Months had passed and many changes had taken place. The old plantation had been sold and the new owners had moved to New York. They planned to move to the city and build a new home. The old plantation was now a ghost town, a shadow of its former self. The only people left were the old servants and the few who remained for the sake of the land. The shadows of the past were still visible in the old buildings and the overgrown fields.
