COFFEE, TEA AND COCOA RATIONING LIKELY THIS YEAR

Washington, June 8.—Rationing of coffee, tea and cocoa is "likely," a high war production official said today, but clothing rationing will not be necessary this year.

Joseph L. Weiner, deputy director of WPB's division of civilian supply, reported to a press conference that "some of our eating habits may have to be revised" because of shipping shortages and lend-lease demands, and that wartime problems will bring about far reaching changes in clothing, housing and transportation.

At the same time he gave assurance that Americans need fear nothing but the sacrifice of some comforts which other nations have not enjoyed even in times of peace.

Weiner is the operating chief of the civilian supply division because its director, Leon Henderson, has devoted his time to his job as price administrator.

CARD OF THANKS

I wish to thank the voters of Ward One for your support given me in Tuesday's primary. By your vote I have been returned to City Council for another two-year term as your representative. I promise that I will continue in the future, as I have in the past, to use my best efforts for the advancement of our city and stand ready at all times to cooperate with the people I am elected to serve in every way possible.

—HUGH C. RAY.

How the New Order Limiting Telephone Installations May Affect You

To turn out more and more weapons for our fighting men, our Government has called upon the telephone industry and the telephone-using public to limit new telephone installations to an extent that will divert annually thousands of tons of vital metals and rubber to war production.

If you are a new applicant for service or a business or residential subscriber, the limitations of the War Production Board order may affect you, depending upon how much equipment is now available to serve the future requirements of essential individuals or agencies in your community.

Specifically, this is how the order may affect you:

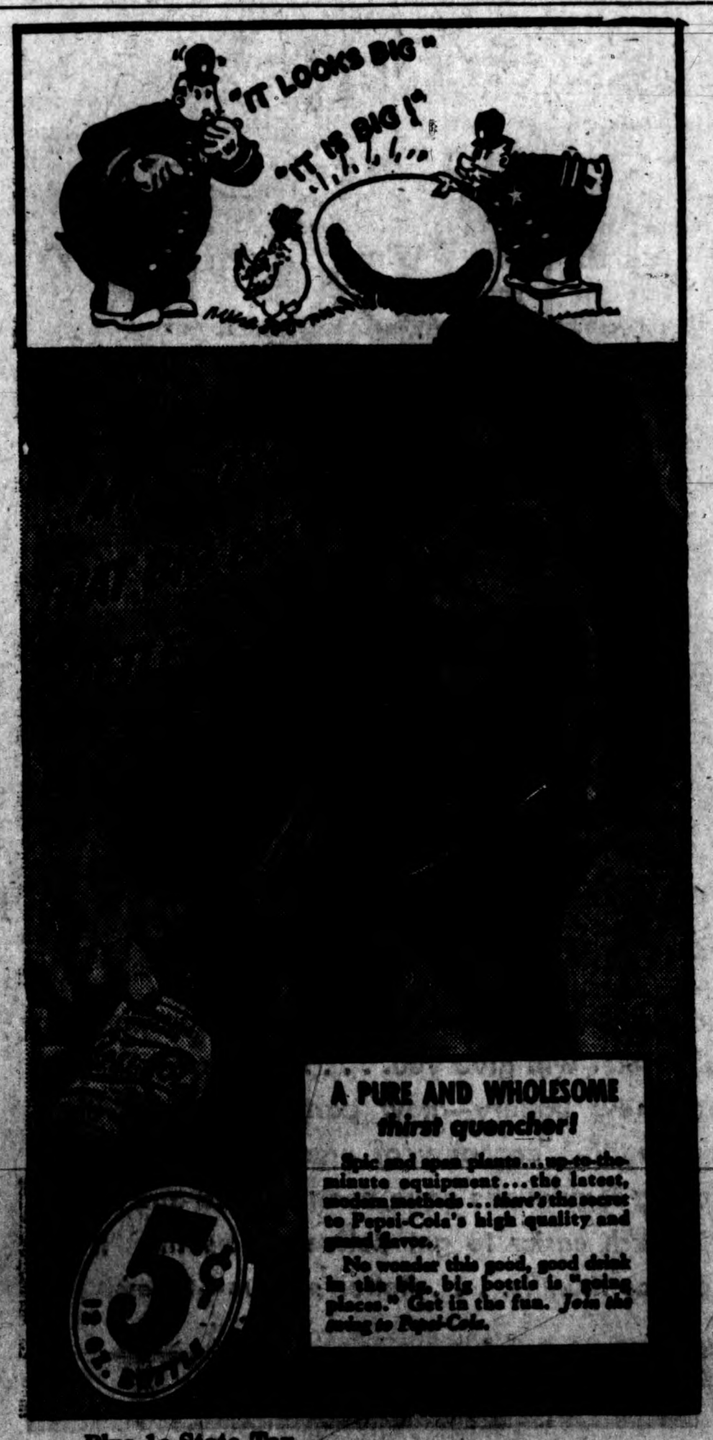

NON-SUBSCRIBERS, business or residential, may not be able to obtain telephones in some instances.

BUSINESS CUSTOMERS, particularly those with private branch exchanges and other large service installations who move to new locations or who wish other changes, may not be able to obtain the desired arrangements.

RESIDENTIAL SUBSCRIBERS who move may not be able to obtain telephones or may be asked to accept a different class of service.

We shall observe the order to the letter, confident of the public's full cooperation. We look forward to the day when we shall again be able to give you the kind of service you want, when and where you want it—but now, and for the duration, the one big task of winning the war comes first . . . with us, as with you.
