AROUND THE TOWN

Incidents, Unusual and Ordinary, Gathered On Our Rounds.

Friends of IRBY S. HIPPI, JR., of this city, will note with interest his recent promotion to the rank of corporal, in the marine corps. Cpl. Hipp, who has been in service since August, is now receiving technical training with the fleet marine force, New River, N. C.

CHANEY'S DRESS SHOPPE has been awarded the trophy for the best window displays for the month of January. The trophy, sponsored by the American Legion Auxiliary, is donated by Hamilton's, and in April will be given to the store having the best window displays for the past year. Honorable mention for the month was given Adair's Men's shop and J. C. Penney company.

A timely and clever advertisement has been placed in the local ration board office by a Whitmire ice and coal company. Printed on a cloth about the size of a face towel in bold letters are the following words:

"Crying towel. The first bozo that comes in belly-aching about the draft, rationing, war, or his income tax, hand him this and keep busy."

BARBARA ANDERSON, ALBERTA BALDWIN, CORNELIA HARRIS and JOY GODFREY made the Presbyterian Sunday school honor roll for the month of January.

GRADY McELHANNON, of the navy, has returned to his post in Norfolk, Va., after spending a five-day furlough with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. M. McElhannon, on South Broad street. He has just returned from a secret trip along with other members of his crew. Mrs. Carl Kinsey and daughter, of Columbia, were here for a brief visit with her brother during his leave. On Tuesday his parents invited a number of friends and relatives to dinner in his honor. Guests included Mr. and Mrs. Arthur McElhannon and son, Mr. and Mrs. Grady McElhannon and sons, Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Edwins and daughter, Miss Ruby McElhannon, Eugene Edwins, Buddy, Earl, Guy and Susie McElhannon.

The local U. D. C. chapter, like many other organizations, is sponsoring work for the Red Cross sewing room. Mrs. T. J. Leake president of the U. D. C., stated yesterday that one of their faithful and cherished members, MRS. JESSIE SPARKS, has already knitted ninety sweaters. Mrs. Sparks' health does not permit her to be active in many things, but seldom are her hands idle, and along with other handwork she has completed this large number of sweaters for boys in the service in the past two years.

Have you noticed the attractive Boy Scout display on the vacant lot next to the Associate Reformed Presbyterian church? It was made by scouts of troop 111 under the direction of Scoutmaster Hugh Eargle in observance of National Boy Scout week. The bridge, minus nails, was built by the boys of small logs with only the use of an axe and rope.

Two University of South Carolina classmates, each in command of a heavy surf boat, literally bumped into each other on the momentous morning of November 8, off the coast of Africa as the United States troops landed through a hail of bullets.

Ensign Robert C. Griffith of Columbia, was cruising around in his boat, dodging snipers and trying to get his ship unloaded when another surf boat nearly ran them down. They pulled up alongside to hold the boat off and it turned out to be "Scoop" League (ENSIGN PAUL LEAGUE of this city), Griffith's classmate at the University. Both League and Griffith were journalism students at Carolina and the former was editor-in-chief of The Gamecock in his senior year.

Letters from boys in service commending the work of the Red Cross have been an inspiration to many of the ladies in Clinton to assist locally with the sewing, knitting, contributions and work in general. PVT. HENRY M. YOUNG, JR., in service in Africa, writes home about receiving a Red Cross sweater and barracks bag and "just think," he says, "when these are gone I can have another just for the asking." LT. HUGH JACOBS tells of receiving a greatly appreciated sweater from the organization while in Ireland. LT. WILLIAM P. JACOBS also commented on what it means to the boys who are hospital patients to receive the attention and entertainment which the Red Cross gives.
