WEDNESDAY, OCTOBER 11, 1922.

Those who hold on to a job by their eyelashes are the first to be shaken loose when the rough road is reached. It takes a jolt or two to reveal who is and is not worth anything in the business. It is just here that skill and fidelity show up to advantage. When the business is going strong and the road is smooth there is the disposition to let it go at that. But when profits tumble, when things are shaky, it is time to look the machine over, see the weak parts and make sharp changes. The man who is really worth while will stay, if he so desires, and the indifferent and inefficient man will have to go.

We have long been considering the question of putting our subscription list on a cash basis. Working to this end we now have very few delinquent subscribers. It would work greatly to the advantage of the newspaper, and would not in the least hurt the subscriber. By November 1 we intend to go strictly upon a cash basis. It costs as considerable money to keep a man out collecting. The saving of this cost will be one step towards the attainment of our ultimate aim—a paper of eight pages with the full Associated Press news service. Such a paper would be worth much to Union and Union county. Will you not pay promptly now that the fall season is here?

If our memory serves us faithfully, Lloyd George is the only head of a great nation remaining in power since the great war. The enemies of this but it is by no means certain that they will get it. Time and again it has seemed that Lloyd George would be swept out of office, but as often as this has happened, he has managed to come out on top. He will win this time, also, for he is a profound thinker, and a shrewd politician. He has, moreover, the gift of being able to make others see things as he sees them. The English premier has made it plain that England will be as firm as adamant in the position taken. And his policy is far more likely to avoid war than would a vacillating policy. But it is possible that the opposition, by continual nagging, may bring about a change of government. But such a thing would be a calamity, it seems to us.

It is unfortunate that the sale of the street bonds has been halted, owing to the fact that no petition of the freeholders was ever presented to the city council, and now a second election must be held. This technicality has caused the would-be purchasers to turn down the bonds. Of course the matter can, and will be corrected. It is also true that the commissioners, being good business men, will find a way to go ahead with the work, if such a thing be possible. The commissioners have already made quite a considerable start. Much preparatory work has been done upon the streets, and we understand that several contracts for material have been let. There is nothing for us to do but sign up for an election and hold it just as soon as possible. The election recently held was carried overwhelmingly in favor of bonds, and the same thing will happen again. Not a day should be lost in putting through the second election. The fall months are upon us and it is the best season of the year to do the street work.

We want 400 acres planted in tomatoes for the cannery next spring. If we can get enough tomatoes to can twelve carloads we can make a reasonable profit for the stockholders. The indications are that we will have no difficulty in securing the 400 acres. In November we expect to begin making contracts. All those who were successful in growing tomatoes this year have signified their willingness to go even stronger the coming year. One thing that is clear to us now is that it is not necessary for the grower to be near Union. Some of the growers this year who were most successful live 10 to 14 miles from Union. We have not given out the idea of adding one or two products, but that will depend upon whether we can assemble sufficient capital. We now feel sure of being able to make a go of tomatoes. We do not propose jeopardizing the enterprise by undertaking to do the impossible—spread out without capital. Those prophets of evil who have, from the beginning, said the venture would fail, would, no doubt, be glad to see their prophecies come true. We intend to make them out lying prophets.

Somerville, N. J., Oct. 10 (By the Associated Press).—Nineteen-year-old Clifford Hayes, of New Brunswick, pleaded not guilty to murdering Rev. Edward Hall and Mrs. Mills and is held without bail for grand jury action.

Southern Railroad Stockholders Meet

Richmond, Va., Oct. 10.—Stockholders of Southern Railway company, at their 28th annual meeting today unanimously adopted the following resolution, which was introduced from the floor by Mr. Arthur C. Graves, of New Haven, Conn.:

"Resolved That we, the stockholders of the Southern Railway company, in annual meeting assembled, do hereby by take this occasion to express our complete confidence in the corporate management and control of the railway lines of this system and of the ability of this railway company to furnish to the communities and territory traveled by its lines a proper, efficient and economical transportation system at the lowest possible rates consistent with the proper maintenance and sound credit, when operated under the management of its president, the board of directors and its officers, and that to this end we believe a larger degree of managerial responsibility and discretion should be returned to and vested in the present board of directors and officers of this company free from the artificial restrictions of commission control and further, that it is to the best interest not only of the investing owners of the properties and the security holders, but also of the public and ship- pers in the way of reasonable rates, and of the operatives in respect of a proper standard of wages, and for a just settlement of industrial disputes, that the initiative of all matters of operation and management should be left to the sound judgment and business experience of the operating officers of this company."

Messrs. Kerr Branch of Richmond, Va., Adrain Isell, Charles Lanier and George T. Slade of New York were re-elected as directors to serve for three years.

The annual report for 1921 submitted by President Fairfax Harrison on behalf of the board of directors was approved and resolutions were passed ratifying all the acts of the board of directors during the year.

Held Charged With Statutory Crime

Mobile, Ala., Oct. 10.—Dr. C. E. Chapman, Dr. H. D. Havar, S. H. Bailey, a lawyer, and two other persons are held at police headquarters on the statutory charge following the alleged death bed confession of Mary Cavanaugh, 20, of Winfield, La., in which she charged that an illegal operation had been performed.

Asks This Lady, "That I'm a Believer in Cardui?"—Had Been So Weak She Had to Go to Bed.

Oswatimie, Kans.—Mrs. E. E. Keast, formerly of Illinois, residing here, says: "I moved to this state eleven years ago, and I had good health for a long while; and then some year or so ago I had a bad sick spell."

"I got so weak I couldn't go. I couldn't stand on my feet at all. I had to go to bed. I suffered a great deal. I was so nervous I felt I couldn't live. I tried medicines, and everything; had the best of attention, yet I wasn't able to get up. I lay for three months, not able to do anything."

"My husband is a bill poster and has circulars distributed. One day there came to be a Ladies Birthday Almanac among his circulars. I read it, and told some of the family to get me a bottle of Cardui."

"I quit all other medicines and took it (Cardui) faithfully, and two weeks from the time I began to take Cardui I was out of bed—better than for months."

"I kept it up and continued to improve until I was a well woman."

"Do you wonder that I am a believer in Cardui? I certainly am. And I am sure there is no better tonic made for women than Cardui."

The drought is at last broken. Friday at noon it began raining, and up to this time, Monday, we have had 2.81 inches. It has been so very dry that no plowing could be done that would be worth the time, and farmers think they are some behind on oat sowing. Certainly they are several weeks later at preparing land than they wanted to be. This may be best, after all, though. It has been dry over six weeks here, less than one inch of rain falling in that time. Late corn was greatly injured, sweet potatoes and late field peas made poor, and fall gardens ruined. But it has been fine for hay-making, and quite a large amount was made, and the general report is, it is of fine quality.

This is the first "season" here since August 20th.

Prof. Davis Jeffries and Mr. W. J. Jolly were here at the Baptist church Sunday as speakers on the movement recently started to reinforce the 75 Million Campaign. They both made good addresses, and several said that they enjoyed it; was glad they were there. Your correspondent was there and can vouch for how he enjoyed it. But he noticed that the congregation was not large. There must have been more than half of the membership absent. I do not know why no more interest was taken. It was a pretty, mild day, and fine for attending any kind of services at church after a strenuous week at home. It is a co-partnership business, and if it was right for some to stay away and from it then it was wrong for those others to go.

The health of our community is fine. We do not hear of any sickness.

Let me tell you something. My corn planted very late in the bottom, and so thoroughly soaked by a big overflow, and then two weeks of cloudy weather, has come out considerably, and while small, has quite a bit of plump little ears—like a little fat bird—but I am very much afraid that it is in danger of being caught by an early frost. If I could have a few more days of warm weather I think it will be ready to cut and shock. I hope it will, and then I will have quite a lot more of corn even if small, but I am getting awfully scared. I tried to be persistent in my efforts and kept "pecking" at it until I cleaned it out.

But the boll weevil didn't respect my persistence when directed to them, and as old Jim Knight—a negro man—used to say, they "nullified my exertions." Did it do as much for you?

I am trying to take up my peanuts today. They came up to a bad stand, and running out of seed, I replanted them in white peas, and got myself a lot of a job trying to get them from the peavines. And, too, I have one of the finest grass I raised this year, but wet weather, and boll weevils, have ruined it. If it is anything bad, lay it to the boll weevil.

Sunday afternoon and night was raining, the roads are muddy, that is our branch, or cross country roads; that are not worked much and then in just a jockey sort of way.

I attended the Baptist association held at Mon-Aetna church September 28th and 29th and I think I derived much good therefrom. One thing I enjoyed myself, and also that of hearing many good addresses, as there were several men of prominence there. I know that I learned much, and I will try to profit by it. I like to meet the people, and old friends at such places. I was entertained for dinner by Mrs. Hunsinger, and that was a pleasure as she was from this place, and we lived on the same "old plantation" when we were "children."

Then, too, she knows one of The Times correspondents, and I could hear from her even if she does seem to be on a long vacation.

Just to show what other people, "outsiders," think of one's home folks, and I saw an editorial "paragraph" that was so good, I think I will give it to you. It is an election aftermath, and was in the Memphis Commercial Appeal. Here it is: "The defeat of Cole Blaise in South Carolina seems to have brought about general rejoicing throughout the South. It may be said that the Palmetto State has pleased others by dis-bleasing itself."

Elaborate Program At State Fair

Columbia, Oct. 10.—One from next Monday the gates of the South Carolina State Fair will swing open and there will be presented to the public what promises to be the grandest exhibition in the history of the state. Every department will be crowded with exhibits and displays depicting the progress of our people. The entire fair grounds has been rearranged and presents a fine appearance with its new buildings, permanent walkways, flowers and shrubbery. The people generally are displaying unusual interest in the State Fair and record crowds are sure to attend.

The State Fair program is the most elaborate ever attempted. From the opening day, Monday, October 23, until the closing day, Saturday, October 28, unusual features are daily programmed. Officially the days have been designated as follows: Monday, October 23, Ladies' Free Day, featuring the laying of the corner stone of the new woman's building and the public reception to Mrs. Edith Vanderbilt; Tuesday, October 24, School Day, featuring football game between Greenville High and Columbia High; Wednesday, October 25, Agricultural Day, featuring a Veteran's Day, featuring special events in honor of the old soldiers; Thursday, October 26, Football Day, featuring Clemson-Carolina game; Friday, October 27, Naval and Circus Day, featuring Ringling Brothers and Barnum and Bailey Combined Circus; Saturday, October 28, Auto Race Day, featuring professional auto races.

In addition to the above, harness and running races are to occur the first five days on the new race track and some of the fastest horses campaigning have entered the 20 different races. Free circus acts will daily afford thrills and entertainment while each night a stupendous display of fireworks will be presented. Johnny J. Jones, with his aggregation of tented shows, will be on the Joy Plaza. The railroads are offering special excursion rates during the entire week of the State Fair, while for visitors traveling by auto the management has provided a large free parking ground. The gate admission this year has been reduced to 50 cents and with the myriads of attractions to be presented, attendance records are sure to be shattered.

Night Schools in Chester

One of the greatest undertakings of the Chester schools in recent years is the establishment of night schools as part of the system, which will not only be sustained by the state, but will actually bring in money in the way of state aid for the school system. This, however, is not the main thing accomplished, as the establishment of the schools means the opening of a new era in the lives of hundreds of individuals, who from one cause or another have been denied even the rudiments of an education, but now thanks to the presence of these institutions will yet be able to know the joy of being able to read and write and have an interest in the things that interest educated men and women. It is wonderful in some instances how men and women, even those up in years, are able to master the rudimentary branches. With an interest and eagerness that have been merely held down, not destroyed, by the years of ignorance and darkness, they take hold most surprisingly, and in many instances in an almost incredibly short time are reading as well as writing. They have enjoyed much more ample opportunities.—Chester Reporter.
