Teaching The Bible In Our High School

The last week's Chronicle presented the idea and general plan for accomplishing this end. As the financial support for this teaching—involves a teacher—is to be borne by the Christian people of Clinton, a canvass will be made in about a week.

A committee made up of representatives of our churches will map out the courses to be followed, and present to the school board several nominees from whom the board will choose one teacher who will measure up to the scholastic requirements.

Allow me to attempt to remove any confusion which may be in the minds of some as to the consistency of this plan with our ideas of the separation of church and state.

To begin with, remember that this is not a separation of antagonism but of cooperation. Neither does it imply that we are not a Christian nation. Our supreme court as well as many of our lower courts have decided that we are essentially a Christian nation; it is ingrained in the very fiber of our fundamental laws. On our coins we have stamped "In God We Trust," our congress and legislatures are opened with prayer to God for His Guidance. Our presidents and generals, from Washington down, have publicly and privately appealed to God for His guidance. Our state has thus through its whole history appealed to the church for its prayers to God.

Note a few of the many examples: "Resolved that the public schools exist to prepare our citizens for the duties of citizenship; and since moral and Christian elements are the supreme factors in good citizenship, therefore positive Bible morality ought to be carefully taught in our public schools."—The National Reform association which met in Harrisburg, Pa., just a few years ago.

In answer to an appeal by a Catholic priest to Judge James P. Harbison, of Kentucky, as to the right to teach the Bible in public schools, the judge dismissed the case of the plaintiff at his cost, and said, in unqualified terms, that the Bible is the foundation of all Christian government, and he sees no sectarianism in having it read in our public schools. Such decisions have been numerous, and have been sustained when appeal came before the supreme court of the U. S.

As a matter of fact, the Bible is our magna charta; our freedom has been founded on it, and on it alone can it be preserved. Carrying out its benevolent principles we have opened our doors to peoples who, apart from Bible teaching, had neither the grit nor the grace to either secure or maintain freedom. But our freedom must not become anarchy. And we will not allow our indigent guests to knock the foundations of our freedom from under our feet.

Allow me to quote from Prof. Huxley, the great scientist. As an agnostic, we may be sure that he was not prejudiced in favor of anything Christian. But he well expresses why so many of our secular educational

An interesting program has been planned and all members are asked to be present.

On Monday afternoon there will be a chicken supper at 6:00 o'clock. The proceeds will go for the completion of the Scout cabin.

Kiwanis Sponsors Local Drive For Children's Books

The residents of Clinton are fortunate to have such excellent library facilities for the public in general. However, we find ourselves woefully inadequate both in number and quality of books available for the very young children. Naturally, there were practically no books suitable for this age group in the college library. Numerous calls are now being made by eight, ten, and twelve year old boys and girls for "something to read." It is very disappointing to turn them away without anything, and worse still to give them unsatisfactory reading matter.

We want the best for our children. With this in mind, the Kiwanis club is making arrangements for a community-wide appeal to be made in the near future to remedy this need. The aim is to develop an excellent children's library. During this time of restricted travel, camp attendance, and similar activities, it is very important that we stimulate good reading habits among our younger generation. This can only be accomplished by providing attractively-printed and bound copies of wholesome literature and then guiding the reading of the boys and girls. Definite plans will be announced next week. It is hoped that the citizens of Clinton will strongly support this effort for community welfare. —ROBERT D. LYNN.

An unannounced blackout was held in the city Tuesday night shortly before 10 o'clock and lasting for 30 minutes. The city was in darkness for this period, as were a number of other towns and cities for the central state district of thirteen counties.

THE Marine Corps Women's Reserve releases trained Marines for combat duty. But they must, themselves, undergo training so rigorous that regular rest periods are allowed them. That's when the call goes up for ice-cold Coca-Cola...for the pause that refreshes.

Ice-cold Coca-Cola does more than just quench thirst. It brings a pleasant after-sense of refreshment. Delicious Satisfying! You know from experience that the only thing like Coca-Cola is Coca-Cola, itself.
