Chair Wobble If the tenon of a chair leg or rung has become so shrunk or worn that there is no way to make glue hold it in place, you can use a screw to get a tight connection. Select a flat-headed screw of small shank diameter, long enough to go well into the part it is to hold. With a brace and bit, drill a hole for the screw. The diameter should be slightly smaller than the hole for the screw. The diameter should be slightly smaller than the diameter of the screw's smooth shank. Depth of the hole should be a quarter inch less than the length of the screw.

Use another bit with a diameter Use another bit with a diameter a little greater than that of the screw head, to enlarge the hole to a depth of about it of an inch. Countersink the screw head in this enlarged hole. Then fill the help slightly over-full with Plastic Wood.
