PEACHES HELP IN SUMTER COUNTY

Clemson College Oct. 10.—The experience of H. C. McCaskill, a Sumter County farmer, with peaches shows what a side cash crop will do when properly handled and shows that peaches will do well on well selected land in that part of the state. With a falling cotton crop and the price of cotton below cost of production, Mr. McCaskill says that his orchard is the only thing that saved him in 1920 and that it has helped very materially this year, he having sold over $1000 worth of peaches in 1920 and over $500 worth in 1921. This in face of the fact that Mr. McCaskill threatened to cut down the trees two years ago when he came into possession of the farm and was persuaded with difficulty by County Agent J. E. Williams to leave them.

Mr. Williams had assisted the former owner in planting the orchard as a demonstration, and he is particularly pleased that the orchard has "demonstrated" in almost gratifying way. The fruit is marketed locally at very little expense or trouble, since the place is within a few miles of Sumter and most of the sales were made to people who drove out and bought at the orchard.

Many Sumter county farmers are considering growing peaches on a limited scale, and with careful selection of suitable land and varieties and proper attention to trees, there is excellent chance for success.

FOOT EXPERT NOW

IN CHERAW

Those Suffering From Defective Feet Have Them Examined Free at L. M. Evans Co.

As a rule one does not think about his feet until he has discomfort and pain and very few people ever realize to what great extent foot defects and foot pain can effect the most remote nerve and brain cells so as to influence the general health and bodily efficiency. The inefficiency and general strain due to uncomfortable and painful feet cannot be exaggerated, yet people go through life with foot troubles even believing that they are to be expected when as a matter of fact the feet should be perfectly comfortable. About nine adults in every 10 suffer more or less trouble with their feet. A vast majority of such foot troubles are capable of correction if only the proper scientific method is used. Your feet are entitled to your attention. Be fair to your feet.

Dr. Kelly, a foot expert of national reputation will be at the L. M. Evans Co., store today for the purpose of examining your feet free and to aid you in every way possible towards correcting any defects. Those suffering from defective feet would do well to consult him.

MEET IN CHERAW.

United Daughters of the Confederacy Hold First Fall Meeting.

Special to The State.

Cheraw, Oct. 11.—The first meeting of the Cheraw chapter of the United Daughters of the Confederacy since the summer vacation ended was held at the home of Mrs. L. C. Pirie Thursday afternoon. It will be of interest to the daughters of the state and the people generally to know that the portrait of Gen. Wade Hampton, in his uniform, authorized by their last state convention, and which is to hang in Lee Hall, Richmond, Va., is now an assured thing. Mrs. J. H. Kinsey, chairman of the state committee on securing the portrait, exhibited the picture from which the portrait is to be painted, and stated that after examining a number of bids the contract for painting it had been awarded to Miss Clara Strait, formerly of Lancaster, now of New York. The picture from which the portrait is to be made was furnished by General Hampton's daughter, Mrs. Tucker, of Virginia, and the money for it was contributed by the school children of the state in their "nickel campaign." The idea of replacing the small portrait of General Hampton in Lee hall with a life-size portrait that would reflect credit on the state originated in Cheraw, and full praise is due Mrs. Kinsey for the way in which she carried the effort to a successful conclusion.

Miss Claude Godfrey and Mrs. H. P. Lynch were appointed a committee on entertainment for the benefit of the of the Jefferson Davis movement.

The following officers were elected: Miss M. E. Duvall, president; Mrs. W.

Mesdames L. D. Harrall, L. C. Pirie, G. W. Martin, Misses Etta Powe, Julia McFarlan, Fannie and Elise Duvall attended the District Convocational meeting of the Woman's Auxiliary of the Episcopal Church in Bennettsville on Tuesday of this week.

Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Gray spent Sunday in Darlington.

WEEKLY COTTON LETTER.

(All inquiries answered promptly.)

There has not been much steam in the cotton market since our letter of October 4th was written. The demand has been limited but was sufficient to absorb all offerings on a basis of January for Middling. We are glad to report that there was also some demand for low grades. The Liverpool market has been too low, but in the face of this, English merchants bought in America this week, and exports continued on a large scale.

A great deal of distress cotton is now out of the way, and if holders refuse to sell liberally on dull markets like we have seen during the past week, there should be an advance to new high levels. Reactions are to be expected, and we must not let them discourage us. New York contracts are now over 2c per pound below the high point reached on October 3rd. We consider this a pretty healthy reaction and advise buyers to get all the cheap cotton available. Let's remember that the 1921 crop is sufficient for American mills only, leaving Europe to draw their needs from last season's surplus. Neither foreign nor American spinners have covered themselves, and even if they continue to buy on a hand to mouth basis we do not think the South will part with its cotton for much, if any, less than 20c to 25c. Savannah Cotton Factorage Co.

Extensive Forces Endorse Co-Operative Marketing of Cotton.

Clemson College, Oct. 8.—"Co-operative marketing of cotton must be one of our main goals this fall and next spring," declared W. W. Long, director of the Extension Service, in closing the annual meeting of the extensive forces here on Friday night, after the body had endorsed by unanimous vote the principle of co-operative marketing of farm products and pledged the active support of the entire Extension Service forces in the campaign now being put on in this state to organize the farmers for co-operative marketing of cotton. "We want the farmers of the state to realize that we know that the movement is one of the best and most important movements ever begun by and for our farmers," Mr. Long stated in making public the resolution passed by the Extension Service.

In this connection, it should be stated that a large place on the program of the annual meeting was given to the subject of co-operative marketing. Some of the discussions bearing on this subject were the following:

The Marketing of Truck Crops, by Lloyd S. Tenny, Assistant Chief, Bureau of Markets, U. S. D. A.

The Co-operative Marketing of Sweet Potatoes and Tobacco, by T. Benton Young, President of the S. C. Sweet Potato Association, and Secretary of the S. C. Tobacco Growers' Association.

The Co-operative Marketing of Cotton, by D. W. Watkins, Assistant Director of the Extension Service.

Preparation and Marketing of Products of Diversified Farming, by Roland Turner, Southern Railway Agricultural Department.

T. Thrower, first vice president; Miss Marie Lynch, second vice president; Mrs. P. B. Huntley, secretary and treasurer; Miss Etta Powe, registrar and historian; Mrs. J. H. Kinsey, assistant historian.

The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. H. P. Duvall.
