W. H. BURRIS.

A GRAND SONG.

By Mrs. Cunyus, Daughter of Mrs. Barsie Jones, of Union.

At the recent convention of Georgia Baptists was enacted a scene that will interest Union people. The convention met at Cartersville, Ga., the home of the late Rev. Sam Jones. A motion was made that the Baptists place a memorial window in the new Methodist church, in memory of Rev. Sam Jones.

Hon. W. J. Neel, a prominent attorney of Cartersville, describes the subsequent events in the following way:

"I cannot describe in words the thrill of genuine enthusiasm that shot through the great convention when the idea of this memorial window was presented by Will Upshaw. One could feel it, but cannot describe it. We were sitting in the shadow of the beautiful memorial window placed in the Baptist church by Sam Jones sacred to the memory of his Baptist brother Joe. It had been looked upon and admired by thousands who in their hearts were wishing that some return could be made, and when the suggestion came from the generous and devoted heart of 'Earnest Willie' it was like apples of gold in pictures of silver.

"Then Rev. Alex W. Bealer rose and in his graphic way painted a word picture of the baptismal scene when he led Joe Jones into the water, just a few weeks before his death, and how a little later he had suggested the idea of this memorial window to the Rev. Sam Jones, which he had accepted and executed with such generous promptness, placing in the Baptist church a window in rich colors representing down and John the Baptist for the baptismal scene.

"The great congregation could scarcely wait for Bealer to close to rise in generous approval of the proposition. This memorial window will be placed by the Baptists of Georgia in the Methodist church of Cartersville as a testimonial of their love for Sam Jones.

"It was fitting also that this scene, so striking, so unique and so pathetic, should be followed by a song from Mrs. Annie Laurie Cunyus, the sweet throated daughter of Rev. Joe Jones. A hush fell on the great throng as she came forward, in response to the tender invitation of the presiding officer of the convention. She sang 'Will There be Any Stars in My Crown?' Her soul was in the song. Her voice was touched with tremulous emotion. Her eyes were wet with swelling tears. Her face was shining with a soft radiance. It was a scene and a setting to be long remembered. One might live an hundred years and attend no more again.

"And the song will not be forgotten. The singer and the song were merged into one. There are times when we forget ourselves and our surroundings; when heaven opens and we get glimpses and voices from a land that is fairer than this. I cannot tell you just how it was, but a spell fell upon singer and upon us and as the music rose and swelled and swept in sweetness and softness through the beautiful church there were tears and smiles and shining faces everywhere. Heaven was very near."

Mrs. Cunyus is the eldest daughter of the late Rev. Joe J. Jones, and a step-daughter of Mrs. Barsie Jones, of this city.

Gen. Youmans Dead.

Attorney-General Leroy F. Youmans died at his home in Columbia last Monday morning. His health had been in a feeble state for some time but he was thought to be recovering; his death was a sudden shock.

Gen. Youmans became attorney-general upon the death of Co. U. N. Gunter last year, and was this year a candidate for the position. He was seventy-three years old.

Mice Set Bureau Afire.

Saturday, Dec. 3.—A few nights ago Mr. Charner Stevens was awakened to attend one of the children, and just in time to discover a blaze of fire in a bureau drawer, burning slowly; but when the drawer was hastily drawn entirely out, the contents blazed rapidly. In this drawer matches were kept, and they think that mice must have struck a match. Indeed, Mrs. Stevens thinks she heard the match strike a few moments before she got up.

SKELETONS OF GIANTS.

Bones and Curios of Pre-historic Race May Be Exhibited at Jamestown Exposition.

Norfolk, Va., Dec. 5.—What archaeologists declare will solve the mystery surrounding the ancient mound builders was discovered recently in one of a series of hills along the Illinois river, in that State. The "find" shows traces or handicraft of past ages, and the bones of those who wrought it. Several skeletons were exhumed more than eight feet long, also pieces of remarkable pottery, beads and curious implements. Under the bones of the ancient dead were found vases, the largest of which are capable of holding more than two gallons, while under a skull was unearthed a bowl in the center of which is a well-fashioned figure of a king, seated upon a crude throne. It is believed by scientists that these bones may be those of a great leader of the race that once ruled this portion of the country.

Strangest of all the articles found with the bones were implements that are apparently made of bamboo, some of them evidently shaped for weaving. Countless beads were found in the mound of a strange material almost white, and possibly made from the best of potter's clay.

Another interesting and curious "find" is a shell-shaped dish with a wolf's head, the work on which leaves no doubt that it was carved, even the teeth of the wolf gleaming from it, and as exquisitely executed as some of the ivory carving of the Japanese.

Thousands of persons are being attracted to the scene of excavations. The soil of the mound has never been disturbed and to this fact is attributed the marvelous preservation of the things taken from it.

Eminent archaeologists are unanimous in the opinion that the mound is a prehistoric burying ground, greater in extent and more perfectly preserved than any yet discovered, and is a valuable contribution definitely settling many mooted points.

An effort is being made not only to secure this remarkable "find" in its entirety for the Jamestown exposition, but the results of investigations determining the history of this rare and extinct race of people.

New Teacher at West Springs.

West Springs, Dec. 3.—It seems that Union county is the seat of incendiarism; barns are being destroyed without the need of a match. The house will be burned from over his head.

Well, the price of cotton has gone up; but there is but very little to sell from this section. The cotton crop is certainly very short, while corn on uplands is fairly good.

Mr. Thomas Hollis, of Cross Keys, visited relatives here on Thanksgiving day.

The hot supper given at the West Springs hotel proved quite a success. Over $50 was cleared.

Mr. and Mrs. W. P. Bogan visited relatives at Dutchman on Sunday.

Rev. J. R. Funderburk filled his appointments at Putnam and West Springs on Sunday. Bro. Funderburk is an excellent preacher, and draws excellent crowds to hear him.

Mr. Haze Webber, of Jonesville, attended the preaching service at West Springs on Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Williams, of Converse, S. C., spent Saturday and Sunday visiting relatives here.

Miss Flora High, of Jonesville, takes charge of the primary department of the school here today. Miss High comes well recommended and will no doubt give satisfaction. The school is well attended.
