall, dying in the hospital to which he was carried for medical attention. In spite of the fact that he fell seven stories he was conscious until the end came.

Watson was born at St. Paul and was thirty years of age. In later years he lived at Summerton. About three years ago he and his family went to Philadelphia where they were residing when his final summons came. He was funeralized at Liberty Hall A. M. E. Church on Nov. 27 where he held his membership. The funeral was conducted by Rev. D. P. Pendergrass the newly appointed pastor of Liberty Hill, assisted by Rev. M. J. Sumpter the pastor who preceded Rev. Pendergrass, and who recently was appointed presiding elder over the Manning District.

Watson before marriage attended State College where he was well known in athletic circles. He bore the reputation of being extremely skillful on the baseball diamond. For many years after he left the State College he was active in the arena of athletics.

No one ever had a greater number of friends than L. D. Watson; for to know him, was to like him. That fact was evidenced by the hundreds of friends who came from far and near to pay to his remains their last respect. He possessed very little of the tongue religion, but preferably, he told by his actions of the Clime to which he was journeying. He is survived by a widow, who before her marriage was Miss Minnie Ragin, and two very young children, both of which are girls, a mother, a brother, four sisters and a host of uncles, cousins and other relatives.

PRESIDENT BLUFORD GIVES FACULTY AND FRIENDS THANKSGIVING DINNER

As a further demonstration of the spirit of co-operation and cordiality that exists between the present administration and faculty of A. & T. College, President Bluford, entertained the members of his faculty, their wives and friends at a Thanksgiving dinner served in courses in Murphy Hall, Sunday, Nov. 29, at 2:00 o'clock. Virtually all of the members of the faculty were present. It was decidedly one of the most enjoyable affairs of the season. The emerald dining hall was beautifully decorated with flowers which added conspicuously to the palatability of the delicious, savory, pleasing and tasteful supply of good-to-eats which were so bounteously and plenteously served. It has been so truthfully said, "that the easiest way to win a man is thru his stomach." This being true, President Bluford has no reason to fear the lack of support of any of his subordinates. Look at this menu: Fruit cocktail, soup, saltines, creamed potatoes, turkey, dressing, candied potatoes, cranberry sauce, lettuce with dressing, pickles, ice cream and fruit cake.

BIG LINE OF CLOTHING FOR

Men, Women And Children. Boys Suits A Specialty

SHOES, MILLINERY, DRESSMAKING, TAILORING

Columbia, S. C.,
December 1, 1925

My Dear Brother:

In a few more days we are expecting you and your delegates in Columbia at the Grand Lodge Meeting. We are looking forward to one of the largest, and we hope, the best meeting ever held. I trust that you are planning to bring your full delegation.

Now, as a brother, with my business located here in the Grand Temple at 1131 Washington St., we are extending you a cordial invitation to make our store your headquarters. For your service, we have a telephone, a barber shop, tailor shop, cleaning and pressing; also a full line of Trunks, Hand Bags, Suits Cases, Ready Made Clothing for men, women and children. Overcoats, Sweaters, Dry Goods, etc. So Brother, if you or any of the Brethren are planning to buy anything in the way of clothing or dry goods, please wait until you come to Columbia and see our prices and latest styles. Special discounts will be given all delegates and members of the Fraternity.

Inclosed you will find one of our circular letters. Read it and consider the appeal to our people for their support. Please speak a few words to your Lodge members about our store here, so that whenever they come to Columbia, whether before or after the Grand Lodge meets, they will come to The Grand Temple and spend a dollar with us.

We appreciate most heartily the eloquent references to our business by the Grand Master in his annual address last year. The beautiful words could not have fallen from his lips, were it not for the fact that he practices what he preaches. Ever since I joined the Fraternity, I have had Dr. Johnson's patronage. On his recent trip to Europe just before sailing, he motored all the way from Aiken to Columbia, just to spend a hundred dollars in our store for clothes, shoes and the like.

If all of us could rise to the heights of doing our duty by our racial stores and business enterprises, we would create thousands and tens of thousands of high salaried positions for our young men and women by giving birth to new mercantile establishments, thus multiplying the positions for sales people, bookkeepers and the like in our feeding, clothing, and shodding our race.

With the hope of seeing you soon, I am,

Fraternally yours,

I. S. LEEVY,

Masonic Temple,
1131 Washington Street.

P. S. — The above is a copy of my last letter to the G. L. Delegates. I didn't feel able to improve on it, therefore I ask that you read it and help all you can.
