DR. M. W. CULP PRESENTS QUESTIONS TO THE CITY CLERK.

Answers to the Same Received--Information Furnished by Mr. W. D. Arthur Town Clerk.

How much money was in the town treasury when Macbeth Young's administration began?

Answer: About June 15th, 1900 our cash book called for $1,214.00.

What was amount of indebtedness?

Answer: Floating indebtedness was about $10,000.

During whose administration was the back taxes due by Union Cotton Mills paid, and what was the amount?

Answer: J. H. Rodger, and on June 3rd, 1899 $6,700 was paid.

What amount of money was in the town treasury when the McNally administration commenced and what was the indebtedness of the city?

Answer: About June 15th, 1901, our cash book called for $1,629.29 and the floating indebtedness was about $15,000. (By way of explanation the town put down cement pavements at a cost of approximately four to five thousand dollars, and also had to take about $6,000 from current funds to pay deficiency on the sewerage.)

Can you tell me the present indebtedness of the city?

Answer: About $33,000 floating indebtedness. (We have succeeded in selling $25,000 4 1-2 per cent Liquidating Bonds to S. A. Keen, Chicago, and the form of the bond is now being prepared by their attorneys, and as soon as completed and can get the bonds lithographed and signed up, we should realize the money on them to reduce present indebtedness. Some $5,000 has been drawn from our general fund during present administration to pay for rights of way &c., for the U. & G. S. R. R. This will come back into the treasury in time from taxation on said R. R.

Can you tell me whether Mayor Young ever pledged his private property to raise money in behalf of the city, or did he ever endorse papers for the same purpose? If he had ever done so, would not the clerk know it?

Answer: Mayor Young was never called upon to do this, and never did either. Had he done so, the clerk would have known.

Below, I give you a memorandum of bonded indebtedness:

Water and Lights	$40,000	6 per c.
Filter	12,000	6 per c.
Sewerage	35,000	4 1/2 per c.
Total	$87,000

Adding $25,000 now in course of valuation, will give us a total of $112,000 bonded indebtedness.

If the above does not cover the ground, I will gladly furnish any further information in my knowledge. Yours respectfully,

W. D. ARTHUR,
Clerk and Treas.

ANOTHER NEW RAILROAD.

Organization of The Cherokee, Union and Spartanburg Railroad.

The above is an item of news that will doubtless be of interest to the citizens of Gaffney and surrounding country. It will be remembered that the Legislature of South Carolina at its session of 1905 granted a charter for the building of this road. Until recently but little has been done to promote this enterprise. On last Wednesday, however, there was a meeting of the incorporators held in Gaffney at which time an organization was effected by electing the following board of directors: A. N. Wood, T. E. Moore, J. C. Otts, T. B. Butler and W. C. Hamrick.

Subsequently the board of directors held a meeting and elected A. N. Wood President and Treasurer, and W. C. Hamrick, Vice President and Secretary. T. B. Butler and J. C. Otts were elected attorneys with instructions to begin at once securing rights of way for the proposed road along two or more routes between Gaffney and the North Carolina line off the north and west side of Gaffney, also south and east of it.

The purpose is to build a railroad from Gaffney to some point on the North Carolina line connecting there with an outlet through the mountains of North Carolina, Tennessee and Virginia, and from Gaffney south to the coast.

The above which was given The News from an official source speaks for itself, and at once presents to Gaffney and Cherokee county a proposed enterprise of such an inestimable value that it appeals to all our interests and demands the individual support of every man in Cherokee county.

H. C. Tilden, a prominent member of the San Francisco relief committee, was shot to death while riding in his automobile, by men supposed to be members of the citizens' patrol.

"DAMON AND PYTHIAS"

Words of Commendation for the "Damon and Pythias" Production.

Mr. Edouard D'Oize, who is directing the production of "Damon and Pythias" which is to be given in Union on Wednesday, May 2, under the auspices of Cherokee Lodge No. 37, Knights of Pythias, relates an interesting story of a singular coincidence, which occurred while he was playing in the play with Mr. Edwin Ferry some years ago. At the end of the play, the three leading characters, Damon, Pythias and Dionysius, form a triangle, which is symbolic of the order of Pythianism, by placing their hands each upon the other's shoulder. The three parts were played respectively by Messrs. Ferry, Collins and Buckler, whose initials were also the initials of the words, "Friendship, Charity and Benevolence," the principles of the order. Mr. Collins was called to his home, and his place in the cast was filled by Mr. Carroll, who was shortly afterwards replaced by Mr. Claxton, so the F. C. B. was present throughout the entire season.

The following is from the Daily Press of Newport News, Va.:

"The amateur production of Bannin's beautiful drama, redolent of past glories of Greece, and permeated by love and friendship fit to challenge the admiration of the world, at the Academy of Music, last evening, was creditable, and the enjoyment of the splendid audience which filled the house, was manifested in liberal applause."

"As Damon, Mr. Edouard D'Oize under whose supervision the drama was produced, made a distinct hit. He rendered the difficult blank verse perfectly, and his transition from patriotic fervor to paternal and consubstantial tenderness, showed a versatility and depth, which surprised some who had seen Mr. D'Oize's work under less favorable circumstances."

"The cast was well balanced, and the production was a creditable one in every respect. Many persons left the theatre with a new conception of the meaning of Pythian Friendship."

"The play was given under the auspices of the Warwick Lodge No. 72, Knights of Pythias."

A Campobello Woman Missing.

On Sunday night T. W. Johnson and his wife retired at the usual hour. After having been in bed for some time they were disturbed by the barking of their dog, the animal acting as though some one was about the premises. Johnson got out of bed and made a careful search, but saw no one. Returning to his bed, he soon fell asleep and dreamed a most distressing dream. When he awoke he called to his wife and reached over in the bed to give her a gentle shake to awake her, that he might relate the dream. To his utter surprise and horror he found that his wife was gone. Jumping from the bed, he made a close search of the house and out-houses and, failing to find Mrs. Johnson, he returned to his room and dressed and started on a tour of investigation. He called at the houses of several neighbors, told them of his strange and distressing dream and the disappearance of his wife. The neighbors joined in the search for the woman, but no trace of her was found. Johnson says that he is of the opinion that she has eloped with another man.
