

CAROLINA PLANS FOR BIG GRID YEAR

Promising Material Entering the University this Fall.

Plans for a big gridiron season at Carolina are rapidly coming to a head and from the present outlook the Gamecocks will put a great team on the field. No less than two dozen of the leading preparatory school football players of the state have signified their intention of matriculating when the University opens its doors in September and practically all of these men will be on hand when the first practice is held on September 12.

From the present indications Sol Metzger will turn the work of coaching the line from tackle over to "Wop" McGowan, as McGowan, one of the greatest linemen Carolina ever produced, has proven his ability in making good on such an assignment. His work at the University of Virginia last fall stamped him as one of the leading line coaches of the country. Although the Virginia line was a light one it competed on equal terms with some of the heaviest and fastest teams in the country.

This will leave Metzger free to take charge of the work of the backs and ends. As a result Carolina can be depended upon to have one of the shiftest and fastest sets of backs in the country as Metzger is a stickler for speed and will put the same drive into the backs as he put into his line last fall. The latter, although light was perfectly able in two big games with Clemson and P. C. to put up a stonewall defense when threatened. One of the finest stands ever made in Carolina football happened in the P. C. game at the Augusta Fair last October. P. C. obtained a first down on Carolina's two-yard line but in four rushes was unable to pierce the Gamecock forwards.

Metzger will have far better material to work with this fall than a year ago. Both Gressette and Sizemore will be heavier than a year ago and they are ideal backs as each can run with the ball, kick or pass. Snipes will also fit in well with this combination because of his punting ability and fighting spirit. He is undoubtedly one of the best of the prospects the coaches are counting upon.

Another back who should make a name for himself on the Carolina eleven this fall is George Belk, the former P. C. star. Belk is of ideal build for a position as he stands six feet and weighs 185 pounds. He is ruggedly set up and a determined player. It is thought that he will give the old men a hard fight for a place on the crack team the Gamecocks expect to put on the field this year.

But the new men are the ones most counted on this fall. There are eight good backfield prospects already certain to enter Carolina and from this number there are sure to be at least one set of good backs. Metzger is evidently figuring on grooming two sets of backs for the big games and is likely to develop a swift running attack because of this. This is figured to be the way the team will be developed as he is assured of a big fast line to make openings. He will thus be able to employ two sets of backs in the big games, each as strong as the other. In this way fresh men will always lead the attack.

Metzger has written the Carolina authorities that the University of West Virginia team, now ranking as one of the strongest in the country, an eleven which he put on the football map, is anxious to have the Gamecocks play in Morganton this year as they figure the new Metzger aggregation will prove a great drawing card. But the Carolina schedule has been completed and nothing can be done for another year.

One of the most encouraging signs for the coming season is the interest displayed in Carolina football this early. From all indications Carolina will have more alumni back for the opening games than ever returned to any contests before except the Fair Week classic.

FEDERAL RESERVE TO AID IN MARKETING COTTON

In view of the vital importance of the problems incident to the harvesting and marketing of the coming cotton crop, the Federal Reserve Board today held a conference with the governors of the Federal Reserve Banks of Richmond, Atlanta, St. Louis, Kansas City and Dallas, the banks located in or brought in closest touch with the member banks in the cotton states, for the purpose of reviewing the credit situation in these states, and determining what further credit will be needed to facilitate the harvesting and orderly marketing of the crop.

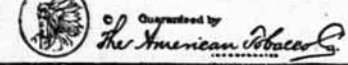

At the present time the five Reserve Banks in question are lending to their members $457,000,000, or more than 26 per cent of the loans of the entire system, the Richmond Bank borrowing from other Reserve Banks $20,000,000 and the Dallas Bank borrowing $16,000,000 for that purpose. The total loans of these five Reserve Banks to their member banks exceed their reserve deposits by $192,000,000, whereas the reserve deposits of the other seven Reserve Banks exceed their members by $118,000,000.

The amount now loaned by these Reserve Banks to their members is four and one-half times the amount borrowed at any one time by all the national banks of the country prior to 1914, or before the establishment of the Federal Reserve System.

The Federal Reserve Board and the Governors of the Federal Reserve Banks, in addition to credits already extended, are able and stand ready to extend further credit for the purpose of harvesting and marketing the coming crop, in whatever amount may legitimately be required, either directly to their member banks, or under a ruling now issued by the Federal Reserve Board, indirectly to non-member banks acting through the agency and with the endorsement of a member bank. These loans will be made by the Federal Reserve Banks upon notes, drafts and bills of exchange issued or drawn in accordance with the terms of the Federal Reserve Act and the regulations of the Federal Reserve Board, for the harvesting or orderly marketing of the coming cotton crop.

In order, however, that these rediscount facilities of the Federal Reserve Banks may be made fully effective it will be necessary that member banks in the cotton states place their loaning facilities freely at the disposal of cotton producers and dealers in their respective localities with the knowledge and assurance that the Federal Reserve Board and the Federal Reserve Banks recognize the urgency of rendering all proper assistance to these important interests during such abnormal times.

Mr. Meyer, Managing Director of the War Finance Corporation, who attended the conference, reviewed the activities of the War Finance Corporation in making loans for financing cotton for immediate and future export. Governor Strong, of the Federal Reserve Bank of New York, and representatives of certain New York member banks were also invited to the conference to discuss the necessity or advisability of having various commercial banks through the country establish a fund for the purpose of making loans upon cotton. In view of the conclusions reached by the conference as to the ability of the Federal Reserve Banks effectively to take care of all of the legitimate requirements of the cotton interests, it was felt that the establishment of such a fund at this is neither necessary nor advisable. Governor Strong stated, however, that he had received assurances from a number of important banking institutions in New York City that if the facilities now offered by the Federal Reserve Banks and the War Finance Corporation should prove to be inadequate, they will cooperate in the establishment of a cotton loan fund in whatever amount the situation might demand.
