Assuming your floor has been sanded down to the bare wood, you can use any kind of refinishing material you want. Basically, these can be broken down into two types—the penetrating sealer and the surface coating. The penetrating sealer soaks into the wood, comes in a variety of colors and can be used to change the color of the wood and make it darker. Since there is no surface film, there is nothing to scratch or peel.

Surface coatings (shellac, varnish, lacquer and various synthetic plastic finishes) provide a hard, tough surface. This gives the floor plenty of protection even without waxing.
