

WHY FARMERS SHOULD JOIN CO-OPERATING MARKETING ASSOCIATION

By D. W. Watkins, Assistant Director Extension Service.

1. Because most other lines of business are organized and competition eliminated in so far as it is injurious. This being the case, the unorganized business, such as selling farm crops by individual farmers, suffers the penalty naturally attaching to the most poorly conducted business in the country.

2. Because individual farmers can never hope to control the earnings of even the numbers of middlemen who work for them in distributing their crops.

3. Because individuals can not attain the perfection in grading, standardizing, and packing that is possible through co-operation. This frequently means that individual producers are unable to sell their commodities for anything near cost.

4. Because individual farmers can not hope to adjust marketing to the needs of the world so as to prevent "dumping." This means that crops cannot return full value to growers on account of the inevitable price cutting which goes with dumping.

5. Because some lines of farming cannot exist successfully without co-operative marketing, witness the fruit and truck growers all over the country.

6. Because co-operative marketing associations grade, standardize, and merchandise farm products and get for growers the market price less actual cost of operating the association.

7. Because co-operative marketing associations tend to stabilize farm conditions in the territory where they operate.

Tired

"I was weak and run-down," relates Mrs. Eula Burnett, of Dalton, Ga. "I was thin and just felt tired, all the time. I didn't rest well. I wasn't ever hungry. I knew, by this, I needed a tonic, and as there is none better than—

CARDUI

The Woman's Tonic

"... I began using Cardui," continues Mrs. Burnett. "After my first bottle, I slept better and ate better. I took four bottles. Now I'm well, feel just fine, eat and sleep, my skin is clear and I have gained and sure feel that Cardui is the best tonic ever made."

Thousands of other women have found Cardui just as Mrs. Burnett did. It should help you.

At all druggists.
