'BY EVERY LEGAL MEANS'
(Reprinted from the Christian Science Monitor)

The telegram President Eisenhower sent Governor Faubus of Arkansas concerning the school integration situation ended with the following words:

...the federal Constitution will be upheld by me by every legal means at my command.

What are some of the legal means at the President's command?

Through the Department of Justice he could ask Federal Judge Davies, who has jurisdiction over the Little Rock situation, to enjoin Governor Faubus from obstructing the court's desegregation decree, even though that obstructing is, ostensibly, incidental to preserving "peace and order." Behind such an action stands a Supreme Court decision of 1932 in which the authority of a federal court to restrain a state governor in the use of troops to override the court's order was upheld.

Should the Governor defy such an injunction he could be cited for contempt; should he refuse to surrender on the contempt charge and take refuge behind state police or military forces, the President is specifically empowered to use the forces at his command. The act of Congress which defines such powers go back to 1792, and George Washington was the first President to invoke them.

The present statutes authorize the President, should the ordinary course of judicial proceedings fail to enforce the laws of the United States, to call into the federal service any part of the militia of any state and to use such part of the national armed services "he considers necessary to enforce these laws." The statutes relate this authority particularly to any situation in a state which "so hinders the execution of the laws that any part or class of its people is deprived of a right, privilege, immunity, or protection named in the Constitution."

The President, therefore, could employ United States marshals, a federal posse, or units of the Army, or could call the Arkansas National Guard into federal service and command it to carry out the court's decree.

Everyone hopes and trusts that none of these steps need be taken. But knowledge of these powers and the fact that they lie ready at hand may offer the best of insurance that they will not have to be used.

SCOTTISH RITE MASONS

The Constitution Committee of the Williams Grand Lodge of the Scottish Rite, A.F. & A.M. Masons of South Carolina, met at Allen University Thursday Aug. 28. After the devotion, the chairman Rev. W. R. Bowman, took his seat and the Grand Secretary, Prof. R. W. Thompson, read the old constitution, after which the revision of the constitution took place.

Mr. Lume Faust served as Secretary for the committee, appointed by the chairman. He read the revised constitution after the Committee spent 4 hours working on it.

Deputy S. Anderson moved that the revised copy of the constitution be received and approved for the Williams Grand Lodge. It was suggested by Grand Master Clement that a copy be sent to the press for printing in booklet form by the time of the Grand Lodge meeting on Jan. 1, 1958.

The meeting adjourned by singing "Gloss to the Tie that Binds" after which the committee was taken over to Rev. Bowman's lovely home and a big dinner was served.

Members of the Committee: Rev. W. R. Bowman, Chairman; Mr. W. A. Clement, Grand Master; Mr. Lume Faust, Deputy Grand Master; Deputy J. S. Anderson; Prof. R. W. Thompson; Reverend J. S. Utsey; Reverend L. B. Payton; Mr. C. D. Rump; Mr. Suley Moore.
