Miss Louise Jacobs Weds Lieut. Black In Home Wedding

A lovely wedding of much social interest was that of Miss Louise Copeland Jacobs and Lieut. Robert Faris Black of York and Fort McClellan, Ala., which took place at 5:30 Saturday afternoon at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. Ferdinand Jacobs on Calvert avenue. Dr. Thornwell Jacobs of Atlanta, Ga., president of Oglethorpe university, and an uncle of the bride, performed the ceremony in the presence of the two families and a few close friends.

Centering the mantel in the living room, where an improvised altar was arranged, was an adornment of white gladioli, daisies, feverfew and lilies. Masses of pink hydrangeas were interspersed with fern. Flanking the mantel were tall white baskets of gladioli and candelabra with burning tapers. The pink note was reflected in a lovely arrangement on the piano featuring gladioli, daisies and feverfew.

A lovely program of wedding music was rendered by Miss Dorothy Horner of Chester, pianist, and Miss Mabel Fishburne, soprano, of Walterboro. As "Ave Maria" (Schubert) was played, Ferdie Jacobs, brother of the bride, lighted the candles. Miss Horner also played "Nocturne" (Chopin). Miss Fishburne sang "Because" The "Bridal Chorus" from "Lohengrin" was used for the processional and the "Wedding March" (Mendelssohn) for the recessional. Just before the benediction Miss Fishburne sang "O Perfect Love."

Miss Elliott Jacobs, sister of the bride, was maid of honor. She wore a dress of blue lace fashioned with a pointed marquisette yoke, short sleeves, fitted bodice and a very full floor length skirt. Her flowers were a mixed bouquet of carnations, snapdragons and delphinium tied with blue ribbon.

The lovely young bride entered with her father who gave her in marriage. She was exquisite in her wedding gown of white lace over satin, having a drop shoulder, sleeves full at the top and extending three-quarter length, and a very full skirt ending in a lengthy train. Her veil of bridal illusion was attached to orange blossoms. She carried a bouquet of white carnations centered with orchids.

Clark Black, of York, cousin of the bridegroom, was best man.

Mrs. Jacobs, mother of the bride, was gowned in a powder blue lace and crepe dress and her flowers were Talisman roses.

Mrs. Black, mother of the bridegroom, wore sapphire blue and white flowered jersey, and a corsage of red radiance roses.

Immediately after the ceremony an informal reception was given. For the occasion the lower floor of the home was beautifully decorated. A great deal of sentiment was attached to the flowers used in the hall, since they were magnolias pulled from a tree which the bride's great grandfather, Dr. William Plumer Jacobs, planted many years ago on the Thornwell orphanage campus.

The bride's table in the dining room, was exquisite, centered with lilies, daisies and fern in a silver bowl placed on a reflector outlined with gardenias. Crystal slippers of feverfew and gladioli were placed at intervals. Bows of filmy tulle adorned the chandelier and it was showered with lilies of the valley and white ribbon. Elsewhere in the room bowls of white flowers were used for decoration. A triple-tiered wedding cake, decorated and topped with a miniature bride and a soldier, made by Miss Ame Jacobs, sister of the bride, was cut during the evening. Sandwiches, cake and punch were served.

During the evening the young couple left for a wedding trip. For traveling the bride wore a rose crepe dress; having a full skirt and a jacket with self trimmings. Her accessories were navy blue and her flowers were a corsage of orchids.

Mrs. Black is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. Ferdinand Jacobs. Her mother is the former Miss Ame Copeland, daughter of Mrs. George

A. Copeland and the late Mr. Copeland. She is a recent graduate of Converse college where she specialized in music and took an active part in campus affairs. She possesses unusual talent and sweetness of personality.

Mr. Black is the son of Mrs. Norman S. Black of York, and the late Mr. Black. His mother is the former Miss Lillian Faris. He is a graduate of Presbyterian college and for the past several years has been an executive of the Blue Ridge council, Boy Scouts, with headquarters in Greenville. A few months ago he was called into army service and is now stationed at Fort McClellan, Ala. Lieut. and Mrs. Black will make their home for the present at Jacksonville, Ala.

An improvised altar was effectively arranged before the living room mantel, banked with quantities of Easter lilies and fern. Tall seven-branched candelabra and floor baskets of white gladioli were arranged against a background of white. A golden mirror reflected the wedding scene.
