Spectator Comments On Men and Things

With such a really fine start, I believe the South Carolina legislature could carry out the following program:

1. General appropriation bill, without special deficiency bills. The additions required by the national government make it timely and desirable in response to state services.

2. Authorize the use of any surplus as additional, but temporary, aid to the school district. Not only on condition that dollar for dollar the local district shall be matched.

3. Clear the road of obstacles to our development by repealing the awards of punitive damages. Organized Response, Inc., does not presume to say what should be done; but we definitely be done by all means. Let the collective experience, wisdom and sagacity of the legislature produce a bill which they will enact into law.

4. Repeal the one mill state property tax and provide that all property taxes shall be levied in the respective counties on valuations determined by each county for itself, all taxpayers being treated equally.

5. Ratify the amendments for biennial sessions, extending the terms of representatives and senators to four and six years respectively.

6. Authorize the budget commission to act as a central purchasing or price determining agency for all state services, institutional and departmental.

7. Provide for a state-wide traffic and rate bureau.

8. To amend the revenue acts so that income taxes may be paid quarterly. . .

9. To amend the law so as to allow deduction of federal income tax payments from taxable income for state income tax.

10. To amend the law so that gasoline taxes paid may be deductible from taxable income, whether for state or federal purposes.

Some of these matters are now before the house; others are pending in both senate and house.

We have many able men in our public services; they could easily respect that program into law.
