51,100 S. C. CITIZENS HOLD FEDERAL JOBS

Washington, Oct. 5.—Senator Maybank of South Carolina was today notified by the U. S. Civil Service commission that the state has a total of 50,100 federal employees, all told, in the regular departments of the government in Washington, in South Carolina, and other states, including the several thousand people employed in the Charleston navy yard.

Senator Maybank asked the Civil Service commission to advise him the number of South Carolinians employed by the government in view of the fact that agitation continues that many government employees are on government jobs when they should be in military or other war services.

The figures reveal that of South Carolina's total 42,000 are employed in the navy yards on war projects and in the postal service. President Mitchell of the Civil Service commission, gives the list as follows:

Navy department, 25,700; war department, 18,100; office for emergency management, 600; office of price administration, 600; post office department, 2,100; agriculture department, 1,700; treasury department, 200; federal security agency, 400; veterans administration, 400; all other agencies (less than 100 employees each), 300.

Pearl Harbor could take the credit currently; others, after the war.

If a refund device is approved by congress, Morgenthau suggested that the taxpayer be permitted to purchase with his rebate a fully paid-up insurance policy.

Morgenthau also proposed new social security taxes, although not making them a part of the current program and stipulating that "if payroll taxes are increased, the income taxes at that time be made substantially lower than I have suggested to avoid an excessive tax burden on the lower income groups."

On calls you must make, we'll appreciate your cooperation when the operator says—"Please limit your call to 5 minutes. Others are waiting."
