

Advertising.—There is much truth very well expressed in the following remarks of the N. O. Delta: "As education is the cheap defence of nations, so is advertising the cheap agent of custom and profit to man in all kinds of business. It is a moving signpost, possessing the power of ubiquity. If a man pays for enumerating his name over his door—and pay for it he must—one out of every hundred who pass by, may chance to recognize it; but if the same man place his name, and briefly state his business in the columns of a popular newspaper, it goes about exhibiting both to thousands daily, informing the reader who may be interested in the information, of the very thing which he was desirous to know. He did not care, of course, to be told that John Smith resided in any particular street, but when John's residence was coupled with cheap clothing, cheap any thing, it then became a matter of importance—a principle of economy with him, to make John's acquaintance.

"It is thus some men attract liberal custom to themselves, and really confer a benefit on the public, by advertising; while others assume high rents, fit out splendid stores, pay large salaries to clerks and do everything to secure a prosperous business, but the one thing needful—advertising. This they fail to do, and hence they do not secure a fair share of business. To the habitual advertiser we have no advice to offer. He understands the benefits that accrue from it, and will be sure to avail himself of the system. But now, when our city is crowded with strangers, who are buying every thing, and buying where they think they can get what they want cheapest and best, let our merchants, traders, or retailers, hide their 'light under a bushel'—let them hang out their sign in the newspapers that are most generally read, and their increased business, and the profits of a few months, will point out to them the policy of their course."

Preaching to the Point.—Passing along one Wednesday night—for evening at the South is our afternoon—in Montgomery, Alabama, I stepped into the Presbyterian lecture room, where a slave was preaching:

"My Brethren," says he, "God bless your souls. Ligion is like de Alabama river. In Spring comes fresh, an' bring in all de ole logs, slabs, an' sticks, dat hab been lyin' on de bank, an' carrying dem down in de current. By mebe de water go down—den a log catch here on dis island, den a slab gets cotech on de shore, and de sticks on de bushes—and dare dey lie, with 'rin and dyin' till comes nother fresh. Jus' so dare come 'vival of ligion—dis ole sinner brot in, dat ole backslider brot back, an' all de folk seem 'comin' an' mighty good times. But, breddren, God bless your souls, by meby, 'vival is gone—den dis ole sinner is suck on his ole sin, den dat ole backslider is cotech where he was afore, on jus' such a rock, den one arter 'nother dat had got ligion lies all along de shore, an' dare dey lie till 'nother 'vival. Beloved breddren, God bless your souls deep in de current!"

I thought his illustrations beautiful enough for a more elegant dress, and too true, alas, of others than his own race.—Christian Herald.

Life in the Boston Pulpit.—The following note is said to have been read in one of our pulpits on Sunday last:

"Shadrach, a fugitive slave, desires the prayers of this church, and of all christian people, to aid him in his efforts to escape from the hands of the slave hunters now seeking for his life."

We suppose that the "higher law" clergymen prayed most lustily and christially for the "aid" and "efforts" which were made, viz: the trampling of law completely under foot by a black mob. We should admire to look into the aforesaid clergyman's heart and see the spirit and humanity circulating through it, and then hear him pray that heaven would vouchsafe aid in assisting the downfall of the very column and cement of society—LAW. It would be music to the ear to listen to his sweet strains praying that mobs might enter our court houses and break down justice and overwhelm the executors of the law. Very nice, indeed, all this would be. We shall perhaps, hire a seat in the church. Such piety would save one—from heaven.—Boston Bee.

Ludicrous Mistake.—A good lady who had two children sick of the measles went to a friend for the best remedy, while the friend had just received a note from another lady inquiring the way to make pickles. In the confusion the lady who had inquired about pickles received the remedy for the measles, while the anxious mother of the sick children read the following: Scald them three or four times in hot vinegar, and sprinkle them well with salt, and in a few days they will be cured.

Portly of Nature.—The poetry of nature in the language of earth, will never be written. Its elements of beauty and sublimity are subject of feeling, not description. The poet may waken the lyre to strains of burning eloquence upon this theme, and still he will feel that language mars the beauty that has pictured on the retina of the mind, and that only a seraph's language can do justice to a theme so intimately associated with all holy thoughts of nature's great Architect.

Important if True.—We copy the following paragraph from the Auburn Advocate of Wednesday:

A Great Invention in the Art of Printing.—Mr. I. L. Bardick, of Utica, has succeeded in inventing a new cylinder printing-press, which is certainly far ahead of anything now in use. This press prints both sides of the paper by one revolution; will print twice as fast as the Hoe's press, and do its work as well or better than the Adams press, and it requires but half the labor in feeding it, while the cost of the machine, it is believed, will be less than that of any other press. There is one of these presses now at work in Utica. Printers, and all concerned in the business, will do well to call and see for themselves.

The Boston Post accounts for the recent cold weather by supposing that Sir John Franklin, in going through the north-west passage, forgot to shut the front door after him.

Friendly.—The South Alabamian says:—"Whoever it is takes our wood had better come after it in day time. They are probably not aware that there is an old well in the back lot, which they may fall into of a dark night."

INDIA RUBBER gloves are capital things for those who wish to wash themselves without wetting their hands.

HIGHLY IMPORTANT:
FROM THE BRITISH PROVINCE OF NEW-BRUNSWICK.
From the St. John's Observer, Oct. 17, 1849.
As at this season of the year and throughout the winter months, coughs and colds are the most prevalent of all the various ills that flesh is heir to, we would advise such of our readers and others who may be thus afflicted to avail themselves of that excellent medicine, "Wistar's Balsam of Wild Cherry," which, judging from our own experience, and that of others, we consider as being one of the safest and most effectual remedies that has ever been concocted for the above complaints, and which meets with cordial approval of many of the best physicians. And as delays are dangerous, and coughs and colds frequently terminate in consumption, this efficacious and agreeable remedy should at once be resorted to. Mr. S. L. Tilley is the agent in this city, who can enumerate many instances in which the most pleasing results have followed from the use of "Wistar's Balsam."

From the Evening Mirror, New York, March 30, 1849.
WISTAR'S BALSAM.—We regard the Wild Cherry tree as one of nature's own physicians, a sort of good Samaritan of the forest; for its "medical gum" has relieved the sufferings and saved the lives of thousands. The Balsam prepared by Dr. Wistar is a pure and perfectly reliable preparation of the real Cherry essence, and it is a remedy by no means "had to take." We speak confidently and strongly in its praise, from having witnessed its renovating influence in consumptive cases, when all other prescriptions had proved of no effect.
None genuine unless signed I. B. PUTTS on the wrapper, for sale in Camden at McKAIN'S Drug Store. Wholesale by P. M. COLLEN & Co., Charleston, S. C., and by Druggists generally throughout the State.

IMPORTANT TO CONSUMPTIVES.
In looking over the pamphlet issued by the proprietors of Dr. Rogers' Syrup of Liverwort and Tar, we have been forcibly struck with the high public and private character of those who vouch for its efficacy. Among them we notice the names of our old acquaintances and quondam friend, Hon. Judge W. Burke. We also see the names of W. J. Richards, Rev. H. Wiseman and Dr. Hiram Cox, late Professor in the Cincinnati Medical College, and many others of like character and standing. If such men are willing, over their own signatures, to testify thus strongly in its favor, it must be the most remarkable medicine of the age, and we advise all our invalid readers to try it forthwith.
