

SPENCER TRANSFER IMPORTANT UNIT

LAYS BIG PART IN FREIGHT MOVEMENT.

AIDS PIEDMONT SECTION

Fast Handling to Distant Points Has Helped Development of Industry.

Spencer, N. C.—One of the greatest centers of activity in the entire Piedmont region is the transfer station for the concentration and assortment of less than a car load freight, operated by the Southern Railway System in connection with its Spencer terminals. The name "Spencer Transfer" is more widely known among traffic men, shipping clerks and railway yard clerks and is written more often daily all over the United States than that of any other freight station in the South.

From Spencer Transfer an average of 275 cars of freight, made up in large part of the manufactured products of the Piedmont section, are shipped daily to a wide variety of points, ranging from Boston, Mass., and Mechanicville, N. Y., on the East to Chicago, Minneapolis and Kansas City on the West, to New Orleans and Houston, Texas, on the Southwest and to Havana, Cuba, on the South.

Conversely, cars are loaded into Spencer from all important manufacturing and concentrating points in the East and North, containing shipments for distribution throughout the South.

Great Clearing House.

Spencer Transfer is the Southern's great clearing house for freight moving to the East. The movement has now reached a volume which makes it possible to load daily cars to all important Eastern and New England cities, including ten distributing points in the Greater New York district. As a result, shipments from the Piedmont region which are loaded to Spencer are there placed in solid cars which move direct to final destinations, eliminating the numerous transfers en route which were formerly necessary. This has proved a very important benefit to manufacturing plants in the South, enabling them to compete on a freight service basis with plants located at any point in the United States.

In addition to the Greater New York depots to which cars are loaded from Spencer, other destinations in the East are as follows: Boston, Springfield, Mass.; New Haven, Conn.; Cedar Hill Transfer, Providence, R. I.; Boston & Maine Transfer at Mechanicville, N. Y.; Philadelphia for B. & O. Pier 24, and Wayne Junction Transfer, Philadelphia, for Dock street station and PRR Transfer; PRR Transfer for Delaware and Hudson at Wilkesbarre, Pa.; PRR Transfer at Northumberland, Pa.; PRR Transfer for New York Central at Newberry, Pa.; PRR Transfer at Harrisburg, Pa.; Pittsburgh, Buffalo, Elmira, N. Y., Chester, Pa.; B. & O. Camden Station and PRR Calvert Station at Baltimore; B. & O. Transfer at Brunswick, Md.; Washington, D. C.; Pinner Point, Va., for Norfolk and steamer lines to Baltimore, Philadelphia, New York, Providence and Boston; West Point, Va., for Chesapeake Line to Baltimore, and Havana, Cuba via Key West Ferry. Cars are also loaded at Spencer for all important points in the South and for peddle service on local freight trains of the Southern.

Movement to the West.

To take care of the growing movement of manufactured products from the South, moving to the West, and to avoid backhauling, the Southern opened a new transfer station at John Sevier Terminal, near Knoxville, Tenn., in October, 1925. This has relieved Spencer of handling the greater part of the business for the West as solid cars are loaded to John Sevier Transfer from all important stations on the Southern and by a large number of manufacturing plants. However, sufficient volume of business is still concentrated at Spencer to justify the loading of daily cars to Kansas City, Chicago, Minneapolis and St. Paul, Detroit, Mich.; Springfield, Ohio; New Orleans and Houston, Texas.

Growth of industry in the South since 1900 is well illustrated by the development of the long distance package car service of the Southern which has grown along with and contributed greatly to the upbuilding of the South as a manufacturing section.

The Southern's first package car directory, dated June 1st, 1900, gave the transfer then operated at Salisbury authority to load cars to twenty-four destinations. Most of these were in the South, the distribution of manufactured products being almost entirely in the southbound direction at that time while freight from the South consisted largely of raw materials moving to manufacturing plants outside the South.

Spencer Transfer was opened November 1st, 1907. Since that time the system has been expanded by the opening of Inman Transfer at Atlanta, of Hayne Transfer near Spartanburg, S. C., and of transfer stations at Columbia, S. C., Birmingham, Ala., and Chattanooga, Tenn. The system as it stands today was completed with the opening of John Sevier Transfer.

THE FABULOUS TOAD.
31 GERMAN PARTIES.
MR. ROSENWALD'S GIFTS.
PICTURES AND VOICE.

A horned toad, known to newspaper readers as Rip Van Winkle, is supposed to have lived more than thirty years in a corner stone without air, water or food.

The toad has been seen by many, including the President. Some believe the yarn. The President has not committed himself. When the toad was placed on the President's desk neither said a word.

Now the toad's owner heightens interest, saying that in his dark, airless corner-stone the toad sat next to a Bible, and that noble book enabled him to hold out. Many will believe that. It is a credulous human race.

In a few days Germany will elect a new Reichstag, and thirty-one different parties will fight for the seats. These include two Catholic, two Socialist, two Nationalist, three Communist, and three Anti-Semitic parties.

In America we have only two parties that count, and our people can hardly keep track of them. Not ten in a hundred could tell what either wants or plans.

Fortunate the country with little political excitement. It is quiet, because it is doing well.

The success of the individual is often the good fortune of the many. Julius Rosenwald, who began with a public school education, courage and the desire to help others, has established a fund "for the benefit of humanity," recently adding $2,000,000 to other gifts, now in excess of $20,000,000.

Mr. Rosenwald gives the money to trustees for the public benefit, and imposes only one condition, that "all the money shall be spent, principal and interest, within twenty-five years of Mr. Rosenwald's death."

May that death be long postponed.

Moving picture enthusiasts will soon have sound with their pictures. Actors will talk and sing on the screen and news reels will enable crowds to see and HEAR what happens.

Moving picture actors will need good voices as well as beautiful teeth, faces, legs and hair.

Soon the actor without a good voice will be a moving picture actor no longer.

William Fox and his "Movietone" aided by Walter S. Gifford, of the big telephone company, and Mr. Bloom, of the Western Electric, have convinced the moving picture industry that moving pictures in future will require "sound and fury."

Various changes will come, actors with good voices will be imported to Hollywood or moving picture studios will be transferred to places where good voices can be found.

New York State has signed a check for $33,723,734, the biggest ever drawn by the richest State. The best part of it is that the money will be spent for public schools.

Not long ago every State spent more for prisons than for public schools, and nothing at all for public libraries. There is progress.

Art objects, from the Bronze Age, and pottery made by Philistines are dug up in Palestine.

It is impossible to realize what it meant to the human race when the ancients discovered, probably by accident, how to get copper from ore, and went traveling over the earth in search of it.

Centuries ago, boats sailed cautiously from Mediterranean ports, keeping in sight of land, having no compass.

Bold Phoenicians from the eastern end of the inland sea, traders that sold Solomon some of the wonderful things he put into his temple, sailed through the Straits of Gibraltar, into the wild Atlantic, using stars in place of a compass, pushing on to what we call the British Islands. That was a wonder.

Yesterday the Italian flier, Umberto Nobile, in his dirigible, Italia, started through the air for the North Pole, but was forced back by fog and a gale. He took with him a cross, 6 feet long, to be dropped as near to the Pole as possible, and the flag of Pope Pius.

The earth is conquered, sea and air. Will men ever conquer outside space?

Patrons of the Vamp Theatre who know Clara Bow, the flaming-haired mad-cap of the screen, star of "Hula," "It" and other screen dishes of that peppy variety, will now have a chance to compare her snappy characterizations in these pictures recently starring her with the much more serious and melodramatic role of "Lolly" in "The Keeper of the Bees," Gene Stratton Porter's famous story.
